Halt To U.S. Underground Nuclear Testing Ordered

CLOSE TO $1 million in stolen travelers checks and $15,000 in counterfeit $100 bills (center of table) is displayed by Wesley Grapp, special agent in charge in Miami, Fla., which was recovered Saturday when the FBI arrested Robert Napoli and Michael Rosa, both of Miami. Grapp said the two men planned to dispose of the checks and counterfeit money in Brazil. (AP Wirephoto)

TWO ARRESTED

Officers Recover Stolen $1-Million

MIAMI (UPI) — FBI agents arrested a butcher and a real estate man here Saturday on charges of trying to trade over $1 million worth of stolen money orders and counterfeit money for diamonds in Brazil.

Wesley G. Grapp, in charge of the Miami FBI office, said Robert Napoli, 51, of Coral Gables, married and the father of four children, and Michael Rosa, 33, of Miami were being held under temporary bond of $25,000 each.

They were to be arraigned Monday afternoon.

RECOVERED

The FBI said it had recovered about $1 million in money orders stolen Dec. 28 from the Travelers Express Company at Jersey City, N. J., and about $15,000 worth in bogus bills.

The counterfeit money and the money orders were in $100 denominations, the FBI said, and the money orders were negotiable.

"They were prepared so that you could walk in and sign your own name and cash them," an agent explained.

The FBI did not disclose whether Napoli and Rosa were the men who actually stole the money orders, or whether they manufactured the false money themselves.

Grapp said Napoli, a dark-haired man with a receding hairline, was arrested somewhere in Miami, but not at his home.

Rosa was picked up at Miami International Airport as he stepped off a plane from Brazil, where he had been arrested by Brazilian police Jan. 24 and charged with possessing the $15,000 worth of bogus bills and also with carrying a gun.

The FBI said Brazilian police sent him back to this country.

2 Boy Scouts Credited With Saving 3 Lives

TAMWORTH, N.H. (AP)—Two Boy Scouts dragged their delirious scoutmaster and two younger boys out of a fire-ravaged lodge Saturday and were credited with saving the lives of all three.

Edward Ledwak and Edward McDonald, both 14, from Boston's Brighton section, twice went back into the blazing ruins of the isolated lodge to rescue two scouts and Scoutmaster James Callahan, 23, who were trapped by smoke and flames.

The explosion and fire which wrecked the cabin erupted after one of the scouts put a flammable liquid into a wood stove to perk up a fire in near-zero weather, Fire Chief Charles Remick said.

Ledwak and McDonald dashed out of the lodge along with William Penson, 11, and John Linehan, 15.

"We got outside,' Ledwak said, "Then we heard somebody yell, 'I'm in here,' " It was John Rafferty, 13.

Japan Warned On Sub Visits

TOKYO (UPI)—A Moscow radio broadcast beamed to Japan warned Saturday that peace in Southeast Asia and the Far East would be threatened if Japan allows U. S. nuclear submarines to visit Japanese ports.

The recent American request to allow nuclear submarines not carrying Polaris missions to put into Japanese ports already has started a heated debate in parliament.

BY U.S. CHAMBER

Tax Reduction Plan Is Said Unbalanced

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Chamber of Commerce termed President Kennedy's tax reduction and revision program unbalanced Saturday and said it offers a bleak prospect for economic growth.

The chief complaint was that too much emphasis is put on consumer spending, at the expense of incentives for investments that will create jobs and expand production.

"We do not believe that the President's tax program will accomplish its stated objective to 'step up the growth and vigor of our national economy', 'increase job and investment opportunities', and 'improve our productivity' ", a statement of the chamber's board of directors declared.

On the contrary, it said that "Unless the Congress changes the main thrust and emphasis in the President's tax revision proposal, the prospect for national growth—new investment and job opportunities—based on tax incentives is bleak indeed."

The chamber was the first major business organization to take a stand on the tax measure since Kennedy submitted it to Congress Thursday with a top priority tag.

The bill calls for a net tax reduction of $10.2 billion yearly over a three-year period, with cuts of $13.6 billion being offset to the extent of $3.4 billion by revenue-raising revisions in the tax structure.

Kennedy said it was designed to put new growth and vigor into the nation's economy, but Ladd Plumley, the Chamber of Commerce's president, said it "will not do the job of achieving a good lift in the economy."

Plumley, a Worcester, Mass., insurance executive, read the chamber's statement at a news conference and then answered questions.

The chamber came out last year for a tax cut of $8.6 billion as an economic stimulant, even if it created a temporary deficit in the federal budget, but it urged an accompanying reduction in spending.

RELENTLESS WINTER

Nation Is Still In Frigid State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Relentless winter kept the bad-weather throttle open Saturday, driving more cold southward into the Great Plains and barbing a moderating trend in the East with snow and freezing rain.

Hazardous driving warnings were issued for a large area extending from north-central Texas northeastward through the Tennessee Valley and much of the Ohio Valley.

Heavy snow warnings went out for much of eastern Illinois and northern Indiana. Four or more inches of new snow atop already snow-packed roads was expected with lesser amounts northward into southern lower Michigan.

141 DEATHS

The siege of severe weather, blamed for at least 141 deaths since last week, showed no signs of relenting in the winter weary midcontinent.

Overnight temperatures ranged far below zero in Montana, North Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Iowa, northwestern Illinois, Michigan and Maine. And the Chicago Weather Bureau said a low-pressure weather system developing over the central Ohio Valley was expected to draw arctic cold deeper into the nation's midlands.

Overnight low temperatures Saturday included Bemidji, Minn., -28; Wausa, Wis., -28; Marfquette, Much., -24; Minneapolis-St. Paul -22; Bismarck, N.D., -21; Freeport, Ill., -18; North Platte, Neb., -17; Helena, Mont., -14.

Soviet Ship Reported In Cuban Port

Authorities Say Vessel Carried Military Cargo

WASHINGTON (AP)—An intelligence summary circulating among top U.S. officials reports a Soviet ship carrying a "significant amount of military cargo" docked last week in Cuba.

The vessel identified as the Simferopol, is the only one which has put in at a Cuban port with a "significant amount" of military equipment since last fall's crisis, the report says—backing President Kennedy's contention.

Further mirroring the President's view, the report says that while the ship's cargo included military equipment "it did not include objects with the proportions of an offensive aircraft or missile."

SENATE PROBE

The status of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's arsenal was the subject of one Senate inquiry last week and of another Senate probe in the making. Several senators, primarily Republicans, contend Soviet military power in Cuba is increasing dangerously.

At his news conference Thursday, Kennedy said "the best information we have is that one ship has arrived since the October crisis, which may have had arms on it, possibly military cargo, but there has not been a military buildup in that sense of the equipment coming in from outside of Cuba. . ."

The intelligence report left no doubt that the Soviet Union has assembled very heavy conventional firepower in Cuba but asserted that aside from the ship which arrived Jan. 17 the buildup was achieved between last July and last October.

Plane Contract Signed Despite Strong Protest

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department formally signed the controversial TFX fighter plane contract only a couple of hours after Sen. John L. McClellan strongly requested deferral pending inquiry by Senate investigators, it was learned Saturday.

The contract currently involves about $62 million worth of research and development on a plane for use by both the Air Force and the Navy. Eventually it is expected to embrace about $6.5 billion worth of plane purchases.

The staffs of two Senate subcommittees have been looking into the award. It is expected to be the topic of early hearings before the Senate Investigations subcommittee headed by McClellan, D-Ark., the Senate's top investigator.

The contract was awarded jointly to Convair division of General Dynamics Corp. and Grumman. The selection process had been narrowed to a pair of proposals. A plan submitted by Boeing was rejected.

Glazed Roads Are Predicted In Area Today

The weatherman waggled a warning finger at northeast Louisiana motorists cautioning them to drive carefully as he predicted freezing drizzle and ice glazed roads early today.

But the prediction hinged on precipitation which had failed to materialize from heavy, moisture-laden clouds hanging over the area late Saturday night. The drizzle, if any, was expected to end early today, the weatherman said.

Today, in the Twin Cities area the sun is predicted to chase away the dank clouds with the forecast calling for partly cloudy skies. But the sun's kiss on the Twin Cities will lack warmth as the high in only expected to struggle up somewhere near 28 to 34 degrees. Tonight the mercury will descent to 18-22 degrees.

Saturday the thermometer stood at 36 degrees at 1 and 2 p.m. for the high. By late Saturday night the mercury dropped only six degrees for a low of 30 degrees with 22-25 degrees predicted.

Northerly winds of 12-18 miles per hour will knife through the area today. Monday's outlook is

Col. Glenn Is Assigned To Moonshot

HOUSTON (UPI) — Lt. Col. John Glenn, the first American astronaut to orbit the earth, was assigned Saturday to pioneer the supreme effort in the U.S. space program—the moonshot.

A spokesman for the Manned Spacecraft Center announced new assignments for the original seven astronauts and nine new astroauts. He specified that assignment of an astronaut to a project does not imply that he will pilot the spacecraft involved.

Glenn, therefore, will not necessarily pilot the first spacecraft rocketed toward the moon in the Apollo project.

RENDEZVOUS

Maj. Virgil Grissom was assigned to Project Gemini—a rendezvous in space between two spacecraft as a prelude to the moonshot.

Maj. Gordon Cooper Jr., has the assignment as pilot of the spacecraft that will undertake 16-22 orbits of the earth. This shot is tentatively set for April 2. Cmdr. Alan B. Sheppard Jr., will be Cooper's backup pilot.

Lt. Cmdr. Scott Carpenter will cover the lunar excursion module of the Apollo moonshot project. Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra will specialize in overall operations and training.

The lunar excursion module project is a plan to explore the moon in a small spacecraft taken to the vicinity of the moon by a big spacecraft.

Assignments of the astronauts to the assignments does not imply that they will pilot the spacecraft in the projects, the spokesman said. An exception would be Cooper and Sheppard, assigned to the 16-22 orbit shot. Crews will be selected before each flight.

There were seven original Mercury astronauts. The seventh is Maj. Donald K. Slayton. Because of a heart murmur, he was named last September as coordinator for astronaut activities for the manned space center. He will maintain overall supervision of astronaut duties.

HERE MARCH 2

Appreciation Set For Paul Martin

Special tribute will be paid March 2 to Paul Martin, veteran sports editor for the Monroe News-Star and Morning World.

Martin's long career on the newspaper has been filled with unpublicized deeds — big and small — to thousands of people in northeast Louisiana, most of them connected in the field of sports.

At 7 p.m. on the night of March 2 hundreds of Martin's friends will meet at Westminister Recreation Center in Monroe and pay due tribute to his many good deeds. His friends from throughout Louisiana, and particularly the northeast part of the state, will be welcome to attend.

'AN HONOR'

A group met during the past week and named Jack Hesketh, director of the Monroe Recreation Department, chairman of the affair. "I consider the assignment an honor," said Hesketh, a long time acquaintance of Martin.

Many of the details were worked out at the first meeting but other planning sessions will be held Monday at 3:30 p.m. at the Ouachita National Bank.

Persons interested in assisting in helping to organize the tribute to Martin are invited to attend the meeting Monday, Hesketh said.

At the first meeting of the group, it was agreed that funds for the barbecue and other expenses connected with the salute to Martin would be raised through the sale of $3 tickets as well as contributions. Persons contributing toward the cost of the affair will have their name entered on a scroll to be presented to Martin on the night of the banquet.

Mail contact for tickets, contributions or information may be secured by writing to: Paul Martin Appreciation, Ouachita National Bank, Monroe, Louisiana.

Martin, who has been with the Monroe newspapers for a total of 39 years has spent the last 34 years as a member of the news and sports staff. Prior to that time he spent five years with the circulation department.

BETTER THAN SOME

Experts Say Cold Climate Is Healthy

GENEVA (AP) — The U.N. World Health Organization says it's just as normal to live in the cold polar areas as in other parts of the world, and in some respects healthier.

It says the cold of the arctic and antarctic requires no special diet, no extra food, extra fats or proteins. A few layers of fur provide just as much warmth as a well-heated house.

These are some of the conclusions by a group of cold climate health experts, published in the organization's monthly magazine, World Health. Its publication coincided with one of the toughest cold waves the world has known in 20 years.

The report says the birth rate is high and infant mortality is low in the arctic and antarctic. For this reason and because of the influx of workers to exploit natural resources, the population of these areas—which occupy about one-quarter of the globe—is quickly rising.

Who says that, for instance, the Eskimos, some of whom still prefer snow houses and tents to more modern buildings, "love their cold and lonely world, whatever the white man may think of it.

"But fewer and fewer follow the old way of life. In one generation the arctic has jumped from dog team and reindeer to air transport, from the Stone Age to the nuclear age."

The report says it is not hunger that kills in the polar areas, but very often accidents. It says that in Alaska, for instance deaths from accident, alcoholism, suicide and murder exceed the total from any other group of causes in all categories of the population.

The experts say popular ideas about the effect of cold on health generally are wrong. "It seems that cold does not cause fillings to drop out of teeth, for example," the report states.

Nor do low temperatures kill bacteria. In fact, the experts say cold is an effective preservative: "Living viruses can be found in the frozen bodies of men who died centuries ago."

Move To Aid Current Ban Negotiations

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Kennedy Saturday ordered a temporary halt to U. S. underground atomic testing in Nevada to create a more favorable atmosphere for current negotiations with the Russians on a nuclear test ban treaty.

The chief executive stressed, however, that his directive to the Atomic Energy Commission was not a long-term moratorium such as the Russians violated with a long series of atmospheric tests in the fall of 1961.

"We are maintaining the capability and readiness to resume our test program at any time," his statement said. "We have no intention of again accepting an indefinite moratorium on testing, and if it is clear we cannot achieve a workable agreement, we will act accordingly."

TALKS CONTINUE

The President said the Nevada tests would be postponed while U. S., Russian and British representatives continue exploratory treaty negotiations.

Four days of talks ended here Friday. Another round was scheduled to resume in New York Tuesday. A full-fledged nuclear test ban conference is slated to reopen Feb. 12 in Geneva where years of previous negotiations proved futile.

Cautious hope that progress might be in sight was stirred recently by disclosure of a series of letters between Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev on the dangers of the nuclear arms race.

Khrushchev offered for the first time to allow two or three internation inspections a year on Soviet soil to check against cheat underground explosions. Seismic boxes would be used. But Kennedy has insisted on an earlier

Longshoremen Resume Work To End Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Longshoremen trooped back to the docks in East and Gulf Coast ports Saturday in the end of a 34-day strike—the Atlantic's longest and costliest.

A local dispute that had delayed the return at Norfolk, Va., was settled at noon and one that was holding up resumption of work at Mobile, Ala., was settled shortly thereafter.

The docks were humming with thousands of longshoremen collecting time and a half overtime pay for working on a Saturday.

The strike was settled on the basis of a formula proposed to employers and the International Longshoremens Association by a special board appointed by President Kennedy and headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

More than 16,000 longshoremen reported on the New York waterfront to work 127 ships clogged at 74 piers. Passengers arriving aboard the liner Italia from a Nassau cruise were the first in more than a month who did not have to carry their luggage ashore.

Ports where men were back on the job included Philadelphia, Baltimore, Portland, Maine; Florida ports and New Orleans, the latter the largest on the Gulf Coast.

CLINICS ESTABLISHED

Ouachita Parish Polio Program Plans Outlined

Establishment of 29 public school [illegible] in Ouachita Parish's mass polio immunization program for Feb. 10 was announced Saturday by the Parish Medical Society and the Monroe Jaycees.

Dr. R. E. Kelly, medical chairman of the Monroe-Ouachita Area Jaycees, said "today we are [illegible] to four other parishes surrounding us have requested that we [illegible] on the same date."

Dr. Kelly named the other parishes as Franklin, West Carroll, Morehouse and Richland. He said [illegible] medical teams in other parishes get in touch with the Jaycees chairman if they want to participate.

"We can provide them with the vaccine and include them in our overall planning," he said. Dr. Kelly urged all parishes in Northeast Louisiana to join the program.

ORAL VACCINE

The program aims to wipe out polio in Northeast Louisiana. Sabin oral vaccine from Wyeth Laboratories will be used. It is colorless, odorless and is administered on a cube of sugar.

The State Board of Health earlier this month reported Louisiana had 33 cases of polio during 1962. Two of these were in Ouachita Parish. Other parishes reporting cases included Franklin, Richland, Caddo and Bossier. All three types were reported, with types one and three being the most prevalent.

"It is our hope that all polio and resultant suffering can be eliminated from our area through use of the oral vaccine," Dr. Kelly said.

Persons who have received Salk polio shots are themselves probably immune from the disease, especially if they have had boosters for the [illegible] shots. But even so, doctors say, these persons still are carriers of the polio germ.

"With the oral vaccine, patients are not only immune from polio, but they no longer are carriers of the disease," Dr. Kelly said.

Hundreds of persons will be needed to operate the 29 clinics, exact location of which will be announced later. At least one medical doctor will be in each clinic, along with pharmacists, pharmacy students, nurses and lay personnel.

The clinics will open at 12 noon on Sunday, Feb. 10, and will close at 5 p.m. Persons taking the vaccine are urged to come as early as possible.

There is no charge for the vaccine, but each person will be asked to donate 25 cents to help defray costs. Dr. Kelly emphasized, however, that no persons will be turned down.

Type one of the vaccine will be issued on the first Sunday, Feb. 10. Type two will follow on March 31, and Type three will be issued on May 19.

Heart Fund Sets Campaign Here During February

The Feb. Heart Fund campaign will be held here during February only, chairman Jim McDuffie has announced.

Events of the drive are a breakfast and coffee on Feb. 4, Business Days for the Heart Fund on Feb. 4-9, a bowling tournament on Feb. 4-9, a television program on Feb. 25, a balloon ascension Feb. 9-16, and Heart Sunday on Feb. 24.

Heart March planned with Heart Sunday, will be a short, but important affair on Feb. 24 when volunteers will canvass their neighborhoods for contributions. Merchants in the north Monroe, Bastrop and Eastern will cooperate the downtown committee in that area, and nothing shopping districts to give the business organizations a special opportunity to join the fight against heart and blood vessel disease.

"More citizens of our nation and our state each year die of the diseases of the heart and circulatory system than of all other causes of death combined," McDuffie pointed out today, adding that 20 million Americans, including 500,000 children, suffer from some form of these diseases.

He also observed that in addition to causing pain and suffering, the cardiovascular diseases often inflict serious financial hardships on homes and businesses. This, he added, is true also in Ouachita Parish.

McDuffie called the Heart Fund "the nation's Number One defense against the heart diseases" because it makes possible the research, education and community service program of the Louisiana and the American Heart Associations.

AMERICAN PRISONERS

Donovan Optimistic After Latest Talks

MIAMI (UPI) — [illegible] Donovan [illegible] the Americans [illegible] Cuba [illegible] Castro [illegible] Havana [illegible] Miami [illegible] Donovan said he understood there were "about 25."

"We also discussed the present condition of these Americans and I have assurances that their living conditions are being very materially improved even while these discussions are going on," Donovan told newsmen at Miami International Airport.

He said he also talked with Castro about the release of other Cuban prisoners being held by Castro, including a number of political prisoners.

"I was assured that a prompt review is being made of all of these cases," said Donovan, who added that he did not know how many such prisoners there are. He did not name any of the Cubans.

Donovan declined to set any precise date for the release of the Americans but said, "The most important precedent for the release of these Americans would be that our present obligations be carried out."

He explained that he meant the prisoner ransom, which he said has been about 50 per cent delivered, and that Castro had made this a condition previously.

Move To Aid Current Ban Negotiations

U. S. demand for at least eight to 10 annual inspections.

The President's statement, read at the White House by press secretary Pierre Salinger, said: "During the present discussions in Washington and New York on the nuclear test ban treaty among the Soviet Union, the United Kingdom and the United States, I have asked the Atomic Energy Commission to postpone its shots in Nevada."

The Atomic Energy Commission has never announced any of its Nevada test shots in advance. Saturday a spokesman declined to say if any had been planned for the immediate future.

The Atomic Energy Commission, however, has announced more than 50 underground tests at Nevada in its current series. Three were of intermediate range force —between 20,000 and a million tons of TNT. The others have been below that strength. There also was one low-yield above ground test.

The last announced Soviet tests came over the recent Christmas period.

Kennedy's conditional mortorium was a grim reminder of how Khrushchev began above-ground testing in September, 1961, in violation of a 34-month voluntary moratorium between the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

He gave no advance notice and obviously had been preparing for the tests months in advance while "negotiating" at Geneva.

In that series, the Soviets fired off approximately 50 atmospheric blasts, including a climactic monster shot on Oct. 30, which was believed to have exceeded 50 megatons (50 million tons of TNT) in power.

That test, which followed a boastful pronouncement by Khrushchev that the Russians were capable of triggering a 100-megaton bomb, stirred a wave of world protest.

FOUR MONROE MEN have been awarded 50-year membership awards by the district grand lodge of the B'Nai B'Rith in ceremonies conducted at the Jewish Temple on Orell Avenue. New Station Planned For Polaris Sub WASHINGTON (AP) — The first U.S. Polaris submarine may be stationed in the Mediterranean this year, perhaps representing the lead vessel of a North Atlantic Treaty Organization nuclear force.

U.S. officials believe it is imperative there be no long gap between the withdrawal of jupiter land-based missiles from Turkey and Italy and the arrival of the first of the Polaris missile-firing subs which are to replace the Jupiters.

The reason would appear to be as much diplomatic as military.

American authorities feel it would be wise to show the Italians and Turks in concrete form that the dismantling of their Jupiter bases would not mean any reduction in their nuclear shield.

The United States now has nine Polaris subs committed to patrol in the North Atlantic within striking range of targets in the Soviet Union.

A 10th submarine was commissioned earlier this month and will be ready for deployment. By the end of the year, the U.S. Polaris fleet will have doubled to 18 boats.

Preparations are under way to start Polaris patrols in the Pacific. A movement into the Mediterranean need not delay this.

The eventual total of polaris boats committed to the Mediterranean may not be more than three or four.

In military utility, the submarine-launched Polaris missiles would be far more effective than the obsolescent Jupiters now standing on above-ground pads and vulnerable to Russian medium-range missiles.

In Nato dress, so to speak, the Polaris submarine would lend reality and perhaps impetus to the concept of a multinational NATO nuclear force which President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan put forward at their Nassau, Bahamas, meeting in December.

The United States and Britain will furnish the submarines for a NATO nuclear force, but some role must be found for the other NATO countries.

Hunt Continues For Crew Of Capsized Boat

CAMERON, La. (AP) — Two surface craft continued a search Saturday for any possible survivors of a five-man crew missing from a boat that capsized Thursday.

The Coast Guard said bad weather prevented use of aircraft in the search Saturday.

Reported missing were Joseph Mahfoush, 56, and Joe Boudoin, 30, boh of Berwick; Hervis Lenanin, 30, of Houma; George Owens, 22, of Morgan City, and Willie Morris, Port Acres, Tex.

Glazed Roads Are Predicted In Area Today

for partly cloudy and not quite so cold.

No icing had occurred as far north as Crossett, Ark., as the temperature stood slightly above freezing. A check with area forestry towers revealed no timber damage from icing. Monticello, in Drew County Arkansas, also escaped icing. But icy roads were reported between Pine Bluff, Ark. and Little Rock, Ark., which delayed first class mail delivery in Crossett Saturday.

Jonesville in Catahoula Parish reported foggy weather with overcast skies which resulted in mist, but no evidence of glazed roads late Saturday night.

At Winnsboro, much the same dank clouds hung over the area with the thermometer standing at just above freezing. The area also reported misty conditions.

Final Exams

Final examinations for the fall semester are currently underway at Northeast Louisiana State College, and most students have their own description of what they consider the major task at hand. For instance, here is the way John R. Currey, senior pharmacy student from Sterlington, describes the exams: "they'll be uphill all the way."

Officers Press Hunt For Sniper

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP)—Police of this city of socially prominent families pressed a search Saturday for clues to the sniper who shot and killed Mary Godfrey, choirsinger and mother of five children.

Police Chief Norman Deknke, who ordered a house-to-house search for guns which might have been available to youths, said he feared someone mentally defective was responsible for Mrs. Godfrey's slaying.

Temperature, Deaths Rise In Europe

LONDON (AP) — The temperature rose almost everywhere in Europe Saturday and the death toll from a prolonged cold streak rose with it.

Weather forecasters were uncertain if the break in the 36-day ice age would last. Europe remained buried under a vast accumulation of ice and snow.

The latest tally put the number of winter victims at more than 300—112 of them in Britain. Figures for other countries included: Yugoslavia 39, Italy 30, Spain 30, Greece 22, Holland 20, Belgium 16, West Germany 32, Turkey 7, Norway 3, Luxembourg 1.

There were no figures from behind the Iron Curtain.

But in Japan, where the snow accumulations was at an all-time high in 77 years of record-keeping, blizzards killed 37. Most of the casualties were from avalanches and the collapse of wooden houses buried by as much as 10 feet of snow. Snow has been falling in western Japan for 16 days, and 2,400 passengers were removed from snowbound trains Saturday.

Fresh snow fell in central Poland and five passenger trains were reported marooned by deep drifts outside Breslau. A fuel shortage was said to be abating, but in a conservation measure the television broadcast day was cut from 6 to 3½ hours.

In Turkey, a reporter, a photographer and their driver were found frozen to death in their car about 40 miles east of Istanbul. The trio — all Turkish — were on their way to report the story of a train with 240 passengers bogged in a drift. But their car was trapped in deep snow.

Some 500 passengers on three other snowbound trains in Turkey were rescued.

Snow not only stopped the Orient Express near the Yugoslav border but prevented two relief locomotives from getting through. The 200 passengers finally were taken off in buses.

Storms blocked the main road linking Lebanon and Syria, and helicopters rescued several stranded Lebanese soldiers and villagers.

Istanbul had its first sunshine in five days and water supplies in the city were partially restored, though rationed.

For the first time in seven days citizens of Madrid went without their overcoats. But $85 million worth of Spain's fruit and citrus crops were reported ruined.

In France, canals and rivers still were chocked with ice. More than 60,000 building workers were laid off in northern provinces because it was too cold to work.

East Germany reported the Baltic Sea has frozen over wide areas.

Four porpoises from Florida were the victims of the cold at Cesanatico, Italy. They died of injuries received from repeated efforts to smash the ice forming over their pool.

London had its warmest day of the year—42 degrees in mid afternoon. But many homes were without electricity for five hours because fog and forst short-circuited transmission lines.

New Soviet Atomic Sub Ends Cruise

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union claimed Saturday a Soviet nuclear-powered submarine has demonstrated that such vessels can take up combat station under the North Pole to stop any sneak attacks by enemy rocket-firing subs.

Izvestia said the atomic submarine Leninsky Komsomol had completed a cruise to the North Pole in a mock maneuver under arctic ice "to detect and destroy 'enemy' nuclear subs trying to approach Soviet shores."

"The Leninsky Komsomol cruised for many days in submerged state under the ice of the North Pole area," the government newspaper said.

Izvestia gave no date for the Leninsky Komsomol's mission but said: "This heroic cruise is a remarkable stage in the history of domestic and international navigation."

Accompanying the story was a picture purporting to show the submarine's crew planting a flag at the North Pole after having broken through the ice.

The Russians claimed they were the pioneers in voyages under arctic ice and said American claims of being first were contrary to the truth.

The American Nautilus, the world's first known atomic-powered submarine, made what was heralded as the first transarctic passage in August 1958. Several other U.S. atomic subs since have made trips under the ice to the North Pole—the Sargo in the dead of the arctic winter in February 1960.

The U.S. Navy said the Seadragon made the most direct route traveled of the arctic's northwest passage in August 1960 and said the voyage pioneered "a possible military and commercial route through the Parry Channel."

Four Persons Are Injured In Auto Mishaps

A number of collisions in Monroe Saturday resulted in traffic violations being filed against three different persons and four minor injuries.

Monroe police ticketed Marion E. Frost, 43, of Rt. 2, Haynesville, for running a stop sign after he was involved in a collision at North Third Street and Hudson Lane Saturday afternoon. Frost, driving west on Hudson Lane, allegedly ran the stop sign into the path of a car going north on N. 3rd Street, being driven by William B. Higdon, 33, of 1700 Milton St. Frost was given emergency treatment at St. Francis hospital.

Monroe officers ticketed James B. Watts, 35, of 107 Avant St., West Monroe, for reckless driving, after he pulled from the Sears Parking lot onto Louisville Avenue into the path of a car. He was struck by a vehicle, headed west on Louisville Avenue, driven by Ralph E. Reed, 36, of 111 Pinewood St., West Monroe. Injured and treated at St. Francis hospital was a passenger in the Reed car, Martha Gail Reed, 10, and Reed.

Mrs. Eleanor W. Horton, 44, of 1303 Hilton St., Monroe, sustained bruises when she ran off Myrtle Street, and struck several roadside shrubs and a telegraph pole. Police ticketed her for reckless driving. The accident occurred around 6 p.m. Saturday.

Medal Winner In World War I Dies Saturday

PORT CHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The first winner of the Medal of Honor in World War 1, Tedford Harris Cann, Rye, N.Y., died Saturday in United Hospital here.

Cann was credited with saving a sinking ship and her crew in the Atlantic Ocean on Nov. 5, 1917, by diving into the flooded hold and plugging the leak which threatened the vessel.

The exploit which won him the nation's highest military decoration was performed while he was a naval reserve seaman assigned to a yacht converted to war duty.

Cann was born in Bridgeport, Conn., at the turn of the century. An insurance broker, he had lived in Rye for 25 years.

WINTER PROGRAM

Physical Fitness Is Theme For 'Y'

"Physical Fitness for All" will again be the theme of the second half of the Twin Cities YMCA winter program beginning Monday and following National Y-M-C-A Week. Weight training and exercise classes are scheduled for all ages as well as trampoline and tumbling classes for the younger set.

Since Robert J. Roberts began a new type of physical training and coined the term "body building" in 1877 in the Boston Y-M-C-A, many advances have been made in the field of physical education. The Y-M-C-A's of North America have made many contributions in this field and have centered their programs around the physical program.

When Roberts appeared before the International Convention of YMCA's in 1881 attired in gym clothes and performed a dumbbell drill, he began a new era in the chain of thought of his followers.

WAX AND WANE

Although members of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation have had an interest in fitness since the origin of their professional organization in 1885, effort in the field have waxed and waned with the times. In general, there was a peak interest during war years and the usual drop-off following the cessation of hostilities.

"There was an uncommonly large amount of concern about the fitness of the American people after the draftee ejection rate of the Korean War. Because of these findings and the fact that 57.9 percent of the American youngsters failed one or more of six tests given to measure strength and flexibility, as compared to only 8.7 percent of the European children, President Eisenhower called a conference on fitness of American youth in June 1956.

A year later, the Association had a meeting in Chicago and initial planning for a Youth Fitness Project took place. Two months after President Kennedy took office, he appointed Bud Wilkinson as his consultant on Youth Fitness. It was determined that the council's first objective should be the establishment of vigorous physical activity programs in the elementary and secondary school.

Because of its work, and through the intense work of the YMCA's, the nations youth are now taking part in the fitness fitness testing and evaluating program in the schools and community Y-M-C-A's.

The Twin Cities Y-M-C-A is modified in the new program.

One Man Killed, Two Injured In Gas Explosion

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Gas explosions ripped through three homes Saturday, killing one man and injuring two other persons.

Residents of a three-square block area on the South Side were evacuated as a precautionary measure while authorities checked natural gas lines in search of the leak.

Electricity and gas were shut off in the area. The explosions occurred in two different blocks.

The dead man was identified as Joseph Green Meyer, in his 70s, who lived in one of the homes.

Gas fumes were first smelled by patrolman Vincent Carbodo who was on patrol in the area. He notified gas company and fire authorities and started evacuating residents. Shortly after, the explosions occurred.

The injured were Anna Aldinger, 45, in critical condition with 65 per cent second-degree burns, face and chest injuries, and Emelia Labar, 28, in satisfactory condition with severe lacerations of the right thumb.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S ANNUAL REPORT

'62 Called Year Of Great Progress In Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has proposed legislation to speed up court cases involving charges of racial discrimination against prospective voters, the White House said Saturday.

The proposal was made public with the release of the attorney general's annual report to the President on the activities of the Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department.

Calling 1962 "a year of great progress in civil rights," the report said much of this was due to "the responsibility and respect for law displayed by the great majority of the citizens of the South."

The attorney general cited stepped-up efforts of his department to desegregate schools, erase alleged discrimination against Negroes seeking to register as voters and just about end segregation of interstate travel facilities.

Many of these efforts, Kennedy emphasized, have been marked by cooperation from local officials.

But much remains to be done, especially in the field of voting, where "the heavy burden of effort lies ahead," he said.

"Substantial numbers of American citizens are being deprived of their right to vote because of race and we continue to believe that additional legislation in this field is necessary," Kennedy added.

"Even where the department has gone to court to charge officials with discriminatory use of voting qualification tests, it has often run into considerable delays between the time of filing (suit) and the time of tria," he said.

"We believe that additional legislation is necessary to insure prompt relief in such instances."

The attorney general's report included these highlights:

—VOTING

In checking voting complaints, the department found no need for court action in four Southern counties because officials abandoned discriminatory registration practices.

In 20 counties in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, officials voluntarily made voting records available. Where such cooperation was not forthcoming, the government went to court, bringing to 23 the number of voting suits filed in this administration, compared with 10 in the previous administration.

ORDERS INJUNCTION

Court Reverses Lower Decision On Negro Voting

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A federal appeals court Saturday ordered the issuance of a preliminary injunction to bar any acts to prevent Negroes from paying poll taxes so they could vote in Tallahatchie County, Miss.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed a lower court which said no emergency existed to warrant the order in the north Mississippi county.

U.S. District Judge Claude Clayton, in refusing to issue an injunction, said only four Negroes had tried to pay poll taxes during the term of Sheriff Ellett R. Dogan and two were exempt because of age.

He said the Negroes' efforts were "superficial at best and do not carry the hallmark of bona fide efforts."

The appeals court said Judge Clayton erred in excluding evidence of racially discriminatory acts. The court said Clayton erroneously sustained a motion to toss out affidavits by several Negroes complaining they had tried to pay taxes for years.

Birdie Kegler's affidavit said she had been trying to pay her poll taxes "to the sheriff's office since about 1951 but they have never allowed me to pay it."

The appeals court said these affidavits "would have thrown light on the question why there were so relatively few efforts on the part of Negroes to pay their poll taxes during the present sheriff's term."

Attorneys for the state of Mississippi and Dogan argued that none of the four Negroes involved ever sought to register to vote. Registration and poll tax payment, they said, are entirely separate requirements for voting.

The appeals judges said Clayton took "too narrow a view" of the federal voting law which applies to the entire voting process.

The sheriff had issued a rule that Negroes wanting to pay poll taxes had to see him personally.

There is no justification for that rule, the appeals court said. It amounted to discrimination because very few, if any, white persons were required to see the sheriff.

There are some 6,400 Negroes and 5,000 white persons of voting age in the county.

The appeals court said Clayton was also wrong in concluding no emergency existed to justify the injunction.

"The statutory date of Feb. 1, 1962, for paying poll taxes was then about to be reached," the appeals court said. "Now, the date of Feb. 1, 1963 is about to be reached."

To avoid further delay, the appeals court said, it ordered Clayton to issue the preliminary injunction immediately.

The opinion was by Judge Rives, Wisdom and Bottle.

Howl Raised Over Winning Oil Painting

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — An oil painting that somewhat resemble the tailgate of an old farm truck has won first prize in the West Virginia Centennial Commission's exhibition of painting and sculpture.

Its selection by the exhibition judge, director James Johnson Sweeney of the Museum of Fine Arts, Houston, Tex., touched off a chorus of howls from citizens, art-lovers and state officials.

The winning painting — in the division for West Virginia artists —brought $1,963 to Joe Moss of Morgantown, W.Va. It is an oil on boards, Old Boards. Old, inkblot test. Others see cracked, broken boards held together by two uprights. The broken frame of a screen door is nailed to the boards. The whole thing is shaded from gray at the top to black at the bottom. A found image - presumably a moon from which the painting gets its name, "West Virginia Moon" is at the left.

The second-place painting—and some of Sweeney's other selections among the 350 entries drawn in the contest—also brought expressions of dismay from some quarters.

Given second place was "Strip Mines," a watercolor of wrinkled paper by Bernie K. Peace of West Liberty, W. Va. Some describe it as approximating a psychologist's stains.

In the sculpture division for West Virginians, Wayne Husted of Huntington won first place with "Glassblower," a hunk of aluminum roughly resembling an anvil. Second place went to M. Lincoln of Huntington for "The Feud," a rock and a tree stump side by side.

Alfalfa Club Picks 'Mock Candidate'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Alfalfa Club named Arthur Krock its mock presidential candidate Saturday at its 50th anniversary fun dinner.

Krock, chief correspondent and news analyst for the New York Times, accepted what he called "the hollowest honor that can be conferred on anyone, by anyone, in the entire United States."

Escorted to the podium by a group of previous sham candidates including Sens. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., Krock said he held no high hopes of unseating fellow club member John F. Kennedy from his rocker.

"While the White House is a nice place to visit," Krock said in prepared remarks, "I wouldn't want to live there."

Former Sen. Prescott Bush, R-Conn., president of the dining club, said the choice of a standard-bearer this year was difficult.

"We turn to him in desperation," Bush said, but added, "Alfalfa will drive a straight furrow —straight to 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue and the victory our old Krock so richly deserves."

The club, composed of leaders of government, civic and military life, installed Bush as its new president. Bush, who chose not to seek re-election to the Senate last year, said he looked on the presidency of Alfalfa as a "sort of comfort station on the road to retirement."

Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations, was among new members welcomed by the club.

Other new members included: Disarmament Director William C. Foster, Augustus C. Long, chairman of the Texaco Co.; Newbold Noyes, executive editor and vice president of the Washington Evening Star; Melvin M. Payne, executive vice president and secretary of the National Geographic Society, and James E. Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The 600 Alfalfa members don't agree on the origin of the club's name. They say it is a myth that the founders picked "Alfalfa" because this is a plant noted for going deep in search of moisture.

Vienna Choir Boys Slated Here Tonight

The Vienna Choir Boys, one of the oldest musical organizations in the world, will be presented in concert tonight at Neville High School Auditorium at 8:15 o'clock by the Northeast State Concerts Association.

The famed group, founded by Imperial Decree of the Holy Roman Emperor Maximillian I in 1498, has included among its members of the past such outstanding people as Josef Haydn and Franz Schubert.

Featured in "Cinerama," and on television with Perry Como, and on other shows, the Vienna Choir Boys are currently making their nineteenth tour of the United States under Impresario S. Hurok's aegis; that is to say, this is the 19th group to visit here, since boys' voices have a way of changing.

The school has three choirs on tour each year. A rotation system allows each lad in the school an opportunity to visit every country on the choir's far-flung itinerary at least once before his voice changes.

The Choir is composed of 22 boys between the ages of eight and 14, with each choir having different boys on different tours. Before admission to one of the choirs, students receive two years of training.

No single seat admissions will be sold to this performance, but Dr. Barry M. Lemert, dean of the fine arts division at Northeast State, telephone FA 5-6361, ext. 211, says a few season memberships are still available.

Robert Smith Will Address Parish Group

Robert S. Smith, market development manager of the Forest Products Operations of the Packaging Division at Olin here, will be the featured speaker at the Sales & Marketing Executives Club of Ouachita Parish Monday night at the Paragon Club.

The event starts at 6:30 p.m.

Smith, originally from Detroit, Mich., joined Olin in 1954 in Dallas, Tex., and came to Monroe in October, 1955, after Olin Purchased the Brown Paper Mill and subsidiary companies.

He became market research manager in January, 1956, and market development manager in June, 1956.

The market development department encompasses advertising, sales promotion, graphic design, market research and sales analysis.

Smith's previous experience included sales analyst for the Cadillac Division of General Motors Corporation and market analyst for General Motors customer research staff.

Building Razed In Winnsboro; Damages High

WINNSBORO (Special) — Fire destroyed the T. J. Owen Building here early Saturday in a locale where gas storage tanks, a tar escaping plant and homes are located.

Losses were estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars. The building, on Common Street, housed offices, living quarters, a hardware store and a lumber shed.

Fire-fighters, including six prisoners from the city jail, and firemen from Monroe, Crowville, Gilbert, Wisner and Winnsboro, battled the blaze after it was discovered about 5:15 a.m. by Mrs. Charlie Cordill.

Mrs. Cordill said she saw the fire from the window of her home two blocks away.

T. J. Owen, owner of the building, was asleep in the living quarters when he was awakened by smoke. He said he thought at first some men had come to work and had built a fire outside the building to keep warm.

He said he finally realized the fire was in the building, dressed hurriedly and managed to get his car from under the shed. The auto was the only thing saved.

Owen said he even lost his billfold in the blaze, and found he had pulled on un-matching shoes.

He reported that the fire was burning in the upper part of the one-story wood-frame structure.

Cause of the blaze was undetermined, and firemen said that it had gained such headway that they had to settle for preventing the flames from spreading.

Mayor W. E. Marioneaux expressed appreciation to the Monroe, Gilbert, Crowville and Wisner fire departments for assisting the Winnsboro department.

Man Wounded During Attempt To Flee Police

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Kenneth Plaisance, 20, was shot in the abdomen early Saturday after, police said, he robbed an elderly couple, raped a woman next door, and resisted arrest.

Plaisance's condition was satisfactory.

Arrested at the same time was Ronald Glen Porter, 19, who was seated in a car outside the midtown dwellings when the incidents occurred.

Both were booked with aggravated rape, burglary and battery. In addition, Plaisance was booked with resisting arrest.

Police were called to the scene by a 14-year-old son of the rape victim.

Sgt. Earl Beechler said Plaisance, cornered in a laundry room, first acted as if he was going to surrender, then lunged for the officer's gun.

Beechler said the revolver fired twice while they grapped. One shot scorched the officer's coat. A second shot struck Plaisance.

Symbol, Center Of Communism Is Berlin Wall

EDITOR'S NOTE — An uneasy world watches as communism and the West grapple for dominance in the continuing cold war conflict. Here is a balance sheet on where the opposing forces stand and what the future may bring.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Its symbol and center today is a horrifying wall dividing Berlin almost as a curtain might divide light and darkness.

It is neither war nor peace cold or hot. But this grim conflict, raging unabated into yet another year, has brought civilization perilously close to an untidy nuclear end.

It is called "cold war," for lack of a better name. Ten years after the death of Josef Stalin, who has been blamed by many on both sides for plunging two worlds into unremitting struggle, there is no end in sight.

If anything, the struggle may have become even more menacing to mankind's hopes to survive the age in which its greatest scientific genius flourished.

Who is winning? Who is losing? The answer depends upon where you sit. The United States and the West have gained in some areas, face grave perils in others, but there are years of hard political-economic warfare ahead to protect Western standards and way of life.

IS THERE HOPE

Is there hope for victory? Communism's leaders apparently would interpret victory as something in the misty future when a Soviet system would take over the last outpost.

Western leaders have yet to present a succinct definition of what victory might be. Attempts have been made. Secretary of State Dean Rusk has said forces exist which want to destroy the Western way of life, and that "this struggle will continue until freedom prevails." This implies victory can come only after such forces are routed, de-fused or change their goals.

Cold war became hot in June 1950 when Communists attacked across the 38th parallel in Korea, attempting to envelop the whole peninsula. The gamble was not abandoned until after Stalin died in 1953.

Then a period of relaxation set in while Nikita Khrushchev climbed to power, marked by the Korean truce, the Viet Nam agreement at Geneva and, in 1955, by the independence treaty ending four-power occupation of Austria. That was a Soviet gambit aimed at Germany and Berlin, an attempt to set a pattern which would end the occupation of Berlin, 110 miles inside Communist-held territory. It didn't work.

Periods of relaxation have never lasted long. A summit conference of East-West chiefs in May 1955 brought about "the spirit of Geneva," but the spirit soon was a mocking ghost. When the West brought Western Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Soviet response was the Warsaw military alliance.

De-Stalinization, signalled by a Khrushchev speech denouncing the dead dictator as a murderer, brought unrest in Poland and revolution in Hungary. The Soviet military ruthlessly stamped out the revolt and externally Soviet policy turned granite hard. During the Middle East crisis over Suez in late 1956, Moscow threatened to rain destruction on the West.

In the fall of 1957 the beep-beep of Sputnik I, the first artificial earth satellite, echoed like artillery in an astonished West, suddenly aware of the rocket and scientific-military potential of the Russians.

But Khrushchev backed away from extreme dangers in an enormous Middle East crisis which threatened to set the area—and perhaps the world—aflame in mid-1958. U.S. forces landed in Lebanon. The Russians howled with anger, but the crisis receded.

Khrushchev again turned attention to Berlin. Behind missile propaganda, he handed the West an ultimatum: sign an agreement to end its occupation of West Berlin within six months or the Russians would act alone and hang the consequences. The West rejected the ultimatum. Khrushchev backed away, withdrew the deadline and in the four and a half years since has not set a time limit.

From the beginning of 1959 a Communist time-bomb sputtered in the Western Hemisphere. Cuba, destined by revolutionary leader Fidel Castro's regime to fall under Communist rule became a major point of East West contention.

For awhile, there was a breathing spell. Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders visited the United States Khrushchev let go his own propaganda bomb in a United Nations speech in October: a proposal for "general and complete disarmament." He has never stopped talking about it although disarmament and nuclear test ban talks ran into nothing but frustration.

The period of peace blew up suddenly in the smoke of fiery Khrushchev oratory in Paris in May 1960, where a summit meeting with President Dwight D. Eisenhower never got started. Khrushchev ranted about flights of the U2 spy plane over Soviet territory. The U2 had been shot down early in May.

After President Kennedy's election, the cold war spotlight turned to Latin America as Cuba became more and more enmeshed in Red tentacles. Early in 1961, the United States launched an Alliance for Progress program designed to help Latin America struggle against extremist inroads.

Kennedy and Khrushchev met face to face in Vienna, sized each other up, and found little to agree about save the need for some sort of neutral solution for Indochina's never-never land of Laos, where Communist pressure had created a deep crisis.

In August 1961, East German Communists with Moscow's blessing suddenly put up an ugly wall cutting off the Communist-held sector of Berlin from the Western one. By early fall, Soviet and U.S. tanks were facing one another dangerously across the barbed wire entanglements.

The world suddered. Once again Khrushchev backed away.

The worst crisis of all was yet to come. Moscow attempted secretly to install nuclear-capable missiles in Cuba. Suddenly in October 1962 President Kennedy declared a quarantine. Soviet vessels headed for Cuba would be stopped and checked for offensive arms. The United States was ready to shoot.

The world trembled.

Again Khrushchev backed away and agreed to dismantle missile bases in Cuba. Again the world drew a breath of relief.

BERLIN—GERMANY

A tall building on the Berlin sector border presents a dramatic nocturnal display of what the struggle is all about. Look to the West and see the glitter of prosperity in freedom. Look East and see darkness. West Berlin an island in a sea of communism shines like a beacon across a wall of concrete and barbed wire built to keep German prisoners behind a Red curtain.

ABOUT CUBA

For all the tumult over Cuba, when the smoke cleared Berlin remained the center of the titanic struggle of ideas.

Communism is eating away at the lonely outpost of freedom, gnawing at the willingness of Western Europe to risk war for it. The wall gave the Communists a black eye, but that was the price for nailing down irrevocably the claim to East Berlin as the capital of Red East Germany and not part of a four-power city. There was no Western resistance to that important step. Should the Russians succeed one day, the next moves would aim at dominating all Germany, and from there, all Europe.

Will the United States and the Allies be as firm in Berlin as Washington was in the Cuban situation? Would the United States in a showdown be willing to go the limit to protect West Berlin?

Khrushchev may test Western mettle before too long. In a showdown he would hope to come away with just a little more than he has now. He would try, for example, to have Berlin placed under U.N. authority, which at best has been a tenuous thing, subject to ruthless attack from the Soviet side when stakes were high. Many fear that any concessions by the West in Berlin would spell the beginning of the end of West Berlin's independence. Khrushchev may feel himself forced to move, if only to demonstrate to world communism his right to lead it.

WESTERN EUROPE

Communists have lost ground steadily in Western Europe. Since the Common Market generated a lively boom, Communists have lost numerically in members, in labor ranks and in the number of votes they can attract. Khrushchev's attacks on the common Market embarrass Communist leaders who find it hard to explain why rising prosperity is bad.

The outlook is not entirely rosy. The United States has difficulties with its allies. Attempts to persuade the NATO allies to beef up conventional forces against a non-nuclear threat run into lofty indifference from France's President Charles de Gaulle, who also is less than enthusiastic about a common nuclear force with the U.S. finger alone on the trigger. The idea of independent nuclear potential dies hard, has raised difficulties with both France and Britain.

LATIN AMERICA

There's a sea of trouble ahead in Latin America, despite an ambitious start with the Alliance for Progress.

Stung by the Cuban setback, Communists seek soft spots to retaliate, in an effort to recapture prestige among impatient young men thirsting for rapid change. The reported plot against Peru's military junta was an example. Communists still have sights trained on Venezuela. Brazil is in chaotic economic condition, swells with revolution in its depressed areas. Argentina continues in wild economic-political confusion. Bolivia, without U.S. assistance, would fall quickly to the extreme left. Many a government is shaky.

ONE OF THE less pleasant aspects of the Northeast State Jazz Ensemble's tour of Europe is the packing, a chore Ensemble member Bob Dixon is doing here. Dixon and the other Ensemble members leave Monroe Monday morning on the first leg of their trip to Europe and performances before U. S. servicemen. Dixon is a freshman from Nashville, Tenn., and plays tenor sax.

Northeast Ensemble Starts Tour Monday

The Twin Cities bid goodbye to Northeast State's Jazz Ensemble at Selman Field Monday morning when the college group sets off on the first leg of its United Service Organizations tour of U. S. military bases in Europe.

Mayor J. Allen Norris of West Monroe, Mayor W. L. Howard of Monroe, James A. Noe and Northeast President George T. Walker will speak in a ceremony at 6 a.m. Monday at Selman just before the Ensemble boards a plane for Newark, N.J.

Mayor Howard is scheduled to give the group a key to the City of Monroe for presentation to the mayor of Paris. The Ensemble will spend approximately six days in the French capital during its European tour.

Also slated to speak Monday morning are Ensemble Director John F. "Del" Sawyer and Dr. Harry Lemert dean of the division of fine arts. Lemert and Sawyer will accompany the 18 members of the Ensemble on the tour.

The Northeast musicians will go by bus to McGuire Air Force Base near Trenton, N. J., after arriving in Newark Monday, undergo brief processing and then go by Air Force flight to Frankfurt Germany. The group will receive a final briefing and itinerary in Frankfurt before beginning its tour, which will include performances before U.S. servicemen in Frankfurt, Nuremberg Karlsruhe, West Berlin and Bremerhaven, Germany, and Metz and Paris, France.

The group is scheduled to arrive back in the United States around April 1.

CUTE BUT DANGEROUS

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Conversational misunderstanding, frustrating in everyday life, can be fatal in flying, says Lt. W. F. Morey, a communications officer at gGeorge Air Force Base.

Morey says the military has standardized radio communications as:

TOWER: "Roger, 678, you've got the nod to hit the sod."

Investigation Into Cuban Invasion Aimed At Air Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Republican investigation of the 1961 Cuban invasion disaster is aimed at setting history right on whether two air strikes were canceled, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said Saturday.

"What I want to know," the Senate minority leader said in an interview, "is whether three air strikes were essential for success of the invasion, did they take place and, if not, why not?"

Dirksen made it plain he is pointing a personal inquiry, undertaken with the assent of the GOP Policy Committee, toward Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's version of the Bay of Pigs events.

The argument over air cover—or air strikes, a different thing, militarily—has snowballed into a political issue since Kennedy said in an interview published by the Knight newspapers last week:

"There never was any plan to have U.S. air cover. There never was any promise. Not even under Mr. Eisenhower was American air cover in the picture."

President Kennedy supported his brother's version at Thursday's White House news conference. He said no U.S. air cover was planned.

"Obviously, if you are going to have U.S. cover you might as well have a complete U.S. commitment, which would have meant a full-fledged invasion (by) the United States in April 1961," he added.

The President and the attorney general were meticulous in specifying "U.S." air cover. Both explained that some outmoded B26 bombers had been acquired by the invasion forces.

These bombers made an ineffectual strike at Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's air bases on the Saturday before the invasion. The President and the attorney general both said a proposed Monday morning strike was delayed until afternoon. The President said a plan to have the bombers protect the landing forces did not work out.

Dirksen said this contravenes earlier accounts that two air strikes at Castro's strongholds had been canceled—presumably by President Kennedy—after the first raid.

"There is a gap in these accounts," Dirksen said. "Historically the whole story of the Bay of Pigs invasion has not been told."

Semantics could be playing a part in the whole argument if "air strike" and "air cover" are being used interchangeably.

To the military, an air strike is a blow at preselected targets and, in the case of amphibious landings, usually is directed against air fields, gun emplacements and the like.

Air cover is flown by planes in the air over the landing beaches while troops are coming ashore. These planes usually have no preassigned targets but, in effect, shoot at or bomb whatever is shooting at the landing soldiers—targets of opportunity to the airmen.

Democrats su-pect the revived Republican interest in the Bay of Pigs fiasco is aimed at reminding the voters in the 1864 campaign that President Kennedy took what he himself has said was the wrong advice and made a mistake.

In this connection, Sen Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., has called for a Senate Armed Services Committee inquiry into the whole Bay of Pigs venture. He said he wants "an adequate, uncolored accounting of this disgraceful chapter in the history of the Kennedy Administration."

The Democrats' view that there is a widespread Republican effort to plaster all the blame on them was strengthened by the recent comment of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower that his administration had made preparations only for a guerrilla operation.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, deputy Democratic leader, said after the air cover issue had been thrashed over in a closed meeting of a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee Friday he sees little value in any further inquiry.

He said that if the matter is pursued "there will be considerable blame on republicans as well as Democrats."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and John A. McCone, head of the Central Intelligence Agency, were reported to have supported fully the Kennedy version of what happened.

The President got support also from Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., for his denial that he told Florida editors at a May 10, 1961, luncheon he had ordered air cover canceled. Smathers, who attended, said "There was no conversation with respect to U.S. air cover."

Russia Has Changed Much In 10 Years Since The Death Of Stalin

MOSCOW (UPI) — On March 5 next it will be 10 years since Josef Stalin, one of history's most ruthless tyrants, died in the Kremlin—apparently of a massive cerebral hemorrhage.

Russia has changed much in its decade without Stalin. In some ways has an entirely new look. Although the late dictator's blood stained legacy still lies heavily on most of the nation, there is a new and freer spirit. There is some evidence of a yearning for the best of two worlds, a sort of "communism with Cadillacs."

When Stalin died he held absolute personal control over the largest empire the world had ever known.

It was an empire built with bayonets and repression and nourished by fear. Its borders were virtually closed to outsiders and outside influences. Its control over lives and minds was complete.

Its decisions were made by Stalin and Stalin alone. The alternatives to submission were prison or death.

In 10 years without Stalin Russia has opened her doors, hesitatingly, to contacts with the capitalist world. It has trampled Stalin's memory but kept up his cold war in a variety of new forms, mixing calls for "peaceful coexistence" with rockets in Cuba.

THIS IS A VIEW of Mati Baptist Hospital on the Island of Mindanao in the Philippines, where Charles Norwood of Columbia spent a summer assisting the staff through a foreign fellowship for medical students program.

MEDICAL STUDENT Norwood shows nurses at Mati Baptist Hospital a new culture medium which he and the hospital staff developed from seaweed agar and sterile blood because no commercial culture media were available.

TURNING POINT

A tour of duty at a hospital in a remote section of the Philippines was a "turning point" in the life of a medical student from northeast Louisiana, whose goal is to become a medical missionary, and return to the land where dirt-floored clinics are in need of dedicated workers.

One of the most memorable chapters in an area student's training to become a medical missionary, centers around a Philippines hospital, which he describes as a "brilliant lighthouse in a sea of disease."

The student is Charles G. Norwood, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Norwood of Columbia, who will graduate from Louisiana State University Medical School in June.

He likes to recall a three-month tour of duty last summer with the medical staff of Mati Baptist Hospital on the Island of Mindanao.

Some of the problems encountered there were not common in more highly developed areas.

LIMITATIONS

Electrical utilities and potable water supplies were limited, and thick growths of trees and vines, mountains and bridgeless streams often stood between medical teams and the sick in outlying areas of the island.

Norwood recalled that the water supply for the 30-bed hospital came from tanks which caught rain water. Salty water from a deep well was used for washing purposes.

Two generators which furnished a limited amount of electricity were turned off after 10:30 nightly, and kerosene lamps were lighted, giving off generous amounts of soot. The soot deposits were scrubbed from the walls and ceilings frequently, Norwood said.

When emergencies occurred during the night requiring surgery or X-ray, the generators were turned on again. And despite maximum ventilation of the hospital, heat sometimes built up in the operating room to a point where an aide was kept busy wiping perspiration from the surgeon's brow during an operation.

FELLOWSHIP

Norwood made the trip to the Philippines under provisions of a Smith Kline and French Fellowship which was awarded on a competitive basis through the Association of American Medical Colleges, Evanston, Illinois. While there his duties were similar to those of a junior intern. He assisted the hospital's only doctor.

He has described the experience as a turning point in his life.

"Turning points frequently go unnoticed," he said, "for they tend to be gradual. This summer's experience was a sharp and sudden turning point to me. My whole life has taken a new direction — a direction back to the Philippines, to those dirt-floored clinics with the desperate need for men as dedicated as Dr. Resurreccion (director) and the staff of Mati Baptist Hospital. I hope some day to return to Mati and its wonderful people as a medical missionary."

Before fulfillment of this ambition, Norwood must serve an internship and a period as surgeon in residence at a hospital. Following graduation he will be ready for an internship at a Shreveport hospital.

Norwood made the trip to the Philippines by air. The last leg of the journey from Davao City, Mindanao, to Mati, was in a single engine plane. The plane let down on a dirt runway at Mati surrounded by groves of coconut and citrus trees.

Before his tour of duty ended, the medical student was to see something o fthe wilderness and hardships in the back country of the island, many obstacles removed from the group of white hospital buildings surrounded by a green carpet of grass at the end of town.

ACTIVITY CENTER

He said the hospital area seemed to be a center of activity with people arriving and leaving in brightly colored carriages. And often persons who had accompanied patients to the hospital sat under trees nearby and played guitars.

The hospital had examination rooms, X-ray equipment, pharmacy, laboratory, operating room, delivery ward, pediatrics ward, a general ward and single rooms for persons with contagious ailments.

With all of these modern facilities, few of the native women came to the hospital for childbirth.

Said Norwood, "Most deliveries were done by mid-wives, which explains the relatively small number of obstetrical cases. If any difficulty was encountered, then the patient was sent to the hospital, often too late to help."

The island was bountiful with beautiful flowers and delicious fruits, and brightly colored birds were at home in the dense forests, but it was also base for many diseases, some of them types not found in the United States.

CHOLERA

One of the ailments, known as el tor gastroenteritis, is a strain of cholera, said Norwood, that can within three or four hours lead to severe dehydration and death.

A number of patients admitted to the hospital in the critical stage of this ailment were saved by special intravanous therapy. Norwood accompanied a team which administered anti-cholera vaccine to persons in outlying areas.

"My participation in this activity was the highlight of the summer," he said.

The team traveled, when possible, in a four - wheel drive jeepster ambulance, covering almost impassable terrain. Many streams were without bridges and could not be crossed when there had been recent heavy rain.

Ambulance drivers were versatile, also doubling as mechanics, helping with clinics and other necessary jobs.

WILDERNESS JOURNEY

"The day before leaving, we loaded the ambulance with drugs, minor surgery equipment, portable sterilizing setup and camping equipment. At 5 the next morning we drove to Tagabakig where supplies were transferred to a hired boat.

"The boat was a beautifully constructed craft. It was long, narrow, and had a pointed bow that curved upwards. There were out-riggers on both sides. After the boat was loaded, we waded out to board. The nurses were carried out on the boatman's shoulders.

"We went up the Pacific coast of Mindanao staying within sight of land. At times the land almost sank from sight as the boat plunged between the huge waves. The spray from the sea gave each of us a good salt water bath.

ROUGH RIDE

"After a two - hour ride, seeming at times more vertical than horizontal due to the huge waves, we arrived in Taragona. This village is only accessible by boat or by a day's hike through rugged mountains. In the bay several boats were being loaded with copra.

"We set up the clinic in the chapel with a dirt floor using sheets for partitions. While we were getting ready, the people began to gather and soon the chapel was filled with patients. We had brought the cholera vaccine, which one of the nurses administered to everyone present. One of the attendants was constantly sterilizing syringes so that there would be a continual reserve.

MANY TREATED

"I had a bench for an examining table which was by no means comfortable for the patients. The common conditions treated were malaria, malnutrition, and intestinal parasites. The nurses gave instructions to the patients on how to boil drinking water, dispose of wastes, and other sanitation measures. We treated advance cases of pulmonary tuberculosis as out - patients because they could not come to the hospital. When we finished at dark, we had examined and treated 126 people. In a state of exhaustion, almost all of our medicine gone, we spent the night and left the next day to return to Mati."

The medical student took a bus trip from Mati to Davao to attend a medical seminar, and described it as "the bumpiest and dustiest trip I had ever experienced."

BUS RIDERS

He said it was not unusual to find pigs and chickens occupying the wooden seats of the buses there.

On one ambulance trip with the out-station team, the rough mountain road proved too much for a bolt holding the shock absorbers on one wheel. The bolt broke, but the driver soon had the wheel secured with rope, inner tubing, and a tree branch, said Norwood, and "We continued the trip with apprehension that any moment the 'landing gear' as we called it would give way."

The medical student's mother said while he was in the Philippines he was active in church work "and even preached some."

He is a graduate of Columbia High School, took his pre-medical work at Louisiana College, and started at LSU Medical School in 1959. He has an older brother, James, who is music director at Hillcrest Baptist Church in Jackson, Miss.

Island Veiled In Aura Of Mystery

By JAMES LAGIER

HONOLULU (AP) — Niihau-Hawaii's "forbidden isle" - is a place where time has stood still for nearly a century.

This tiny island - just 100 miles west of Honolulu - is the home of 250 Hawaiians and part Hawaiians and the remnant of a bygone era.

Modern inventions that are commonplace elsewhere are absent on Niihau. There are no telephones, no electricity, and no television sets. Niihau boasts no hotel, no market or general store, and no jails.

QUARANTINED

Since 1864, when the island came into the hands of its present owners, Niihau has been carefully quarantined from the outside world.

But each year, the curtain separating this remote island from the outside becomes a little bit more transparent and the world learns something new of an island which has been shrouded in an aura of mystery.

To some, Niihau - 18 miles long and 6 miles wide - is every man's dream of paradise - romantic, charming, and colorful. To others, the island is outmoded and should be shaken from its century - long slumber, no matter how painful to the 250 inhabitants.

RESTRICTED

To keep their people uncorrupted, they have decreed that no outsider - not even a government official - may enter the island without special permission.

Admission to outsiders is seldom given. Tourists are kept out. Thus has developed the semi-official nickname of Niihau, the "forbidden isle."

The island was purchased from the Hawaiian government in 1864 for $10,000 by Mrs. Eliza Sinclair. Mrs. Sinclair, a widow in her late 60s, had left New Zealand with a large brood of children and grandchildren to find a new home.

Since then, the island has been protected from the outside by the stright-laced descendents of the Scots widow.

She, her two sons, and her grandson, Aubrey Robinson, who died in 1936, set the pattern for isolation that continues to this day.

WILL PROVISIONS

Ten years of drought, pint-sized population explosion, mainland competition in turkey sales-one of the island's major products - and a blight that killed cactus, a staple for cattle, have caused a shortage of jobs.

Nevertheless, the owners try to eke out a living for themselves and their 250 dependents on the rebellious soil.

What the curious would find there - those who have been there say - is a land of dust and desolation, of white, sandy beaches, of scorching sun, and mountains that stand saw - toothed against the sky.

DEEPLY RELIGIOUS

The shy, friendly people are deeply religious, due primarily to the influence of the Robinson family.

Niihauans belong to denominational church which follows congregational precepts. Many families conduct services at home.

Who Made Mistakes?

The Kennedy brothers, Attorney General Robert and President John, seem to be a little confused on who ordered what in connection with the abortive 1961 invasion of Cuba.

Some time ago, when Robert was quoted as saying, "My brother made a mistake," it appeared he meant the president had made a mistake in canceling the aircraft umbrella which he had promised would help the invaders. More recently, in an article entitled, "Attorney General Robert Kennedy speaks his mind," it appears he meant his brother made a mistake in supporting the invasion in the first place, or that he did not support it. Or, is it possible that he meant his brother made two mistakes—one when he gave the go-ahead signal for the invasion and one when he canceled the promised air protection?

Now we are constrained to wonder just what mistakes Robert says his brother made in connection with the invasion of Cuba and whether he also thinks the giving has made a good many of the mistakes. Here is what the president's brother, Robert, who has been sitting regularly with John Kennedy at the president's desk and has been called No. 2 president, may think, in his own intelligence and strategies exceed that of "Big brother, the president."

After the Memphis Commercial Appeal had stated that President Kennedy "ordered" the invasion of Cuba one of the readers quoted in the Commercial Appeal has written an editorial saying:

"A reader challenges the Commercial Appeal's use of the word 'ordered' in reference to President Kennedy's role in determining whether Cuban exiles should have tried to invade Castro Cuba in April, 1961.

"Perhaps it is not the precise word. Nevertheless, Mr. Kennedy did more than permit the exiles to mount the attack. Planning for the operation was done by agencies of the United States government, including the Central Intelligence Agency. Unless the president had given his go - ahead signal there could have been no attack. It was a simple question of yes or no.

"The president says he approved the attack on the advice of others in the executive branch but that he accepts full responsibility. Thus it is merely academic as to whether he merely agreed to bad advice or 'ordered' the ill-fated invasion."

Robert Kennedy stirred new doubts as to the accuracy of his own statements when he said air coverage or assistance was never planned nor promised.

For almost two years since that attack, numerous authorities had stated that the air coverage was promised. So far as all writers and officials have disclosed, such a promise had never been denied by the president. If he did not promise this assistance, he was doing the people of the United States and Cuba an injustice by not clearing up the matter. During all that time he was extremely anxious to put through a ransom program to obtain the release of those captured in the invasion. This finally was done, though government assistance, including a reported promise to allow income tax deductions on money thus contributed. There were even hints that many of those who contributed did so under government pressure.

Among those who said President Kennedy promised air support for the invasion was Dagoberto Darias, who commanded a transport vessel in the exile attack. He said air cover was promised and assured that President Kennedy belonged the Union patriots, although "his brother is attempting to muddy him on the Bay of Pigs issue."

Another of the leaders in the Cuban invasion, said an American army colonel assured him there would be "full air control."

Darias said C.I.A. members had said there would be air cover. He added that on the morning the attack was mounted 22 jets bearing the invaders' insignia flew over the boats carrying exile troops. "This proves they were prepared to give us air power," Darias said.

These things and Robert Kennedy's recent statement leave us wondering how many mistakes Robert thinks his brother has made and whether he concurs in a Washington official's statement that the government has a right to lie to the people.

Government In The Black

If the United States government decided to call it quits today, it could get out of the business of running the country and have a small profit to show for its efforts. This is shown by figures submitted by the house committee on government operations.

Such a statement suggests several random thoughts. One is that the government might do well to rid itself of some 50 to 75 per cent of its present undertakings. Another is some surprise that the government is still in the black as far as all its holdings are concerned. Still another is that the government has done as well as a good many of its individual citizens but not nearly as well as most of them.

There are some individuals who, if they were to sell the family automobiles, the home, the furniture and all their other holdings, would not have enough to pay off what they owe on those things. On the other hand, there are thousands upon thousands who owe no debts and who have substantial holdings.

The house committee on government operations says United States holdings are worth $299.4 billions as of June 30, 1962, while the national debt was $289.2 billions.

Government real estate alone, consisting of some 772 million acres, is appraised at $86 billion but the committee says it is worth much more because it is listed at acquisition prices rather than what it would bring today. For example the 18 acres around the White House is valued at only $1,000.

The defense department has the largest chunk of holdings among the government departments—some $165 billion worth, or more than half of the total. Of this, $74 billion represents military equipment in use and $41 billion in supplies and special funds.

While government real estate undoubtedly is listed at far less than its value, military equipment and supplies, if listed at their purchase value, are greatly over-valued. They are about in the class of used furniture and, if sold, would bring only a fraction of the cost value.

We are not complaining about the government's not being richer. In fact, there are many ways in which we wish it would reduce its holdings. There does not seem to be any reason under the sun for the government to own 772 million acres of land. Furthermore, the government is constantly acquiring new land, thus leaving less for the citizens.

What we need is a reduction in government operations, a reduction in taxes, a return to freer enterprise and a turning away from socialism.

From 1817 until the Civil War no internal taxes were levied by the United States, as customs and sale of land provided sufficient revenue.

The Internal Revenue reorganization of 1952 abolished all political appointments in Internal Revenue Service except for the position of Commissioner.

The U.S. Internal Revenue Service, which received 100 million returns in 1962, anticipates 113 million returns by 1970 and 135 million by 1980.

Views Of Our Readers

Engineers

Ruston, La.

To the Editor:

The Louisiana Tech Engineering Foundation, Inc., is a non-profit organization composed of some 2,000 members of which approximately 50 per cent are employed in industry throughout Louisiana. This represents the engineer segment of some 10,000 eligible members of the Louisiana Tech Alumni Association and Foundation, Inc. residing in Louisiana.

The following article is submitted to your paper for publication as you may deem proper, as we believe any emphasis that can be placed toward increasing the undergraduate engineering enrollment at Louisiana Tech is a long range service to our Nation as well as to ourselves.

"At a time when there is such a great demand for engineering graduates, one of the reasons engineering enrollments are falling to a dangerous point in the U. S. is due to the indiscriminate use of 'scientist' in referring to everything that both scientists and engineers produce. We have a forlorn saying in the engineering world to the effect that when something's successful it's a scientific breakthrough; but when it's unsuccessful it's an engineering failure."

So writes Richard D. Blanchard, chairman of the public information committee of the American Society for Engineering Education. Blanchard writes in part:

"Without engineers, this country or any other, would never reach the moon in a million years, let alone have the space vehicles already operational. The usually technical fields of engineers and scientists are being lumped together in the most untechnical way by the public. This view by the public is having an alarming effect upon engineering. Attendance is down at many engineering colleges throughout the country.

"It all goes back to the time of Sputnik in 1957," he says. "There was a big attack on education. Everybody it seemed, began placing emphasis o nthe pure sciences with a dash of romantic luster. Some guidance counsellors in high schools began recommending that their students enter this romantic realm."

"As a result the old working engineer began taking a back seat," said Blanchard. "But his job is just as exacting as science. And it pays every bit as well."

But, Blanchard explained, the trend from engineering to the pure sciences began taking its toll. Many small engineering colleges throughout the country reported decreases in enrollment because many persons did not have a clear definition of the word scientist. Blanchard points out that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is engaged in the greatest manhunt in history for engineering and scientific talent. It takes both for a successful space program.

So remember the next time a satellite or space capsule goes winging through the heavens:

Dog Letter Answered

Eros, La.

To the Editor:

Reference is made to the letter which appeared in your paper on Sunday, January 13, 1963, written by Mr. Harry V. Sikorski of Jonesville, Louisiana. He did not make it clear as to whether he still travels 126,000 per year and if so it doesn't seem that he has retired. Even if he traveled this distance in a year's time before he retired, I can see why he thinks the people of his locality are so cruel, ignorant and filthy; he never was at home to make friends. I have never heard of this man, but I can almost assure you that he is not a fisherman because if he were, he would have a different opinion of his people. This is the livelihood of the people in Jonesville and having stopped there many times, I can assure you that there are plenty of friendly people in this nice town. It has been my experience that you determine the attitude of people toward yourself by the way your actions are in regards to them. Mr. Sikorski's language indicates he needs some help . . . I will let him decide who can help him most.

Now, getting to his dog. I have wrecked two very nice automobiles attempting to miss hitting a dog which ran out in front of me. My dog is my responsibility and if I desire to keep him off the road, I will build a yard to put him in.

Needless to say, it has been established many, many times that people of the deep south have a friendly attitude which is almost impossible to find in some of the northern country.

If all of us could take our minds off ourselves and give more of our time and energy to the assistance of others, this world would be a paradise for all of us.

Yours truly, from a friendly town,
Jimmie D. Pyles

Resents Pressure

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

A few days ago one of those out of town promoters called me on the telephone and tried to put the heat on me to give him money for an advertisement in a fireman's journal. I told him very quickly that I did not handle such matters over the telephone and further I would do nothing until I had checked with our fire chief.

Our local firemen depend on local businessmen for contributions to their pension fund. When these outsiders put the heat on local merchants and other businessmen it could have an adverse effect on our contributions to that fund.

If all our business men would establish a firm policy of not dealing with this telephone solicitation business, we could save a lot of money that might be used for our own local projects.

I have a good friend who has been falling for this kind of racket. He has said he was afraid he would offend someone and lose a sale. I contend that it would be far better to lose a sale (if true) than to give his support to an out of town racket.

If a project has any merit, it is worth a personal call. That's my motto and I propose to stick to it come h —— or high water.

Takes Position

Girard, La.

To the Editor:

It is most gratifying to see the position taken by your paper, in which is revealed the many things going on in the Kennedy brothers, et al camps throughout the world, toward the goal, pronounced by the President himself, to unite the whole world into one world organization through the United Nations, which is well on its way.

This un - American principled, organization, controlled by communistic countries, destroying independent nations, by military forces, at bankrupt cost to the people all over the world. Not even are the small countries allowed to settle their differences, by war, or peaceful means.

It is no longer conversation what we are going to have, we have it already. Can you imagine anyone priding himself with being a citizen of a free America? If you think so, just ponder the situation of the state University, of Mississippi. Controlled, after captured by the military forces, of the U. S. in violation of every precept, of fundamental sovereign laws set fourth in the U. S. Constitution, disregarding precedents of all jurisprudence, rendered by our most respected justices for a century.

Unless something takes shape in this present Congress, now in session to restrain the irresponsible impulses of the politically hunger, power - mad forces, we find ourselves right where Stalin predicted we would wind up, "BROKE AND TAKEN BY THE COMMUNISTS."

There is not a public institution in America that is out of reach of the clutches if this tirade of imperialistic unconstitutional, ecumenical - minded idolistic monstrosity.

Katanga Assault Hit

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

The Katanga editorial in the Morning World last Tuesday was forceful and convincing.

The misuse of concentrated military power by the U. N. in this case is simply history in repetition. The world has seen its Alexander, Caesar, Antony, Napoleon, Mussolini, Hitler and Hirohito leave scars on the embattled stage of life. Today their offshots, Khrushchev, Mao Tse-tung, Castro (and because of Katanga must we also add Kennedy?) whose destimes too, as the warriors of old are written in vanishing sands.

It is not idle to ponder if ultimately the Frontiersmen will deploy U. N. military forces to compel integration in this country, not only of the nation's schools, but every other form of American life, including intermarriage and mongrelization of the white race. The successful use of U. N. forces in ravaging a defenseless Katanga well could be their springboard of inspiration that augurs only ill omens for the white race everywhere.

An interesting sidelight of the Katanga disgrace would be unearthing of identity of the actual owners of the rich mineral deposits of Katanga or who eventually will turn up owning them. This truth would shed revealing light on the motive for aggression of that helpless, half - savage province of innocent Negroes who by violent and highly questionable means have been deprived of the freedom that by all rules of the game has been fairly won —which deprivation has been fathered by Frontiersmen who, on the other hand, promise the American Negro the proverbial rainbow pot of gold. Shades of Washington and Patrick Henry!

Brinsmade Lauded

Bastrop, La.

To the Editor:

I read with interest the letter by Rev. A. T. Mitchell in last Sunday's Morning World concerning Mr. H. H. Brinsmade.

He surely took a leading role in contributing to the advancement of Monroe and this area through the Monroe papers and Rev. Mitchell is to be commended in bringing this thought back to the local people.

When the Bastrop Rotary Club in 1959 sponsored a move to erect a monument to the memory of Louis Lock, the discoverer of the first natural gas well in North Louisiana, Mr. Brinsmade, through his column, "Jes' Ramblin," played a major role in securing funds for the project. Not only did he use his column but he personally contacted many people and by letter and phone as well. He personally contributed a nice sum to the cause. Although he never knew Louis Lock personally, he bent writing efforts to secure the funds.

His efforts, along with many others, were rewarded, as is evidenced by the sizeable monument that now stands in the Bastrop court house square.

I like to think of Mr. Brinsmade and the fine things he has done for his community.

Exit Of Adenauer

Speculation Mounting About What Europe's Future To Be

Speculation is mounting in informed circles here about what the future of Europe will be, now that the retirement of German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is at hand.

The question mark is heightened by current efforts of France to block permanently the entry of the United Kingdom into the Common Market and the French determination to develop a nuclear capability independent of Anglo-American control.

The 87-year-old German leader, who is slated to step down as chief executive by autumn, was a dominant force in the remaking of Europe in the decade of the 1950s.

In addition to his efforts in support of the creation of the European Economic Community, Adenauer and the equally eminent and scarcely less venerable French President Charles de Gaulle, 72, brought to life a genuine Franco - German alliance.

The meaning and future of this alliance will be of considerable significance to the future of Europe and of the West.

German experts here doubt that Adenauer ever had the same mystical interest DeGaulle sometimes appears to have in recreating the Franco - German union the emperor Charlemagne reigned over a millenium ago. Adenauer's aim, they hold, was more practical and direct: he believes passionately that the animosity which led France and Germany into three years against each other in less than 100 years must be washed away and the two nations must work hand in hand for their mutual betterment.

It is generally conceded that Adenauer will be succeeded by Ludwig Erhard, the present vice chancellor of Germany, who as economics minister provided much of the governmental leadership which brought about Germany's economic rebirth.

Erhard has the almost certain support of the dominant Christian Democratic Union (party); in addition he is popular with the opposition Social Democrats and would likely have their support if new elections should force the two parties into a coalition with one another.

Adenauer now maintains political control of Germany through a coalition with the splinter Free Democrats, but it is speculated here that a future German head of government might find a coalition with the Social Democrats more attractive than the present arrangement with the unpredictable Free Democrats.

It is generally acknowledged that neither Erhard nor any German leader who may follow him can develop the same personal relationship with DeGualle that exists between the Frenchman and Adenauer.

Nonetheless, informed persons say, much of the relationship which now exists between France and Germany has been worked out by negotiations at lower levels of government and could not easily be wiped away even if future leaders should desire it.

For example, every German university has a sister - university in France. On ceremonial occasions representatives of the sister institution are always on hand.

Cultural centers of each nation dot the other.

It is considered unlikely here, however, that this special French-German relationship will have an adverse effect on the continuing trend toward unification of all western Europe, even including Britain.

The idea of Europe as a single entity cannot be blocked by any single European national leader, no matter how determined he may be, it is generally believed.

And the opposition to a united Europe including Britain is largely represented by a single leader — DeGualle — according to at least one German expert here.

He contends that Adenauer has always thought in the broad terms of Europe and Atlantic Alliance though he has sometimes appeared to support a French-German "third force" in an effort to humor the president of France.

DeGualle himself is almost certainly approaching retirement also; his departure from the scene will contribute to reducing the mystigue of the Franco-German alliance to an expression of what it really is — a close cultural and social relationship between geographically adjacent nations.

Speculation about what impact this relationship may have upon the future of Europe is difficult. Assistant Secretary of State Robert Manning said in a recent speech:

"As we look from January 1963 into the future, we are struck first by how much of the past is indeed past . . .

"While thinking in old terms and talking with old slogans, we have been carried into an era of new chapters, of new adventures and new risks."

France, Germany, Europe, the world appear to be entering an age which will continue only imperfectly from what has gone before. And its history will be made by other men than Konrad Adenauer and Charles de Gaulle.

Art Boondoggling

Despite Huge Budget, Pressure Revived For Art Subsidy

Not satisfied with the biggest budget in history, New Frontiersmen are reviving pressure for government subsidy of the arts. The argument being offered to justify putting artists on the Federal payroll is a hoary one: The public is too crass to support poor, misunderstood painters. People don't go to galleries or buy pictures. Therefore, the Federal government should shove it down their throats.

Much of this talk comes from New Frontiersmen who are either esthetically illiterate or whose ideas on the subject have never passed the high school oh-and-ah level.

To simple fact is that Federally-subsidized art would be the biggest boondoggle in history. Art in America has become a racket in which a small group now in control awards itself fancy prizes in an endless daisy chain. Recently in Chicago, an artist was handed $1,000 for a "painting" consisting of a solid black canvas. It could have been done with a house-painter's roller, but those who "judged" it exclaimed over its "subtlety."

Here in Washington, one of the nation's great competitions, the 28th Biennial Exhibition of Painting at the Corcoran Galleries, is such a demonstration of privileged phoniness and incompetence that the Sunday Star's art critic, Frank Getlein, suggested: "The best way to approach (it) is with your eyes closed." A painting called "Thursday," by one Jack Tworkow won the $2,000 first prize and a gold medal. It is simply a roughly filled-in, green back-ground with a haphazard grid of red lines — the kind of thing a bored child does to keep his kindergarten teacher off his back. Mr. Getlein remarks that it "suggests only an artist painting nothing but paintings of nothing but paint."

THE ALMANAC

Today is Sunday, Jan. 27, the 27th day of 1963 with 338 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this day include Wolfgang Mozart, great Austrian musician and composer, in 1756.

On this day in history:

In 1862, President Abraham Lincoln issued general war order No. 1, instructing Northern Army and naval forces to be ready to make their first moves in the Civil War.

In 1880, Thomas E. Edison was granted a patent for an electric incandescent lamp.

In 1943, the U.S. Eighth Air Force staged first all-American air raid of World War II on Germany, bombing Wilhelmshaven in broad daylight.

In 1962, a U.S. Ranger spacecraft missed the moon by 22,000 miles.

A thought for the day—Abraham Lincoln once said: "Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it."

Spotlight: A Look Behind The Headlines

EDITOR'S NOTEBOOK

The Week In Retrospect

BY JACK GATES

Domestic Tax Issues

The major news in Washington the past week was the two - prong tax revision program submitted to Congress by President Kennedy. One section of the overall plan would cut individual income tax rates from the present 20- to - 91 per cent range to 14 to 65 per cent over three years and cut corporate rates from the present 52 per cent to 47 per cent over two years. This, it is estimated would clip $13.6 billion in taxes now collected by the government and would, over the three - year period, give each person roughly an 18 per cent cut in his income tax.

But the second prong of the plan called off - setting "reforms," would be aimed at getting part of the cut back. This would be done by drastically limiting deductions for such items as mortgage interest, charitable contributions, medical expenses, local and state taxes. Actually what this means is that only that part of the total outlays exceeding five per cent of a taxpayer's income could be deducted. This could result in less money for churches and charities, particularly.

While under the proposals between 750,000 and 1,000,000 low - income taxpayers would pay na taxes, it could result in an increase for some —particularly those who use the itemized form in filing returns. As some put it—"It's like giving you a stick of candy with one hand and grabbing it back with the other."

Congressmen see little trouble for the tax reduction plan, but predict a major fight over the so - called reforms provision. In fact, most don't believe if will be approved. At any rate, the experts suggest that it might be a good idea for the taxpayers to keep an itemized list of all their expenditures this year — just in case.

Other Domestic Issues

At the week end, a new debate, mixed with charges and counter - charges, were raging over just what the Russians had in Cuba militarily speaking and just how much of a victory the U. S. won in the alleged removal of missiles from Cuba by the Soviets. Earlier in the week, some senators charged that the Russians were engaging in another tremendous military buildup in Cuba. At his press conference Thursday, the president claimed there was no new Soviet military buildup in Cuba at present. But some senators, particularly Senators George D. Aiken of Vermont, and Stuart Symington of Missouri emerged from a closed door briefing of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Friday unconvinced. Appearing before the committee were Secretary of State Dean Rusk and John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency. Aiken said "I think the Russians have built an enormously strong military and political base in Cuba, much stronger than it was six months ago . . . Some of their weapons would be offensive according to my sensibilities." This, incidentally, is the same situation that existed before the blowup came over the Russian missiles in Cuba six months ago.

Meanwhile, Senator J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas claimed that President Kennedy must be given more power in foreign affairs even though the prospect is "disagreeable and perhaps a dangerous one." This brought immediate response from others who took a rather dim view of increasing the president's powers along these lines.

One cheering note was injected in the otherwise heavy flow of news — not so cheering — the past week. Living costs, as measured by the government, declined by two-tenths of one per cent in December because of lower food prices. It was the largest decline for any month in four years. However, even this had a sour note. As the government was releasing the figures, a far-ranging cold front swept the United States, causing heavy losses in the fruit and vegetable growing sections of the nation. The result, according to the experts, will be higher food prices for the next several months. All - time records for the 20th Century were set at Akron, Ohio, which had a -21; at Cleveland with a -21, at Lexington, Kentucky -21 to name a few. In one spot in Kentucky it was 34 below zero. In the Twin - Cities area, the reading dropped to 8 above zero — which was not the coldest reading here. Much to the dismay of the small fry, it failed to snow.

At Tyler, Texas the past week, one chapter was closed on the free - wheeling career of dapper, churchgoing Billie Sol Estes, whose financial pyramid crashed with a jolt felt in Washington and Wall Street. After denying Estes a new trial, Judge Otis Dunagan formally pronounced an eight-year sentence. He did allow Estes to appeal and set him free under $5,000 bond until the issue was settled. Many other charges are still pending against the West Texan.

Cuba isn't the only place that low flying U. S. jet planes are photographing. The Justice Department has disclosed that it has had photographs made of the campus of the University of Alabama where several Negroes have applied for admission. Said a JP spokesman "We wished to have those photographs in case they were needed. In our critique of our operation at the University of Mississippi we found it would have been very helpful if we had had aerial photographs and we did not have them."

On the labor front, one major strike was settled, but damaging ones continued. Late Friday the International Longshoremen's Association called an end to its 34 - day old strike from Maine - to - Texas docks which had cost nearly $900 million. Longshoremen started moving ships and cargo Saturday. This should give the U. S. economy a lift. Meanwhile, the New York newspaper strike is no closer to settlement than before. Estimates show that the first seven weeks of the strike has cost the newspapers, their employes and the city's newsdealers an estimated $41 million.

Cold War's Irony

In one of the jarring ironies of the cold war — at the very moment the West should be able to enjoy seeing the Communist world splitting apart—an ominous crack opens in the western alliance.

In the West, which watched with amusement and hope the Russians and Red Chinese attacking each other indirectly, the U. S. and France are doing the same to each other, both indirectly and directly. The jobs —— most of them not crotched in diplomatic language — were delivered the past week by President Kennedy and General Charles de Gaulle. The dispute has two facets — and both probably are caused by de Gaulle's big dream of restoring former grandeur to France.

In the first instance, de Gaulle doesn't want England in the European Common Market and has thrown up many roadblocks. He says he has not actually turned down Britain's bid, but said contemptuously that France's goal for the market was something "properly European" —meaning Britain was an outsider and was a huge Atlantic community "under American leadership and domination."

Secondly, de Gaulle wants France to have its own nuclear force — and not be tied in with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's nuclear force, which President Kennedy wants. He even went so far as to suggest that the U.S. might not defend Western Europe in case of a nuclear attack by Russian, or might not be capable of doing so.

Although the President has been described as being deeply irritated by de Gaulle's charges and actions, he had held his temper to a degree, but has been rather blunt also in some statements.

The President emphasized the need for a united West and added: that de Gaulle's charges about the U. S. defending the West were "inaccurate." The President said that although everyone might not believe in the U. S. commitment to defend Europe, "I believe that Chairman Khrushchev does, and I think he is right." In his dispute with the Red Chinese Khrushchev warned that the U. S. had 40,000 nuclear missiles which could destroy practically the entire world. And he warned that such an arsenal made it imperative that there be no war.

On the common market, the President want's Britain in and says it is vital for a strong, united Europe, operating behind the protective shield of U. S. nuclear might.

As the week ended, it appeared that the rift between France and the United States would continue to widen, although the President has announced the formation of a high powered diplomatic-military team to prepare proposals for a NATO nuclear force and to negotiate with allied governments in Europe. It is doubtful that de Gaulle, a strong - willed and crusty Frenchman, will give in on the two points, unless he is convinced that it will help him to raise France to its former glorious status.

Meanwhile in other international news:

Two old enemies of long-standing, France and West Germany, agreed on a document which while unthinkable 20 years ago, may not last out the lifetime of the two who signed it — French President de Gaulle and Chancellor Adenauer. The treaty pledged closer cooperation in foreign policy, defense and cultural development between the two ancient enemies. What will happen after the two pass from the scene is a guess — but most figure the treaty will be dropped. De Gaulle is 72 and Adenauer is 87.

In Viet Nam, where the bloody, undeclared war continues without pause, the United States has instituted a bold gamble by arming 2,500 Viet Cong Red) sympathizers in an effort to gain control of the vital South Vietnamese highlands. So far about 25,000 mountain tribesmen have been trained and equipped with up-to-date American weapons in the highlands. It was assumed from the beginning that about 10 per cent are sympathizers of the Communist guerrillas sent to infiltrate the ranks of the mountainmen. Reports the past week indicated that so far the bold gamble is paying off — but it, could of course, backfire.

This nation can't seem to win with its foreign aid program. On one hand, many nations failed to use the aid as it's supposed to be, but will continue to take all they can get. At home, the taxpayer and some congressmen are fed up with the continued high cost of the program. A new twist was added the past week by the pro - Communist faction in Laos — the nation we have so much trouble with. The group demanded withdrawal of the U. S. aid mission, charging that it violated the nation's neutrality and endangered the cease - fire. Said the U.S — "The allegations are baseless, ridiculous, and entirely false." What does it mean? . . .Probably a renewed effort by the Communist to break the Geneva agreement and to take over outright control of the nation. . .

The speed of the rocket and missile age seems to have accomplished in Turkey and Italy what the Russian demands failed to do — the withdrawal of the American-made Jupiter missiles from those two nations. President Kennedy disclosed the past week discussion was underway to pull out these once-main keys in the U.S. defense around the Soviet Union. The reason —the Jupiter has become an antique in the rocket age. The U.S. deterrent threat for the Mediterranean area will now be submarines armed with Polaris missiles. A danger period, however, could exist from the time of the pullout of the Jupiter missiles until sufficient numbers of the Polaris weapons are deployed . . . too, the range depth of the Polaris will be about 400 miles less than the Jupiters from their present location.

As de Gaulle acted up, another trouble spot developed in the Western setup. Spain called on the U.S. for a new military base deal. There has been speculation that the U.S. may be seeking a Polaris submarine base on Spain's Mediterranean coast in view of the fact the Polaris is replacing the Jupiter in U.S. defense arrangements. Reports from Madrid say the Spanish government has given formal notice it wants to renogotiate its aid-and-bases deal with the U.S. Whatever the outcome, chances are additional costs will be involved for the U.S. and the taxpayers.

A new era opened the past week in the Congo when Premier Moise Tshombe of Katanga tossed in the towel under relentless pressure from United Nation forces, backed up by the United States and agreed, in effect, to become a part of the Congo federation. President Kennedy hailed the end of what he called the Katanga secession and said the people of the Congo now "have a unique opportunity to rally behind their national and provincial leadership" in a unity drive. Others, mainly Britain and Belgium, saw it different. It was pointed out that Tshombe was the only solid supporter the West had in the Congo and that Communists now would have a better chance of infiltrating that area. Only time will tell whether the U.S. won or lost in this effort.

Oddities And Facts

Something Captain John Smith said back in Jamestown, Virginia a couple of hundred years ago or so when he was trying to get people to work was repeated the past week in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Representative Paul C. Jones, Democrat of Missouri bluntly repeated Smith's words in effect when he said that his colleagues are supposed to be "operating under a no work, no pay rule." Smith said "no work — no eat", Jones read an old law which provides for docking the pay of a Congressman who is absent without leave of the House. "This is a reasonable law," Jones said. "I would be happy to be told why it is not enforced." He charged that if members find it necessary to leave Washington during the session to carry on more lucrative work at home "they should not object to pay deductions during their absence. If the law had been enforced, incidentally, the day Jones spoke, about $19,000 would have been docked from congressional pay. . . .

If you think 9 is cold when the air is still, just think what it would be if the wind were blowing . . . or think how much colder it would be if the wind were blowing harder. The Army, it seems — and what will they think of next — has a "chill chart" from which these weighty matters can be determined exactly. For example, if the temperature is 20 degrees and the wind is blowing at only one mile an hour, the effect on the exposed skin is the same as 11 degrees below zero in still air. And if the temperature is 20 and the wind is five miles an hour that's equal to 27 degrees below. If the wind is 10 miles an hour it is equivalent to 38 below. Is that cold enough?

The Food and Agriculture Organization of the UN has come up with some calculations that may never materialize. It says the world's skyrocketing population is expected to double by the end of the century. This means the population would be around six billion. The organization said that it took tens of thousands of years from the dawn of mankind for the world to reach one billion population by 1830. But it took only 100 years, until 1930, to reach two billion, and only 30 years until 1960 to reach three billion. During the next 40 years, the population is expected to double, and from then — it will go in huge multiples ever year. The FAO was a little worried about feeding this increase, pointing out that the world's food production must double by 1980 and triple by the year 2000. It appears that the organization may not have taken one fact into consideration — a nuclear war could throw the rate off schedule for a ood many thousands of more years . . .

Some feminine wrath probably is going to fall on the head of some New Hampshire legislators. The past week, Representative Peter P. Gharland, a 75 - year-old grandfather introduced a bill outlawing the display of feminine legs more than one inch above the knee. He said he filled the measure because he has "long been disgusted seeing women, some even expectant others, cluttering shopping centers in shorts." Some opposition might also develop from men — particularly those under 74½ years old.

Bay Of Pigs

If the charges and countercharges continue long enough the American people may yet find out if U. S. air cover was promised and then called off for the ill - fated so-called Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba in 1961 by a group of Cuban patriots.

There seems little doubt—despite various denials — that some form of air cover was promised for the attack on the Communist - dominated island only 90 miles from the U. S. mainland. But it never materialized and the argument has waxed long and at times fiery over the development.

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, the President's brother, touched off the latest flareup the past week when he claimed President Kennedy had never issued any last minute orders canceling the air cover — as he had been charged in some quarters — "because no air cover ever was planned." He added that the basic reason for the failure of the venture was inadequate planning.

Later in the week, the President at his press conference — followed up on his brother's statement by reiterating practically the same statement. He said that no U. S. air cover was promised, although there was supposed to have been some form of protection. This, he said, was to have been provided by B-26 bombers flown by pilots from other nations. These planes, he added, were not based in the United States. The jet trainers, furnished by the Russians, the President added, soon knocked what planes that were used from the skies and made air protection for the patriots impossible.

Two other took issue with the President and his brother. In Miami, Florida, Cuban exile leader Dr. Manuel Antonio de Varona said that the U. S. had promised air cover for the invasion. He said he was told in February 1961 by the training camp commander of the invasion forces — a U. S. colonel designated by the U. S. government as head of the camp where the Cubans were trained — that there would be "full air control. Then he added, "The Bay of Pigs episode, some day will require the full investigation which always precedes the just recording of historians."

At week's end, an even stronger statement was made by Florida newspaper editor Jack W. Gore of the Fort Lauderdale News. He said that President Kennedy disclosed a month after the ill-fated Cuban invasion that air cover was canceled by presidential order.

Gore said he and six other Florida newspaper executives visited the President at the White House on May 10, 1961 — after the invasion had failed — and were told in an off - the - record comment that the order canceling the air cover was issued by the president. Gore went on to say that he honored the off-record request for two years and would have continued to do so if the president's brother had not "conducted an official autopsy of the sorry affair and made comments which are in direct contrast to the words of the president."

So the full story still is not known and we all still have our choice of what to believe.

On The Local Scene

On the local scene, there were several interesting developments — besides the weather deep freeze . . .

Another disagreement appeared in the making over the Ouachita Parish School Board's action to build a new school board office and transferring the location to West Monroe. Sources say a taxpayers suit will be filed early this week, challenging the expenditure of the funds for the new building, which was approved by a split vote of the board.

Deadline for purchase of the new license is February 6.

The Monroe police department's 1962 report on crime was released the past week — and it was good — from the law's side of the ledger.

Police Chief James C. Kelly solved 299 out of 442 crimes reported in 1962 and that there was a slight drop the past year over previous years. In 1961, there were 488 crimes reported and Kelly said the department closed 64.9 per cent, while 67.4 percent of such crimes were closed in 1962.

In politics, most of the news centered in Baton Rouge. There Commissioner of Administration James S. Reily, Governor J. H. Davis' top fiscal office said Louisiana can count on an extra $25 to $30 million from existing taxes next fiscal year and that the state budget would be held within that level. Meanwhile, the Legislative Budget Committee, spurred by a court suit, set a hard, detailed appropriation policy to control state agency spending. It set a tough line on such items as travel and expense of various committees. In lining up plans for a review of state agency spending requests in advance of the May fiscal legislature, the committee also decided to give education preference in any extra funds. Later in the week, Governor Davis, exercising a governor's right in Louisiana, fired H. Loyd Hawkins Sr., from the state mineral board. He named Frank H. Harrell of Shreveport as a replacement.

Britain's 2 Biggest Parties Square Off

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

LONDON AP)—Britain's two biggest parties are squaring off like a couple of heavyweights for their toughest electoral contest in a decade. They look groggy even before the campaign bell rings. There seems to be a glazed look in the eyes of both the Tories who follow Prime Minister Macmillan and the Laborites mourning Hugh Gaitskell.

Each party has suffered setbacks. As a result the next election seems wide open. It will probably come this year, and must be held by October 1964.

It could be that the tidy frontiers of Britain's two-party system will disappear—with Jo Grimond's Liberals rising as a third force with the balance of power.

WHAT'S AHEAD

In that case instability and uncertainty could lie ahead for Britain—matching the nation's worried mood as it searches for its role in a changing world.

Just before Gaitskell died pollsters reported 44 out of 100 voters would back Labor in any immediate election, with 36 for the Tories (Conservatives). Liberals would pick up most of the other votes.

The British electoral system is so delicately poised that a mere three per cent swing toward Labor would soak up the Tories' present margin of 100 seats in the 630-member House of Commons.

A jumble of events is pointing to widespread disenchantment with many Macmillan policies.

Unemployment is rising. Industrial unrest, plus old methods and machines, has brought power and gas cuts to millions shivering in an ice-age winter. Road and rail services have been snarled. Failure has trailed some of Macmillan's policies in Africa, Europe and over defense.

Anger is welling up over Charles de Gaulle's gruff "non" to Britain's bid to join the Common Market.

Gaitskell's death with power seemingly in sight transformed the political scene. He had projected an image of moderation, sincerity and competence for a party that has spent 12 years in the political wilderness. In a land of shifting political loyalties, such an image could be decisive.

Laborites have yet to agree on a successor who will preserve his policies. Whether rightwinger George Brown or left of center Harold Wilson takes over, the new leader still will have to display the stature of a man ready to be prime minister.

Few doubt that Laborites will invoke Gaitskell's spirit in the bid to form their second postwar government.

It would be a government free from doctrinaire commitments to socialize great industries—their predecessors nationalized the coal mines, railroads, public utilities, the Bank of England. On the home front Labor's main pledge is to expand the economy, multiply investment and keep the nation solvent.

Labor remains attached to Western alliances and claims a close affinity to the spirit if not the acts of President Kennedy's New Frontiersmen. Yet the party's official program would move Britain toward a middle position in the East-West power conflict.

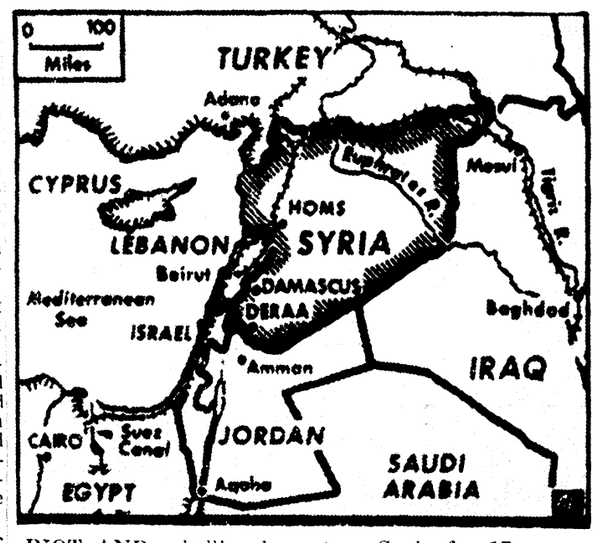
Among labor's official aims, endorsed by Gaitskell himself:

1. A disengagement program in Europe that would leave East and West Germany neutral and nearly disarmed, and create an atom-free zone on both sides of the iron curtain.

2. A settlement with the Soviet Union to disarm and neutralize the Middle East and the Far East —with a United Nations regime for Formosa.

3. A British withdrawal from the nuclear power league, as a step toward formation of a "non-nuclear club" of countries shunning all but classical weapons.

Of course, events between now and election time can have an effect not only on voters but on party policy.



RIOT AND rebellion have torn Syria for 17 years since independence. Cities of Damascus, Deraa and Homs were trouble spots this month. Currently, the nation may be headed for a stable period. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Revolt, Unrest Still Rake Syria

By DAVID LANCHASHIRE

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — His desert headdress tugging in the wind, an old peasant knelt at the roadside, his head bowed toward faraway Mecca.

Behind him in the town of Deraa, machine guns pointed like accusing fingers above the iron snouts of armored cars. The Syrian army had just quelled another riot.

The scene sketched the sickness of modern Syria: the reverent longings for Allah, Arab brotherhood and security, and the fires of political unrest that have scorched those longings for 17 years since independence.

MOBS MARCHED

This month student mobs marched through Deraa and nearby villages, stoning police and shouting for Syria to rejoin Egypt in the United Arab Republic. In Damascus, where the riots were almost ignored as routine, some of the officers whose rebellion dissolved the union with President Gamal Abdel Nasser 16 months ago, called out their tanks again and threatened to rupture the army itself.

Behind the army crisis was a calculating colonel named Abdel Kerim Nahlawi, exiled to Europe last year because of his penchant for staging coups d'etat—two in six months.

In from the desert rolled Nahlawi's old tank units, blocking two military airfields, as the ex-officer demanded reinstatement for his supporters and a reshuffle in Syria's politically balanced high command. Outraged by the challenge, other tank troops in northern Homs and two veteran infantry units from the Israeli frontier prepared to march on Damascus as a countermove.

At this point, Prime Minister Khaled El-Azem drew on the stature and know-how he has acquired from 20 years in the forefront of Syrian politics. He boldly pushed aside the floundering high command and told Nahlawi and his associates—who had returned from Europe—to trade in their steel helmets for diplomatic homburgs.

The reluctant Nahlawi was packed off as first embassy secretary in Bonn. The others flew to posts in London, Prague and Madrid, and the crisis was past.

Veteran observers who watch the merry-go-round of Syrian politics saw the outcome as a possible prelude to stability.

Syria's Soviet-equipped soldiers are notorious for dabbling in politics but this was the second time in seven months that the civilian government had managed to overrule the army. More important, the crisis seemed to reveal that the military—a patchwork of conflicting political views—was so divided that any ambitious officer would have a tough time rounding up enough support for another revolution.

U.S. aid loans are building a network of storage siloes and a telecommunications system. The Soviet Union is going ahead with a railway, cement and fertilizer plants and a series of smaller projects.

From West Germany this month came the biggest aid project Syria has ever had—an $87-million agreement to finance a giant dam on the Euphrates River.

Trouble still could come, however, in a land where students miss about one-third of their school year because of strikes and demonstrations. Pro-Nasser sentiment remains strong at the grass roots level. Other political splits that divide the Syrian people could widen dangerously with elections this summer.

MONROE DISTRICT

13 Completions Are Reported In Oil, Gas Activity

Sub - freezing temperatures did little last week to slow activity in the Monroe Oil and Gas District or reverse the trend of heaviest concentrations of drilling in recent weeks in the Monroe Gas Field of Ouachita and Union Parishes.

The Monroe Field accounted for 11 of the total 13 completions reported over the 14 parishes, according to figures released by Manager Duncan S. Cook, with Ouachita Parish finalling three of the wells and Union eight. Single completions occurred in Tensas and LaSalle Parishes.

Of 16 new locations staked during the week, five were in the Monroe Field, one in Ouachita Parish and four in Union. Others included sites in Catahoula, Concordia and Grant, one each in Rapides and LaSalle Parishes.

Two were two recompletions during the week, both in the LaSalle Parish Gum Bayou field, both south of Hard Oil Mountain.

'Plus Signs' Continue In Stock Mart

Recoveries Aid Market To Rise For Sixth Week

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced stubbornly land week against profit taking and racked up its sixth straight weekly rise.

Except for Wednesday, when stocks and rails were in gear, pacing an old-fashioned rally, the market's daily gains were narrow. But every day brought plus signs to the averages and the sum total was respectable.

The market was eating into an "overhead supply" of stock for sale, held by those who did not get out of the market in time to escape the sharpest phase of the spring plunge. Upon occasion, the market began declining in the face of this type of selling, but before a day ended prices always recovered.

By Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average had managed to top the Jan. 14 close of 675.54, which was the previous high reached in the recovery from the June lows.

With fairly active trading, volume totaled 23,313,478 shares, compared with 23,805,760 the previous week.

The financial world was dominated by President Kennedy's economic message, which brought few surprises, and by his message to Congress giving details of his program for tax reduction and revision. Kennedy's proposals for changes in capital gains rules, repeal of dividend exclusion and credit, and limitation of oil depletion allowance were bound to get a thorough going-over in Congress, so Wall Street regarded these suggestions as tentative.

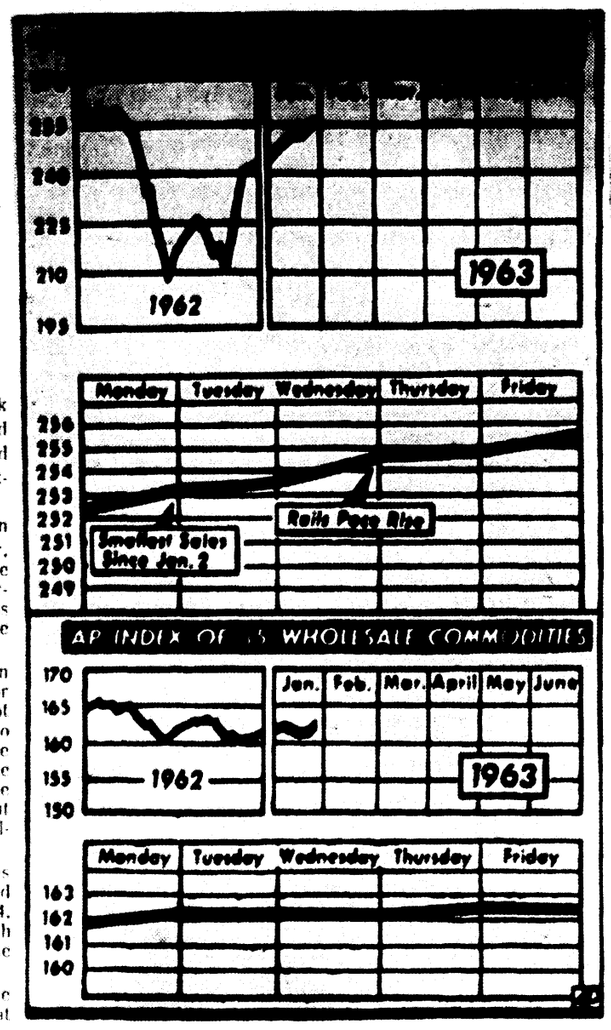
Meanwhile, the auto stocks were spurred by news that car sales in mid-January were well ahead of a year ago. Electrical production rose to a record. The consumer price index dropped slightly in December but the government predicted that winter freezes will move it back up again in January.

As the stock-trading week ended, the striking dock workers on the East and Gulf coasts were ordered back to work by their union, and this was regarded as good news for the railroads and many other businesses.

Weekly steel production was higher, and steel shares played their part in the week's advance. Higher-than-expected profits for Youngstown Sheet provided additional stimulus for steel issues.

The big three motors responded to the encouraging sales figures by pacing the market on one day. Oils, electrical equipments, and other investment-grade issues remained consistently in favor. Brokers also saw signs of a rising interest by the stock-buying public as many lower-prices issues won trading favor.

On the bond market, U.S. Government issues retreated slightly under the pressure of a number of diverse factors. Corporates, as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, were little changed. Corporate trading for the week totaled $24,020,000, compared with $25,262,000 a week earlier.



ASSOCIATED Press averages of 60 stocks advanced for the sixth straight week, closing Friday at 255.4, up from 252.3 a week earlier. The commodity index recorded its second straight weekly gain, closing at 162.3, up from 161.9 last week. Industrials showed the largest advanced. (AP Wirephoto)

Three More UG Workers Move To Office Here

Three more Shreveport employees of United Gas Pipe Line Co. have been transferred here as part of the reorganization program involved in setting up United's newly - formed North Louisiana Area offices at Monroe, according to F. B. Winbery, area manager.

The transferees are Miss Evelyn Martin, senior clerk; Miss Linda Rogers, senior stenographer, and James A. Pike, clerk, all being transferred to United's accounting department here.

Miss Martin joined United Gas at Shreveport on June 15, 1942, was promoted to oil production and royalty clerk in 1944, and to senior clerk in 1956. She was born in Mansfield, attended schools there and is a graduate of Waskom High School and Louisiana State Normal at Natchitoches.

Miss Linda Lou Rogers joined United Gas on May 25, 1959 as a stenographer in the public relations department at Shreveport. She was transfered to the accounting department and promoted to senior stenographer in 1960. Born at Waldo, Ark., she is a graduate of Camden High State College at Magnolia, Ark.

Pike joined United Gas at Lafayette on Nov. 28, 1960, as a junior clerk. Following a year's leave of absence, 1961-62, he returned to the company and was later promoted to clerk on Nov. 16, 1962. Born at Arcadia, he is a graduate of Athens High School and a business administration graduate of the University of Southwestern Louisiana at Lafayette.

Court Ruling On Oil Firm Questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — [illegible] Office of the National Petroleum Refiners Association said in a report to NPRA members that the ruling had raised serious questions whether the Robinson-Patman Anti-Price Discrimination Act "is serving its purpose in petroleum marketing."

The court held unanimously, but with some reservations, that Sun violated the act in 1955 by granting a Jacksonville, Fla., filling station lessee a discount to meet price war competition without giving the same concession to other Sun dealers in the same area.

Sun, a refiner-supplier only, argued the discount was lawful because it was given in "good faith" to meet competition. But the court countered that Sun itself was not in business at the retail level and hence the competition was the dealer's competition, not Sun's.

Robinson-Patman was enacted 25 years ago as an amendment to the Clayton Anti-Trust Act. It was intended to protect small, independent merchants, such as filling station operators, from supplier-buyer pricing deals which froze them out of competition.

In the Sun case the court said in effect that had Sun's dealer competition been a refiner-supplier like Sun, Sun would have been on solid legal ground under a previous good faith decision. But it said Sun had failed to bring out this distinction, and two justices —Potter Stewart and John M. Harlan—suggested Sun reopen its case before the Federal Trade Commission which filed the original discrimination charge.

Sun President Robert Dunlop, still as much at sea as most industry marketers on what is or is not good faith competition, said this would be done.

BEHIND '62 RATE

Domestic Crude Production Lags

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Domestic crude production this year is lagging behind the early 1962 rate that led to record output.

Early 1963 production has averaged about 7,285,000 barrels daily compared to 7,355,000 a year earlier.

The state averaged 2,651,000 barrels daily last January but produced only 2,510,000 barrels a day last week.

Texas officials plan to correct part of the situation, at least temporarily, in February. Next month's proration allowable is expected to boost daily output to 2,574,865 barrels a day.

They frankly indicate however, the February increase was designed as a deliberate test of the current status of demand for Texas crude.

Such a test could aggravate current surplus conditions less in the 28-day February than in the longer months to follow.

If February demand absorbs the modest increase, further cautious hikes would be indicated. If not, March production probably will fall.

The world oil surplus that has existed since 1957 has dictated caution in setting allowables but Texas producers—and tax collectors—say they have had enough belt-tightening.

The surplus of oil dropped Texas output to a low of 2,220,000 barrels daily in mid-1958. The state's all-time record production level of 3,333,000 barrels daily had been set only 14 months earlier.

The February allowable in Texas is keyed to 29 per cent of all proratable production. This is equivalent to 8.12 days under the old calendar-day proration system the state abandoned on Jan. 1.

Texas began 1962 with a nine-day schedule that was followed by 11 consecutive eight-day months. The new pattern that became effective this month was designed to permit fractional adjustments so as to balance Texas crude output with demand.

Market Comment

NEW RECOVERY PEAK

Steady but not spectacular gains characterized trading this week. Blue chips and speculative issues alternated in the spotlight. The Dow - Jones Industrial Average (DJIA) moved up 7 points to score a new recovery high at 679, and the rails which have been consolidating for two weeks came to life again. Other groups faring well were the steels, electric equipments, utilities textiles, liquors, coppers and meat packers. However, the aerospace issues were under pressure possibly affected by recent progress toward achieving a nuclear test ban agreement. Motors were active, but, with the exception of a rise in American Motors, moved narrowly. Business equipment stocks were mixed as some low priced shares in the group rallied sharply and Xerox fell. IBM showed little change despite a dividend increase.

An 11 per cent drop in the short interest reported for January was taken in stride. The odd lot public displayed little inclination to change their skeptical attitude and rising free credit balances indicated there was money available to come into the market. Some individual stocks in demand this week were American Photocopy, Hueblein, Westinghouse, Youngstown Sheet, Excello, Norfolk and Western RR.

Delta Air Lines

Delta Air Lines declared a stock dividend of 50 per cent payable March 4 to stockholders of record Feb. 8. An extra of 15 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents to be payable March 1 to those of record Feb. 8. Directors also announced their intention of maintaining the present 30-cent quarterly dividend rate on the shares to be outstanding following the 50 per cent stock distribution. A stock dividend of 33 per cent was paid in March last year but no cash extra was paid in 1962.

United Gas Corp.

Excellent customer diversification, a strong reserve position, plus increasing demand for natural gas in the Gulf South, provide an attractive outlook of this good quality equity of a soundly financed company. For the nine months ended September 30, 1962 net income, adjusted to reflect the March rate settlement amounted to $23.4 million or $1.81 a share vs $20.6 million or $1.59 a share. Recent earnings are subject to minor adjustments resulting from the post audit required in the rate settlement. For the full year 1962 earnings should be in the neighborhood of 2.35 a share. At current levels the stock is conservatively evaluated relative to earnings and dividends.

General Motors

Aided by record sales and earnings indicated for 1962 plus the excellent reception accorded GM's cars for 1963 season, the shares have been among the outstanding performers during the market recovery of recent months. In fact, the stock currently is selling at all-time peak levels where it is about one third above its low for the past year or more. With an extremely strong financial position, dividends should represent a reasonably generous portion of future earnings. Including the $1.00 year end extra, GM disbursed a record high total of $3.00 during 1962 and it is believed that this amounted to roughly 60 per cent of earnings, which we estimate were in the general range of $5.00 (including non-recurring capital gains and special dividends from Ethyl Corp., which was sold in late months). GM is regarded as offering sound value for the longer term despite the appreciation already registered, since the corporation enjoys a strong position in the U.S. and foreign fields while new high levels of vehicle demand should be seen in coming years.

• • •

Masonite

As the result of a number of successful new products, which have dramatically enlarged the applications of hardboard, and an effective cost cutting program, Masonite has scored impressive earnings gains in the past year and a half. Net income in the fiscal year to end August 31 will not show the 39 per cent gain posted in the first quarter but could approach $4.00 a share vs $3.31 in fiscal 1962. A continued flow of new products argus well for subsequent results. The stock, a tower of strength in last year's volatile markets, has returned to a three year high but remains a desirable commitment for intermediate to longer term objectives.

ON PROPOSED TAX CUTS

Long-Awaited Answer Given To U.S. Taxpayers

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Taxpayers got a long-awaited answer during the week to a big riddle: What would the proposed tax cuts mean for me?

President Kennedy's detailed outline of his tax program to Congress was particularly good news to lower-bracket individuals and to small businesses. They would be the biggest and earliest beneficiaries.

However, the anticipation of lower tax bills was tempered by the knowledge that the program has what likely will be a long and rocky road ahead in Congress. What the lawmakers decide could well be far different from what the President proposes.

Otherwise, it was a week with good and bad sides. The East and Gulf Coast dock strike, more than a month long, appeared near an end. The wage scale committee of the longshoremen's union recommended acceptance of a presidential fact-finding board's settlement proposals. Most big shippers reluctantly agreed. But there were local tangles, mostly on the Gulf Coast, to be settled before a start could be made on getting the hundreds of idled ships back into operation.

The strike has caused hundreds of millions of dollars in losses and resulted in shortages of some foods and manufacturing materials.

Business in many areas of the country was belted by a cold wave that sent temperatures skidding belted by a cold wave that sent temperatures skidding below zero. Retail sales were slowed and some factories were forced to halt production. New freezes hit the already frozen winter citrus and vegetable-growing areas in Texas, California and Arizona. As a result, prices went up.

Main attention of individuals and corporations alike was focused on the tax developments.

As presented to Congress, the administration's program would mean no more income taxes for people in the lowest income brackets, a cut for most and an increase for a few.

Kennedy told Congress that, "Tax reduction is urgently needed to spur the growth of our economy." And he said: "Originally designed to hold back war and postwar inflation, our present income tax rate structure now holds back consumer demand, initiative and investment."

The changes, under the President's plan, wouldn't start until later this year and wouldn't be fully effective until 1965.

An exception would be to make retroactive to Jan. 1 a cut in taxes on the first $25,000 of corporate profits from 30 per cent to 22 per cent. This would benefit smaller companies. A cut from 52 per cent to 47 per cent in the rate for profits above $25,000 would come later.

Estimating the over-all tax cut at $13.6 billion, Kennedy proposed revisions in tax laws which he said would bring in $3.4 billion, leaving a net reduction of $10.2 billion. Some of the changes he seeks would tighten deductions now claimed by individual taxpayers and regulations affecting oil, gas and mineral production. Some oil executives said the proposals would hurt their industry.

Production during the week was estimated at 156,000 cars against 154,811 the previous week and 141,489 a year earlier.

Steel production also showed a gain, rising week for the third consecutive week to remain at a nine-month high. The output of 1,915,000 tons represented a gain of two-tenths of one per cent over the previous week.

Bills Vs. Income Often Unbalanced

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Bruce Turner's morning mail can bring a check or a bill, and the way things have been going the checks don't keep up with the bills.

Many a householder can sympathize with Turner, an affable New Zealander who is in charge of U.N. financial operations. He has accounts in 600 banks around the world and handles financial transactions with 110 nations. But basically his problem is the same as yours—how to keep out of the red in the face of extraordinary expenses.

WILLIAM A. Mahaffey has been appointed administrative assistant to the product manager, bags, forest products operations, Packaging Division, Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. in West Monroe. He had been industrial engineering supervisor of the department.

Turner took over as U.N. controller in 1955—a year before the British-French-Israel invasion of Egypt led to the first U.N. peacekeeping force.

Diplomats credit the U.N. Emergency Force (UNEF) for maintenance of relative stability along the Israeli-Egyptian frontier, but its creation brought the first rumblings of financial difficulties.

The Soviet bloc refused to help pay for UNEF, saying its cost should be shouldered by the "aggressors." Most of the Arab states also refused to pay, reflecting hostility over U.N. acceptance of Israel. Total assessments since 1956 amount to almost $104 million and it is now costing $1.58 million a month. That, however, is small potatoes to the $10-million monthly Congo operation which is 2½ years old. It threatens the United Nations with bankruptcy.

The Soviet bloc also won't pay on the Congo operation. In this instance it has been joined by France and other nations, including many from Latin America.

There is hope now of effecting Secretary-General U Thant's plan for unification of the Congo and thus reduce the 19,000-man U.N. military force which gobbles up most of the Congo budget.

U.N. officials hope also that an endorsement given by the World Court will shake loose some Congo assessments. Approximately 65 per cent of the U.N. membership supported a resolution accepting the court's opinion that peacekeeping expenses should be borne by all. A 21-nation study group is to come up with recommendations for an assessment system to be considered by the General Assembly in May or June. The pressure will be lightened if there is a large cutback in Congo expenses.

Nations contributing soldiers to the force pay their salaries in the field, but the United Nations reimburses the governments for extraordinary costs. These include rations, foreign service allowances, compensation and pensions in case of death or disability.

U.N. member countries furnishing air transport for men and supplies submit bills to the United Nations.

Other major costs are reflected in obligations totaling more than $22 million this year for maintenance and operation of aircraft and $1.5 million for maintenance and operation of vehicles.

Cotton Futures Show Increase Dixie Senior

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures in the domestic market moved within a narrow range in quieter trading during the past week, closing 25 cents to $1.05 a bale higher on the New York Cotton Exchange.

That compares with broader swings the previous week which ended with a range of $1.60 to $2.85 higher.

Maryland's Belitza Becomes Sixth To Clear 16-Feet In Vault

Tork Drops Behind In Boston Running

BOSTON (AP) — John Belitza of the University of Maryland Saturday night became the sixth man in track history to soar over 16 feet in the pole vault. He cleared 16 feet, ½ inch at the Boston A.A. Games.

The bar was raised to 16-3½, higher than anyone has vaulted either indoors or out, but the sturdy, 21-year-old collegian failed three times.

Rolando Cruz of Villanova, who had chased Belitza all the way to, failed at 16-½ after clearing 15-6.

Others who have broken the 16 foot barrier are John Uelses of the La Salle College A.A., who also went out at 15-6 here, Don Myers, Ron Morris, and Pentti Nikula of Finland.

Brian Craig of England beat out Pete McCardle of New York at the tape in the Billings Two Mile with a brilliant last lap sprint that closed a 10 yard gap. With a half mile to go McCardle took the lead from Craig and built up nearly a 30 yard margin which Craig gradually erased. John Snowden of England, who set the early pace, was third. The winning time was 8:56.0. The first mile went in :31.6.

Dave Tork, the West Virginian who soared to 16-2¼ at Toronto Friday night, and promised to go higher here, went out at 15-6 in the pole vault.

John Thomas of Boston, Bobby Avant of Duarte, Calif., and Gene Johnson of the University of California all cleared 6-9 in the high jump and all failed at 7 feet although all have gone that high or higher in the past. Thomas was awarded first on the basis of fewer misses on the way up, Avant second and Johnson third.

With a strong field entered now that the NCAA-AAU are under an enforced truce, the games drew 12,059, close to capacity.

The Hunter Mile went to Vic Zwolak of Villanova who burst from the pack at the three quarters mark and won by 20 yards as Hike van de Wal of Kearney, Neb., a Canadian, nosed out Rodney Soderberg of the University of Tennessee for second. The time was 4:09.8.

Bill Crothers, the Toronto strong man, repeated as the winner the Lapham 1,000 finishing 10 yards ahead of Ernie Cunliffe of Stanford, the 1961 winner, who set the pace until the final lap when Crothers surged ahead. Richard Smith of College Park, Md., was third another 10 yards back. The winning time was 2:08.1.

Olympian Al Hall uncorked the third longest toss on record in the 35-pound weight throw—a 68 foot effort—in the afternoon opening events.

Lt. Jack Yerman won the Hollis 600 for the second year in a row after letting Jay Luck, former Yale star, set the pace until the final lap. Yerman won by 10 yards in 1:1.8 from Luck with Earl Young of Abilene, Tex., a distant third.

Hall, representing the New York AC, cracked the 3 year-old meet mark of 67-1 by teammate Bob Backus. The latter was runner-up with a heave of 64-9½.

The afternoon field events were held at Rockwell cage at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Hall's remarkable series of throws read in this order: 62-2, 61-10, 64-6½, 64-7, 68-0 and 65-7.

Strong-man Garry Gubner of New York University bettered his own meet mark with a shot put of 60-1½ on his last attempt. His series of throws went 58-4, two fouls, 58-1½, 59-5½ and then the winner.

Mike Herman of the Grand Streets Boys Club, New York, appeared to have the victory clinched in the broad jump at 23-4 until Charles May of Maryland State also made a great last ditch try and won at 24-1.

Man-To-Man Play Nets 62-53 Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — Top-ranked Cincinnati's harassing man-to-man defense caught No. 3 Illinois in its web Saturday night and the Bearcats-stretching their winning streak to 33 games—won 62-53 in a "dream" basketball game before an overflowing crowd of 20,687 in Chicago Stadium.

Second-ranked Loyla of Chicago broke loose in the last 12 minutes and trimmed rugged Santa Clara 92-72 in the opener of the doubleheader.

As one of the largest Stadium basketball crowds in 20 years watched, the Bearcats took a 33-23 lead at the intermission and maintained at least a 5-point edge until the final minute of the game.

Illinois, losing its second game in 14 starts and boasting the second highest scoring average among major college teams, shaved the deficit to 53-51 in the final 60 seconds.

But then Ron Bonham made a basket and a free throw, and from then until the wild finish the Illini were shut out.

Tom Thacker and Tony Yates each made two free tosses in the closing seconds to pad out the edge for the national champions of the last two seasons.

Illinois, entering the game with an average of 88.6 points, was held to its lowest scoring total since losing to Marquette 69-53 in 1959.

For the opening 5½ minutes the game was tight, with the score being tied three times and the lead changing four. Then Bonham got a basket from the keyhole to push the Bearcats in front to stay.

Cincinnati, boasting the country's No. 1 defense that had held opponents to an average of 48.5 points in 14 straight triumphs this season, did not allow the Illini many good shots. The leech-like man-to-man guarding forced the Big Ten leaders into bad shots and as a result Illinois made only 9 out of 35 field goal attempts for a 25.7 percentage in the first half.

In the opening 90 seconds of the second half Bill Burwell made two free throws and Bill Small added a field goal as Illinois made a bid that closed the gap to six points, 33-27.

Burwell, who had missed 11 attempts from the floor but played a fine game off the defensive backboards, then hit a basket to make it 34-29, after Bonham had made a free throw for Cincy.

This 5-point difference was repeated three more times as Illinois tried to catch up, and finally the Bearcat edge was cut to 45-41 with eight minutes of the game left on Small's free throw.

But Cincinnati, behind the shooting of Thacker, Larry Shingleton and Bonham rushed into a 52-42 advantage which all but sealed the outcome.

Illinois didn't come closer than the 53-51 deficit in the final minute.

Each team was rather cool in shooting with Cincinnati hitting 24 of 58 floor shots for a 36.2 percentage and Illinois 18 of 59 for 30.5. In rebounding, the Bearcats were ahead 48-38.

Auburn's Jones Leads 73-62 Win Over K-9's

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Senior Layton Johns scored 28 points and dominated the backboards tonight to lead Auburn to a 73-62 Southeastern Conference basketball victory over Georgia.

The 6-foot-7 Johns from Nahunta, Ga., also helped to quell several Georgia rallies during the contest.

Except for the first few moments when Jimmy Pitts put Georgia ahead on a looping field goal, the Auburn Tigers led all the way. Johns scored 15 points the first half.

After trailing by as much as 12 points early in the game, the Georgia Bulldogs managed to close it at 37-33 at halftime. The Bulldogs followed the same pattern the second half, taking more than eight minutes to get their first field goal. It was scored by Chuck Adamek.

Charles Bagby was high man for the Bulldogs with 18 points and played a major part in a Georgia rally which moved the Bulldogs to within 5 points of the Tigers with about four minutes left in the game. Sophomore Billy Rado and Adamek had 11 points each.

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Bill Kusleika, 6-foot-3 senior from Duquesne, Pa., scored 29 points and paced Tulsa University to an 84-65 victory over Centenary Saturday night.

Kusleika and James King, Tulsa's All-America candidate, made a shambles of the Centenary defense in the second half and enabled the Oklahomans to win their 10th game in 14 starts. King contributed 21 points.

The score was only 36-32 in favor of the Missouri Valley Conference team at intermission but Tulsa came back in the second half to befuddle Centenary completely with some extremely accurate field goal shooting and won the game pulling away.

BEATS WELU

Weber Winner In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Dick Weber of St. Louis kept his crown in the All-Star Bowling Tournament Saturday night by whipping Billy Welu 642 to 591 in the championship round.

Weber pocketed a $15,000 check after rolling games of 233, 204 and 205. Welu, also of St. Louis, shot 205, 206 and 180.

Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., won her eighth All-Star women's title and $5,000 by outpinning Bobbie Shaler of Chicago 586 to 578.

Welu won the qualifying trophy and Weber was second through the 15th round.

Don Carter, four-time champion from St. Louis, took third place by beating Robbie Robinson of Wilmington, Del., 677 to 605. Carter won $5,000 and Robinson fourth place prize of $4,000.

Ted Hoffman Jr. of Philadelphia won fifth place and $3,000. He defeated Ed Lubanski of Detroit 655 to 615. Lubanski earned $2,000 for sixh place.

Pat Patterson, a teammate of Weber and Carter, finished seventh to win $1,850 after beating John Powell Jr. of Toledo, Ohio, 661 to 626. Powell's eighth-place prize is $1,700.

In the Women's Division Betty Kuczynski of Chicago finished third to win $2,000 when she beat her teammate, Joy Abel, 573 to 540. Miss Abel, who currently holds the national doubles title with Miss Kuczynski, won $1,000 for fourth place.

Miss Abel, who finished second in the 1962 tournament by nine pins, had another heart-breaking experience when she missed a shot at the title by one pin.

Donna Zimmerman of Akron, Ohio, took fifth place and $850 by outscoring Nan Chianchiano of Saddle Brook, N.J., 645 to 566. Mrs. Chianchiano got $800 for sixth place.

The seventh place prize of $750 went to Marie Stivers, Kansas City, who stopped Elvira Toepfer of Detroit 604 to 585. Mrs. Toepfer's eighth place finish was worth $700.

Mrs. Ladewig's victory gives her the two most important titles in bowling. She won the sixth annual World's Invitational in Chicago last November for the third time and collected $4,000.

The points were wiped out for the second straight year for a start-from-scratch 16th round. The top two bowlers were bracketed for a three-game match in which total pins determined the championship.

Bulldogs Defeated By Memphis State

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Memphis State, driving for the big upset, jarred Southeastern Conference leader, Mississippi State 71-65 Saturday night in a basketball thriller.

The Tigers, 10-point underdogs, did it the hard way, blowing an 18-point lead, falling behind and then coming back to win going away.

Memphis State led 37-28 at halftime, but at one point in the first period had held a 36-18 advantage. Only a poor performance at the free throw line kept the Tigers from piling up a really big margin.

Floor man George Kirk, who twice came back from injuries that benched him temporarily, was the key man in the upset. Hunter Beckman scored 19, Kirk 15, Jamie McMahan 13, John Hillman 11 and Larry Garber 10 points in the balanced Tiger attack.

All five Mississippi State starters also were in double figures. Leland Mitchell and Doug Hutton each had 15, Red Stroud 13, Stan Brinker 12 and Joe Dan Gold 10 points for the Bulldogs.

'DRASTIC ACTION'

Baseball Strike Zone Widened

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's rules committee in a decisive step to give some relief to the home run plagued pitchers, voted unanimously Saturday to widen the batter's strike zone by nearly a foot.

This drastic action, recommended by virtually all 20 major league managers, is expected not only to enable the pitcher to better cope with the hitters but to reduce the vast number of bases on balls which lengthened and dragged out games in recent years.

The change in the strike zone will be in the area of the batter's knees and shoulders. Under the new rule, which goes into effect in 1963, the definition of the strike zone will read:

"This change could make a difference of from 10 to 12 inches," said Cal Hubbard, supervisor of the American League umpiring staff and a member of the 9-man rules committee.

Charles Segar, secretary-treasurer of baseball and head of the rules committee, said the action was taken with the thought of giving some aid to the pitcher, who has been on the receiving end of nearly all rules changes in recent years.

"Most of the rules changes in recent years have been made for the benefit of the batter," he said. "It was the feeling that some changes should be made benefitting the pitcher.

"This rule should give the pitchers more confidence. Actually what we've done was to reinstate the old strike zone rule, which was reduced in 1950."

Fred Fleig, supervisor of National League umpires, said the new rule would make it easier for the umpires to judge called balls and strikes.

"The top of the shoulder is a much better line of demarcation," he said. "This area is more readily observed by umpires, fans and the guys on the bench. The difference between the armpits and the top of the shoulders can be around 2 or 3 inches, and more in some cases."

Fleig said the umpires will be instructed to operate under the new rule in the exhibition games during spring training.

"We expect to receive some complaints from the hitters during the exhibition games," he said, "but in a few weeks everything will be stabilized."

The rules committee also reworded the rule concerning the position of the pitcher when making his delivery to the batter. This stemmed from a complaint lodged against right-hander Joey Jay of the Cincinnati Reds, who sometimes switched from a wind-up to a no-wind-up delivery from one pitch to the next.

The new rule clarifies the pitching position to take care of the no-wind-up pitcher. It reads:

. . . "when a pitcher holds the ball with both hands in front of his body, with his entire pivot foot on or in front of and touching and not off the end of the pitcher's plate and his other foot free he will be considered in a wind up position."

Fleig explained: "It just doesn't let a pitcher get ready in one position for one pitch, then change to another position for another pitch."

The committee also agreed to grant permission to Kansas City owner Charles Finley to outfit his Athletics in 1963 in a uniform other htan the standard white home and gray on the road. The committee stipulated, however, that would be done only on an experimental basis.

As a result, the Athletics this year will wear display home uniforms consisting of shirts of gold with green sleeves, pants of gold with green stripes and a green belt, and a green cap with a yellow visor and letters KC in white.

Royals Smash Zephyrs Five By 142 To 116

CINCINNATI (AP)—The fast-breaking Cincinnati Royals overcame an early Chicago lead and overwhelmed the Zephyrs, 142-116, Saturday night in a National Basketball Association game.

Four of the Cincinnati starters scored in the double figures in the game which was all but wrapped up minutes after Arlen Bockhorn's field goal with 1:53 left in the first quarter gave Cincinnati a 23-21 lead. The Royals then ran off 10 straight points and finished the period with a 33-23 advantage.

The lead kept mounting and coach Charley Wolf benched his red-hot regulars early in the last quarter during which Cincinnati led twice by 40 points.

Cincinnati averaged 55 per cent in its field goal attempts and dominated the backboards, 69-48. The hapless Zephyrs hit on 47 per cent of their field goal tries.

Oscar Robertson scored 24 points for Cincinnati, while Bockhorn, Wayne Embry and Jack Twyman contributed 21 points each. Terry Dischinger led the Zephyrs with 23 points.

Next Plans

Jerry Stovall has had his day and has captured almost every national honor available to a college football player. So what is next for the first All-America gridder to ever come out of West Monroe, Louisiana?

Dental school and a pro football debut with the St. Louis Cardinals is the answer. And the new life that has opened up for Jerry starts right away.

Stovall said he plans to enter Dental School in St. Louis this March.

Jerry will graduate from Louisiana State this semester. His last competition as a Tiger will be Feb. 2 at Jackson, Miss. He has the All-... Tex... bumped in the other rookies. She... to be... Jerry said.

But this is one reason Stovall choose the Cardinals (in addition to the great offer). "They have a good nucleus of material, but I'll have a better chance up there. Houston is talent rich right now."

Immediately following that the Tiger halfback heads for St. Louis to look for a house.

And while he is in dental school this spring, Jerry plans to start going over the Cardinals' offensive strategy.

"We start working out in July," Jerry said. "And I want to know as much as possible about the Cardinals' offense. It's completely different from ours at LSU." He added that the more he knew ahead of time the better jump he might have on the NFL. I'm... Tex... bumped in the other rookies.

"I'll be fighting for a berth up there," Jerry said.

Changing The Game

Now they're at it again. And this latest "tinkering" with the game is a real doozy, a substitution that has a lot of people wondering what it is a move closer to free substitution or away from it.

Isn't that a jewel of clarity, that "two players or more" business?

Louisiana State Coach Charlie McClendon, however, may have lost the lead after all. "I don't know what I think about the new rule," said Coach Mac. "I don't understand it yet."

The Opinions

Coach McClendon said he was not sure it would eliminate the three - team system used by his Tigers. "I am hoping it will enable us to use more boys," he said, "but I haven't looked into it carefully enough yet to be sure exactly what it will permit us to do. As far as I'm concerned the rule change hasn't been clarified enough yet to make it understandable."

Head coach Jack Rowan of Northeast State took a look at what effect the three - team system would have on the Indians' offensive specialist groups and he sees a trend toward the return of two units doing both jobs.

Joe Aillet, Louisiana Tech head coach and athletic director, said the Bulldogs would have to study the rule before making any comment.

At neither Northeast nor Tech were any laurels handed out to the rule changers.

Both Rowan and Aillet see free substitution as the ideal. And both feel the same way for saying those who criticize the rule to help football signals. If they are too big, they said, consider the size of the squads, don't limit substitution.

Strangely enough both head coaches had similar reactions to the rule change.

Coach Rowan sees it as an attempt to satisfy the extremists on both ends, the free substitution advocates on one hand and those who want two - way play on the other. But he doesn't believe it really satisfies either group, particularly not the folks who want unlimited substitution.

Aillet said the coaches were obviously afraid to make a complete swing back to unlimited substitution.

Stop The Clock

The Northeast coach feels he does not believe the rule will drastically affect the use of a pair of two - way teams and indicated that he planned to continue with much the same two-team system. He believes "you've got to have enough boys on your bench when you need them" like last year. He also feels that teams may start running to stop the clock plays out of bounds plays or incomplete pass plays to get a new team on the field.

Aillet ventured a question as to how hard it would be to get a specialist ready to play the other way, and pointed out that with the traditional three - team system you had to bring specialists up every way to fill the gaps in the two - way unit. The veteran Tech coach also predicted a number of techniques calculated to catch an opponent with the wrong team in might come into vogue.

Rowan explained his preference that he planned to continue with much the same two-team system. "I feel we should be able to use any boy on your bench when you need him," he said. The public, he added is paying to see the game, and should be allowed to see the best possible football.

According to the coach the biggest improvement from the new rule will be eliminating the checking system. Both fans and coaches should benefit, he said, the fans because the game will be speeded up, the coach because he won't have to fool with bookkeeping the new rule does away with the coach and referee having to keep track of every substitute who enters the game.

Conclusions

Several conclusions can probably be safely drawn.

1. It seems doubtful that the traditional three - team system with offensive and defensive specialist groups can be continued without some changes being made. The chance of getting the wrong club caught in the game with no means of getting it out are too great.

2. Schools like LSU taught their defensive unit some offense and the attack specialists some defense in the past, however, and more emphasis on these auxiliary skills may be necessary this year.

3. The system a coach uses this year may depend on the type and supply of manpower he has available. It may also depend on whether he believes the manpower advantage gained in using three units offsets the extra time it will take to make them versatile enough to play at least some two - way football. For some two teams may be best, for others three.

4. Also, it does not seem likely that a system as artificial as this year's new rule will last very long. We can expect even more changes in the future.

Don January Captures San Francisco's Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Lanky Don January, a long hitting Texan who now calls Southern California his home, fired a 3-under par 68 Saturday to scramble out of a par breaking traffic jam for the third round lead in the $50,000 San Francisco International golf tournament with a 54-hole score of 208.

The 33-year-old January didn't go over par but needed long putts on four of the final five holes to preserve a one stroke lead going into the final round.

Pressing at 209 were Canadian George Knudson who placed second here last year, the veteran Jack Burke Jr., Charlie Sifford, the Negro star from Los Angeles, and San Francisco native Bob Rosburg who now plays out of Portland, Ore.

All told, 19 golfers were below par for the 54 holes and all threatened the leader. Leading money winner Arnold Palmer, with a 69 Saturday stood just three strokes off the pace at 211 going into the final 18 holes over the Harding Park Municipal Course.

With U. S. Open Champion Jack Nicklaus already eliminated from the competition when he failed to qualify for the final two rounds, Palmer was the only one of golf's "Big Three" with a chance for the $9,000 top money here. Gary Player of South Africa, the Masters champion, put himself out of contention with a 72 and 219 total this warm sunny day.

Phil Rodgers of San Diego, who started the third round just one stroke behind Cupit, also soared with 75 and a 213 total—even par for the 6,722-yard Harding Municipal layout.

January, a 33-year-old who gained fame in 1961 with a $50,000 hole-in-one at the Palm Springs Classic, shot eight straight pars Saturday and then took his first birdie on the ninth hole with a 20-foot putt.

He collected another birdie with another long putt—from 12 feet—at 13 and closed out the round with a 10-foot birdie putt on the 18th.

"I really struggled on 14, 15, 16 and 17 and needed long putts for my pars," January declared.

The big jam at the top this year was far different from 1962 when Gene Littler stood five strokes ahead at this point with a 201 and went on to win with a 274. This time Littler is far back at 214.

A throng of about 10,000 watched in sunny weather but most had overlooked January, who had shot scores of 70 on his first two rounds.

Forest, Lake Providence Win Tourney

But Lake Providence defeated Forest 58-43 to win the girls title for the third straight time. It was also the 16th straight win for the undefeated girls this year.

Johnnie Green scored 24 and Shirley Johnson 21 to pace Lake Providence to its win. Marilyn Vining had 27 for the losers.

ATLANTA (AP)—Sophomore R. D. Craddock scored eight of Georgia Tech's final nine points Saturday night to lead the nationally ranked Yellow Jackets to a 73-69 Southeastern Conference basketball victory over Tennessee.

Craddock, key man in Tech's comeback triumph over Auburn last Tuesday, again extricated the seventh ranked Yellow Jackets from an upset trap.

The victory gave Tech a 14-1 season record and a 4-1 SEC mark and a tie for the conference lead with ninth ranked Mississippi State. The setback left Tennessee with a 2-3 conference mark and a 9-6 overall record.

Craddock and Tennessee back court ace Danny Schultz shared scoring honors with 18 points apiece. Craddock got a large segment of his, however, in the final pressure-packed minutes after aroused Tennessee had whittled a 16-point Tech lead to 3 points.

Tech led 49-33 early in the second half but the lead almost vanished and it was 58-55 with a little more than eight minutes left to play.

The clutch-proof Craddock hit a 15-footer with 1:26 remaining, but Tennessee's Jerry Parker retaliated and it was 70-68.

SITUATION DISMAL

Golfing Rules Committee Gets Nowhere With Pros

NEW YORK (AP)—No ground has been gained in efforts to get the touring professionals to follow the uniform set of golf rules, the chairman of the U.S. Golf Association's rules committee said Saturday.

"The whole world plays by one code and the pros play by another," William Ward Foshay of New York told the annual meeting of the USGA.

Foshay said that in order to avoid confusion his committee had sought to get the Professional Golfers' Association to discard its various deviations from the code adopted by the USGA and the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews, ruling body of golf in Britain.

"The situation now seems more dismal than ever," Foshay said after discussing details of his talks with the professional group.

Foshay said the foolishness of the situation was accented in the Bing Crosby tournament recently when Arnold Palmer, the world's top professional golfer, was disqualified because he played a provisional ball which would have been permissible under USGA rules but which was forbidden under the code of the touring pros.

The USGA holds that it is permissible to play a provisional ball when a shot is out of bounds, lost in a water hazard or unplayable. The PGA rules don't permit play of a provisional ball in the latter two instances. Palmer's ball was unplayable.

Another important difference in rules is that the pros call a 2-stroke penalty if the flag stick is hit by a shot within 60 feet of the pin. The USGA makes it a matter of the player's choice—without penalty — whether the flagstick is left or removed from the hole.

Representatives of the USGA will meet with Royal and Ancient officials at Turnberry, Scotland, May 18-19 for a review of the playing code.

"The professionals want us to explore their deviations and they are especially interested in increasing the limit on clubs, which is now 14," Foshay said.

The rules talks will be staged in connection with the Walker Cup matches at Turnberry May 24-25.

Others on the squad are Deane Beman of Arlington, Va.; Charles Coe of Oklahoma City; Richard Davies of Pebble Beach, Calif.; Bob Gardner of Essex Fells, N.J.; Downing Gray of Pensacola, Fla.; Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C.; Richard Sikes of Springdale, Ark.; Charles Smith of Gastonia, N.C., and Dr. Edward Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz.

Richard Tufts of Pinehurst, N.C., was named non-playing captain. Alternates, in order, will be William Hyndman III of Huntingdon Valley, Pa.; Homero Blancas Jr. of Houston, Tex., and Dudley Wysong of McKinney, Tex.

Prize money for the U.S. Open Championship, scheduled June 20-22, at The Country Club in Brookline, Mass., was raised some $16,000 to a total of $86,000, with $16,000 going to the winner. The Women's Open money was raised $1,000 to $9,000.

The 1965 U. S. Open Championship was awarded to the Bellerive Country Club in St. Louis for June 17-19. The 1964 tournament is to be staged in Washington, D.C.

Directors decided that the Senior Amateur Championship, scheduled this year at Sea Island, Ga., Oct. 7-12, would be entirely at match play, with a field of 128 players. Heretofore the meet has consisted of 18-hole qualifying rounds with 32 in match play.

Patty Berg of Chicago, formerly of Minneapolis, prominent in women's golf for 30 years, was presented the Bob Jones Award for outstanding sportsmanship. The red-haired midwesterner has won more than 80 tournaments, including both the national amateur and open championships.

NEXT WEEKEND

Yankees' Reed To Attend Clinic

Four more players — including New York Yankee outfielder Jack Reed — have been announced as instructors in next weekend's Optimist Club Boys Baseball Clinic.

The new instructors, in addition to Reed, are three Monroe athletes, infielder Dickie Crowe and pitchers Art Swanson and Fred Southerland.

Crowe, a former all-state quarterback at Ouachita High, is with the Los Angeles Dodger organization and will play with LA's Albuquerque, N.M., farm club this season.

Swanson was signed to a bonus contract by the Pittsburgh Pirates after graduating from Neville High. He has played with the Pirates and on Pittsburgh's minor league teams.

Southerland signed with the Dodgers last year after starring at LSU. The tall lefthander is also a former Neville hurler.

Reed, an ex-Ole Miss quarterback, is best remembered for his dramatic home run that gave the Yankees a 6-4 victory over the Tigers in their 22-inning marathon contest last June.

Reed spent all last season with the Yankees after dividing his time in 1961 between the club's Richmond farm team and the parent team.

A resident of Silver City, Miss., Reed will serve as a clinic instructor Saturday, Feb. 2, only. The Optimist Club was able to secure his services through the efforts of his good friend, Northeast Baseball Coach George Luffey.

The Optimist Clinic will be held Saturday and Sunday. A coaching clinic for high school and junior high coaches and managers of kids baseball teams will open the clinic at 9 a.m. at the Benoit Recreation Center at 1700 Oaklawn Drive.

The first instruction session for boys is set for 10:30 Saturday morning on the Dixie and Little League fields next to the recreation center. boys aged eight through 13 will be instructed on the Little League field and boys 14 and over on the Dixie League diamond.

The clinic is open to boys free of charge. Boys attending are asked only to bring their own gloves.

COMIN' UP AFIELD

Bobwhite Act Unlike Quail

With Sam Hanna

Educated Birds

Mr. Bobwhite, the South's gamest of game birds, has been around for years making life a glorious thing for those briar-scratched men and boys who sooner or later learn that they're not his equal.

He's a few ounces of unmitigated fury that blasts off in an explosion of wingbeats, heading straight up when you expect him to fly low, flying low when you expect him to fly high.

Equipped with nerves of a bandit, he'll freeze to the ground in a cornfield until you've passed by, then he'll scare your pants off, sailing to the nearest brush as you fire a hasty round.

Look for him on the ground and you'll find him in a tree. Put the dogs in the briars and he'll flush from the grass.

He'll out - fly the best of shots, out-fox the best of dogs, out-live the best of birds.

And he's the best memory-maker there is. If you see it once, you'll see it always—the dogs frozen in sage with the singing pines above, then the big moment when out he comes. Just a brown and white blur. Your heart beats ninety to nothing, if it's like mine, louder than the shot, and the feathers start floating to the ground.

Take him home and fry him like a chicken, and oh brother . . .

Best thing, though, about Mr. Bobwhite is that he keeps coming back — year after year, as long as there's feed, as long as there's water, as long as there's protection.

Year in and year out he's tough, cocky and the most respected bird on wing.

And the latter phrase best summarizes the story of Mr. Bobwhite this quail season. It's been the toughest on bird hunters in many moons.

Bird hunting in the first place is not for lazy men and lazy boys, because it takes a lot of endurance to follow the dogs. It's tiring even when you find birds.

But when you don't find birds, then it becomes a test of true love.

There have been a lot of men who proved their true love for bird hunting this year, because quail that pranced about in the spring are not to be found now on these cold days.

They've gone to the woods, everybody says. So if you go to the woods and are lucky enough to get them up they disappear through a slough or over a hill and that's the last you see of them.

They're not acting right, everybody says, not holding for the dogs. It's true. They're no acting right. They're getting up ahead of the dogs — the whole covey, birds that have been shot into.

Or the singles get up when they hear you coming.

Why? Everybody wonders. They're not over - hunted, because there aren't many bona-fide bird hunters. They're not underfed, undercared for, because there's lots of feed and plenty of grass.

Still, Mr. Bobwhite just doesn't like a quail anymore. The best of bird hunters are saying so; so it must be true.

Which means that you can add a new list of adjectives next to Mr. Bobwhite's name — adjectives like educated, spooky and just darn right uncooperative.

Timber At Chemin-A-Haut

The State Parks and Recreation Commission should run into trouble unless it makes itself clear on its intentions to cut timber at Chemin-A-Haut Park in Morehouse Parish.

This is one of the most beautiful parks anywhere, a great attraction for Morehouse Parish, and we feel certain that the people of the Bastrop area would be against any state timber-cutting plan if it marred the beauty of Chemin-A-Haut.

The commission voted at its November meeting to clear the underbrush and cut timber where timber needed cutting — all under the cooperation of state foresters.

Proceeds from this undertaking would go back into the development of Chemin-A-Haut. The commission, according to its minutes, does not plan to cut timber on right-of-ways where the beauty of the park would be damaged.

This sounds all right, but the least the commission could do would be make its position clear with the people of Morehouse and the surrounding areas.

The commission's own director, L. A. Talley, certainly didn't help matters when he said he "shore don't care" whether the timber is cut or not. He "shore" didn't help matters when he said "it didn't mean nothing" to him.

Chemin-A-Haut may not mean "nothing" to the director of the Louisiana State Parks and Recreation Commission, but it does to the people of Morehouse Parish.

If the commission's plan is as irresponsible as Talley's remarks, then the people of Morehouse had better take note.

Monroe's Gertrude

There's a bird at the Monroe zoo named Gertrude. She looks all right, as well as an ostrich can, we suppose, but Kit Beecher, the zoo director, tells us things about Gertrude that we didn't know.

In addition to being the largest and most powerful of living birds, the ostrich is also one of the fastest of land animals. This much we knew, in that we've read about ostrichs that exceed 300 pounds attaining speeds of 60 miles per hour.

But we didn't know that the ostrich can be dangerous because of its powerful legs. Kit says a lion will give an ostrich lots of room, because if the lion succeeds in cornering an ostrich he can be severly injured by the bird's powerful kicks.

Here's something else that's interesting, in Kit's words:

"I would like to make a special appeal to the public and ask that they do not feed the ostrich anything. She will eat just that — anything.

"One young man had an inexpensive ring plucked from his finger as he was offering the ostrich a peanut. Enough of those odds and ends could kill her.

"I know of two ostrichs that consumed three bags of mortar mix one afternoon. They were dead the next morning with petrified stomachs. We don't want anything like that to happen to Gertrude."

Incidentally, Kit is still looking for live snakes to feed to the zoo's King cobra. That's a pretty tall order, but perhaps someone can help.

Little Man's Corner

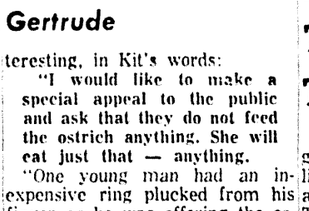
It was too cold for the little men to make news afield this week. But here's something that should interest them by the fireside:

"An imaginative new waterfowl project, with tremendous potential for duck nesting as well as for feeding and resting during migrations, is under consideration for eastern Montana, according to the Wildlife Management Institute. Receiving serious study by the Department of the Interior is a 39,600 - acre project that would re-water sections of the prehistoric bed of the Musselshell River, extending northward from Fort Peck Reservoir toward the town of Malta.

"Water, the key to creating a successful waterfowl project, could be supplied from Fort Peck Reservoir through a system of pumps and ditches to three broad basins of the river bed. From the restored marsh, the water would be routed northward through natural drainages so it could be used to benefit the existing Milk River irrigation project.

"No decision has been reached on how to proceed with the project. A large part of the rangeland and old river bed already is in public ownership. The Interior Department may decide to propose it to the Migratory Bird Commission which passes on all additions to the national wildlife refuge system. An alternative would be to include it in some way in the comprehensive multi-purpose plan for the upper Missouri River, now also under study in the department.

"With its promise of creating new duck nesting habitat, the project, currently identified as Fort Hawley after a nearby pony express crossing of the Missouri River, could make an exceptional contribution to the national waterfowl restoration program. It would be of direct benefit to Central Flyway States."



The schedule or Solunar Periods, printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting on good cover during these times if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

Begin these times as shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The minor periods first listed for morning and afternoon, are of somewhat shorter duration.

SECOND IN TORONTO

Pennel Is After 16-Foot Vault Mark For Tribe

Northeast Louisiana State's John Pennel is aiming for a 16-foot pole vault this spring after clearing 15-7¼ in Friday night's Telegram - Maple Leaf Indoor Games in Toronto, Canada.

Pennel, who has cleared 16 feet on several occasions in practice, was second in the Toronto meet to Dave Tork, who bettered the worth indoor record with a 16-2¼ effort.

The 15-7¼ vault by Pennel was his seventh clearance of 15 feet and his best ever. The height is the highest ever recorded by a Louisiana pole vaulter, bettering the 15-5 cleared by LSU's Joe Harris last spring.

Pennel's previous best in competition was 15-4 in last winter's Bluebonnet Indoor Meet in Houston.

"I firmly believe John is going to clear 16 feet plus this year," Groseclose says. "He has cleared it several times in practice and his 15-7¼ Friday is particularly outstanding since the Toronto meet was his first of the season. Tork had already competed in one or two meets before Friday."

Groseclose said that the 15-7¼ wasn't Pennel's best vault Friday night.

"His best effort came when the bar was set at 15 feet. He cleared it easily and some observors estimated he was two feet over the bar."

Pennel first cleared 15 feet when he made 15-¼ for a college freshman record in the 1960 Chattanooga Relays. He did not approach 15 feet again that season and the following year broke a bone in his foot. After recovering from the injury, he was consistent at 14-6 and made 15 again in the Sugar Bowl Meet in December of 1961 with 15-1½.

In 1962 he went 15-4 in the Bluebonnet Meet, 15-2½ in the Lubbock Invitational, 15-¼ in the Will Rogers Indoor Games and 15-½ in the Coliseum Relays.

Don Styron, another Northeast student, also competed in the Toronto meet but failed to qualify for the finals in the 50-yard hurdles. He finished third in his qualifying heat. Styron, who has completed his college eligibility, is the world record holder in the 220-yard low hurdles and co-holder of the 60-yard low hurdles standard.

DAVE TORK, 28-year-old ex-Marine from Fairmont, W. Va., soars over the bar at 16 feet, 2¼ inches for a world indoor pole vault record in Friday night's track meet in Toronto, Canada. Northeast's John Pennel leaped 15 feet 7¼ inches for second place in the indoor meet. (AP Wirephoto)

TO BE DRAFTED

Basketball Scouts Say Three Collegians Sure

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sports of all sorts:

Pro basketball scouts nominate three collegians sure to go in the first round of the NBA draft—Nate Thurmond of Bowling Green, Art Heyman of Duke and Eddie Miles of Seattle . . . Heyman currently has a 25.7 scoring average, Miles is 25.1 and Thurmond 22.6 ...Thurmond also is ninth in the nation in rebounds...Miles is a fantastic outside bomber.

Bill Bradley, Princeton sophomore, has Ivy League basketball fans popeyed. . .The youngster is scoring at 27.3 per game and some say he's as good at a comparable stage as ex-Ohio Stater Jerry Lucas.

John Uelses, world's first 16-foot pole vaulter, has entered La Salle of Philadelphia as a soph . . .The German-born, former U.S. Marine corporal is 25.

An irate New York Met fan insists Stan Musial won't get his four extra base hits against the Mets on opening day next season (to break Babe Ruth's total) because the Mets probably will pitch lefty Al Jackson in the inaugural . . . "Even Musial won't get four extra bases off Jackson," snorts the Met loyalist. . . Lefty Al had four shutouts last season and once lost a 15-inning six-hitter.

In view of the above,it may take Musial an extra day to crack that record.

It's the centennial year for the state of West Virginia and the conversation boys down there have a surprise for fishermen—a new strain of rainbow trout, sun-gold in color — to celebrate the occasion. . More than 40,000 of the golden beauties will be stocked in the state's 180 lakes and streams where tourists gather to wet a line . . They'll run from nine to 15 inches and, says Gov. W. W. Barron, "They're a fierce fighter."

Pro bowlers in the televised portions of the professional bowlers tour again are being offered $10,000 for a perfect game in either the semi-finals or finals of the 17-week show . . . PBA members have rolled 14 perfect games in tournament competition but none yet on TV during a tournament final.

Dartmouth swimmer Jeff Galper has to be one of the most determined athletes anywhere. . .As a 255-pound freshman with no athletic experience of any kind, Jeff couldn't even make the Dartmouth glee club. ..He turned out for the swimming team, went on a diet, exercised mightily to put muscles where the fat had been and now is No. 1 on the team as a 6-3, 190-pound senior ... He holds the Dartmouth record of 19:20.2 for the 1500-meter freestyle and is hoping to break two minutes in the 200-yard butterfly.

Bo Belinsky, Los Angeles Angels' no-hit pitcher who did some "bad acting" during the baseball season, is said to be a good actor in an upcoming Lloyd Bridges television show . . . He plays a ball player, natch, but as a batter not a pitcher.

Floyd (Babe) Herman, one of the old Brooklyn Dodger daffiness boys who resigned as a New York Met scout without indicating what else he had in mind, turned up as a Yankee scout for '63. .. He'll operate around Los Angeles . . . Well, if a happiness boy like Casey Stengel could manage the Yankees, the Babe certainly can scout for 'em.

Bruce Coffin Wins Seniors Golf Tourney

Coffin, from Marblehead Neck, Mass., dropped a 19-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a sudden death playoff for a 1-up victory over Russell, retired major league baseball player from Clearwater, Fla.

It was the third time the two had clashed in the tournament. Last year, Coffin eliminated the 58-year-old Russell in the quarter-finals. In 1961, Russell knocked out Coffin in the same round.

Russell won the 5th and 6th holes to go 2-up, but Coffin evened the match at the turn with a birdie deuce in the eighth and a par ninth.

With one hole to go, Russell was 1-up, but Coffin took the 18th with a par to send the match into overtime.

Delta State Wins Over Southeastern

CLEVELAND, Miss. (AP)—Delta State defeated Southeastern Louisiana 89-71 here Saturday night behind the 21-point performance of Jay Boland.

The Statesmen were tied five times in the first half, but jumped off to a 10-point lead early in the second half and cruised to the victory, their 11th against two losses.

Jimmy Cress took scoring honors with 28 points for SLC, now 5-9 for the season.

French Resistance Severe Blow To Common Market

EDITOR'S NOTE — French resistance to Britain's attempts to join the European Common Market seems to have thwarted hopes for an eventual European political union. Here is a special report on the shock wave which went through Europe in the wake of France's opposition to the British at Brussels.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The patient is not yet dead, but mourners are on hand and pallbearers wait in the wings.

The ailing patient is the ideal of European unity.

The European Common Market remains alive and kicking, but for European political and economic cooperation, which was to be its heir, one can almost hear in the distance the tolling of a dirge.

The ideal collided with a bang against the rock of French resistance—the granite-like opposition of Charles de Gaulle to the admission of Britain into the European Economic Community.

'GRAND DESIGN'

A blow has been dealt, too, to President Kennedy's sweeping "grand design" concept of an Atlantic partnership.

Ministers of the six Common Market members—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg — meet in Brussels on Monday on the question which has plunged their community into crisis.

Unless some way can be found out of the impasse created by De Gaulle's opposition to Britain and his expressed suspicion of the United States, the profits from these developments may go to the Soviet Union.

Almost as if they were anxious to close the coffin lid, the French have made it known that they cannot see how negotiations for Britain's entry can continue at this time.

The atmosphere of gloom in advance of Monday's meeting is deepened by dilemma. There are ways in which the French might be punished, but administering punishment to an out-of-step member could react in the long run against the welfare of the whole Common Market, and indeed, threaten stagnation for the community.

Few see even a morsel of hope that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany softened De Gaulle when the two flinty old patriarchs met in Paris last week.

There is some talk in West Germany that ratification of the new treaty solemnizing French-German reconciliation may be resisted in Bonn by the West German Socialists unless De Gaulle relents.

But there is little sign of softening, even in De Gaulle's parting gift to Adenauer: a willingness to turn the question of Britain's application over to the community's European commission headed by Germany's Walter Hallstein.

Possibly the Hallstein commission will draw up an inventory of points in dispute and make recommendations, but the major points of dispute are well known.

Adenauer has pleaded for patience on all sides in the hope that the Common Market impasse will be resolved eventually. But in this whole question, the 87-year-old Bonn chancellor is himself something of an enigma.

IMMORTALITY

Adenauer seems to regard French-German reconciliation as his claim to immortality, the great achievement of his 14 years as chancellor. Thus De Gaulle's good will is important to him.

Yet, Adenauer accepts the fundamentals of President Kennedy's European policy: the idea of a multination nuclear force, European economic and political integration and eventual broad Atlantic partnership. So do Adenauer's Christian Democrats as well as the Free Democrats and the opposition Socialists. All three parties support Britain's European membership.

Adenauer, it would appear, could hardly make the choice De Gaulle seems to want him and others to make: a choice between Paris and Washington. Germans, acutely aware of the Soviet Union, surely would prefer Washington's mighty nuclear protection to France's atomic weapon.

Still, some diplomats in West Germany wonder whether Adenauer even wanted to try to change De Gaulle's mind.

With Britain's application on the shelf, the Continent may be headed for disunity instead of unity. It will not be easy for others to get in now, and some members of the "Outer Seven" free trade association are exhibiting deep worry about the future.

SUSPICION

To many diplomats, De Gaulle seems to be kicking away brick by brick at Kennedy's Atlantic policy because of a deep suspicion of Washington. Like a man shocked at what he sees in a crystal ball, the 73-year-old French chief indicates suspicion that the United States might sell out the Allies in Berlin, might one day deal with the Soviet Union at Europe's expense, or has cooked up some sort of secret deal with Britain at the Kennedy-Macmillan conference in the Bahamas.

Who knows, De Gaulle asks, if the United States really means to defend Europe from attack from the East?

The word has got about that De Gaulle was furious about the Kennedy - Macmillan pact, but British sources express the opinion his fury is used as an excuse to oppose Britain's application. These sources argue that the pact gave De Gaulle the opportunity to hammer home the idea that the United Kingdom was too closely tied to the United States to qualify for European membership.

It is easy in West Germany to detect anger and bitterness among the Americans and British, and a note of shock among the Germans, who seem now to have misgivings about the importance of the Adenauer-De Gaulle love feast.

Dutchmen and Belgians are getting their backs up. They could turn tough when the time comes for signing the Common Market's five-year convention with France's former African colonies, in considering France's wishes regarding Algeria, or France's own special economic problems. But there is reluctance to throw monkey wrenches into the Common Market's machinery.

Some British representatives are predicting an outcry of British popular opinion, possibly a demand for revision of Britain's North Atlantic Treaty Organization role. Some predict a public revulsion against participating in the community, along with demands that Britain go her own way with the nonmembers, the United States and the Commonwealth.

The British seem to feel their prime minister has been kicked in the teeth. They are not a people to push themselves into a private club if they have been blackballed by one of its members.

Public opinion can apply pressure for turning Britain away from the Continent. Only about half of Britain has supported market membership in the first place, and a change of governments in the general elections which must come by October 1964, could kill the whole project for good.

Macmillan is unlikely to heed any popular demands for such things as changing Britain's NATO attitude or ceasing participation in the defense of Berlin and Germany because of suspicion of a Bonn-Paris axis.

But time is of the essence if the 69-year-old British prime minister is to achieve his goal of joining Britain to Europe. France has a veto, and as long as De Gaulle persists, Britain will be blackballed.

Economically that would be no dire disaster for Britain, although it might entail drastic reshaping of her trade policies.

The psychological impact of Britain's failure to join could set European unity back many years, perhaps kill it off for good.

De Gaulle seems to many to have his sights trained on an independent, powerful third force, standing between the United States and the U.S.S.R. His ideas suggest a community turning inward, away from integration with the rest of Europe, and with France dominating the Continent.

Plan Now To Increase Next Year's Riches

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—To avoid fiscal ills on the family's financial front, cogitate now about how to be richer a year from now.

This first month of the year is the time to take stock of such things, fiscal experts preach.

You take stock to find out how you're really doing, making an annual report on your family business.

Sure it's a business. Hubby's the president. The wife's the purchasing agent and treasurer. The family business has income, outgo, cash reserve, assets and liabilities—also called bills.

The thing about an annual report. It will guide you during the next 12 months and help you to decide when to buy, sell, spend, save, give, invest or borrow.

In the process of making an annual report, you will do something you probably keep putting off — collect all your important papers and records into one place. But that's not all. You'll also:

—Make sure your family is covered adequately by insurance.

—Review your retirement outlook and make sure your family can carry on without you.

Net worth is what you're concerned with. The American Bankers Association defines this as the difference between what you own and what you owe. Changes in your family's net worth from year to year show if you are making good financial progress or not.

In figuring net worth, you estimate assets, actual liabilities and then add the value of everything you own and then subtract your debts.

Your assets first include: Cash on hand or in savings and checking accounts; cash value of life insurance; sale value of your home or other real estate holdings; wholesale value of your auto; quick-sale value of furniture and household appliances; resale value of jewelry, antiques and artwork; cash in value of stocks, bonds and other investments; money others owe you if reasonably collectible; money in trust funds; pension plan and club membership.

When adding all your debts, include current bills unpaid and such accounts; car loans; money on furniture and appliances; the mortgage on your home and other real estate mortgages or contracts; tax balances and

Finally, set a realistic goal for increasing each asset. Do the same for decreasing each debt. Your net will be richer a year from now if you follow the plan carefully.

Mink Coat Often Bulky For Petites

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Q: At last I can get a mink coat — I thought. When I tried them on I looked as if I were wearing a blanket. I'm five feet, 100 pounds. Should I choose another fur?

A: Why not? Flat furs, like Persian and broadtail, nutria and leopard, are often much better for the small. However, your trouble with mink probably lies with the design of the coats. Many are designed too full for the petite figure. There are current models in slim, fitted lines. Ask for them, or have the coat of your choice remodeled to fit closer to your figure. A princess silhouette would be an excellent choice.

Q: Although I like hats, I often don't wear them, as it seems too much to try to get four accessories (hat, gloves, bag, shoes) into some kind of harmony. What do you advise?

A: Begin always with the hat, which is the most important of the four and should never be dull. Choose it for color and shape. If it matches the costume, make sure the shape or material is dramatic. If the color contrasts, shape or material can be more conservative. Shoes may then match hat or costume. Gloves and bag can generally be in the same color, since they are so close together, be in a dark or quiet tone to blend with the costume.

Q: I want to buy a long gown for one big affair I will attend, but what do I do with it afterward? I seldom have occasion to wear long dresses.

A: This year long dresses are coming back so strongly, that if you choose a simple but colorful one you can wear it to many affairs once calling for shorts. However, if you want to wear short length, ask the saleswoman to help you choose a dress which can be successfully shortened after the formal affair.

Q: My budget will stand the cost of only an evening dress. I have no furs. What else can I use as a wrap?

A: You probably have a dress coat. Use it, choosing the silhouette of the gown to go with the gown, and choose so as to create an ensemble.

With the weather as it has been this week, 'tis hard to believe we are really living in the South. But cold breezes notwithstanding, Southern hospitality shows itself whenever visitors come to town.

Early in the week, SALLY M'SWEEN and her daughter LIZ were guests of Sally's parents, the C. S. FOSTERS, for an all-too-brief visit. They spent Monday and Tuesday nights in Monroe returning to Alexandria despite the cold Wednesday afternoon.

On Tuesday, JEAN GRIFFEN and JOY MARSHALL entertained at luncheon in the Marshall home, honoring Sally. The honoree wore for this party an all-over spring model of silk linen with skirt a set up in plaid in shades of brown, beige overblouse, and champagne accessories. The table was centered with an epergne holding apples and grapes flanked with a figurine painted in rosy purple tones. Jean and Joy served shrimp gumbo with an avocado salad and cheese cake with strawberries for dessert. There were eight guests.

About thirty of Sally's old friends were invited for coffee Wednesday morning at the home of JERRY FOX. Bessie Foster was co-hostess for this party. Sally chose to wear a cafe au lait wool with A-line skirt and black patent accessories.

A delightful contrast with the weather outside was the spring bouquet which centered the dining table. A cut glass compote held pink and white stock, painted daisies, and ranunculae. Joy Marshall and MARY ALICE HUSTED alternated at the silver coffee service. Goodies served with coffee included tuna sandwiches of cream cheese, bacon and olive on onion bread, hot orange muffins, butter cookies, brownies and cheese straws.

Special treat for members of Northeast Louisiana State concert association will be the performance by the Vienna Boys' Choir, tonight at 8:15 in Neville auditorium. There has been considerable new interest in this group aroused by the movie "Almost Angels" which was seen in Monroe last year.

Home after a trip to New York are JERRY and C. D. OAKLEY, JR., who were away for a week. They stayed at the Astor hotel, handy to the theatres, where they saw "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," "Mary, Mary," and "Mr. President." While in the big city, they met former Monroean HILLYER SPEED LAMKIN for dinner.

Highlights of the winter season are the dinner dances at Bayou DeSiard country club. Several of these popular parties are planned for members each year. This coming Saturday, February 2, is date selected for the latest. Diners saw and acted.

along with boiled shrimp, barbecued ribs, baked beans, and assorted salads will be featured on the menu.

Foreshadowing the racing season was the supper party given last Saturday night by MARY LEE and DOC MILAM at their home. Guests included eight couples who are planning a trip to Hot Springs for the races. Mary Lee used ceramic horses in her decorations — a race track was set up in the family room, and numbered horses ran down the overhouse, and champagne and buffet. The supper menu included chow mein, sweet and sour ribs, and a tart concealed apricot salad.

Members of the REVELERS are looking forward to the first dance of the new club year. A semi-formal Valentine dance is scheduled this coming Friday evening, February 8, from nine until one at the Paragon ballroom. Jerry Lane and his orchestra will play. New executive committee of the Revelers includes the HILLMAN MADISONS, PAUL RANSOM, and SONNY DIXONS.

Friends surprised the CALVIN FOLDS with a housewarming in their new home on Parkwood Boulevard last Friday night. Guests arrived bearing an array of salad and lovely house presents, and supper for the group. The menu included deviled eggs, Swedish meat balls, ham, black eyed peas with onions and corn bread. About seventy attended.

To the right of the kitchen is the den, with its own eating area. This room has green walls and carpet, with draperies of natural linen edged in green moss fringe. Furniture includes an interesting antique white chest and chair covered in petit point.

Between the kitchen and the children's bedroom wing is the family room, with its walnut panelling and brick tile floor. Old brick is used for the open fireplace and raised hearth. Ceiling high book shelves flank the mantel. Furniture in this room is in shades of greens and browns, with a pair of gold chairs used at each side of an antique oval table placed in the wide window. This window has a door open onto the covered patio. Doors also open here from the children's wing and from the master suite of the opposite end.

Daughter KATHY has a blue and white room, with an iron bed painted blue setting the theme. Coverlet is of white with ruffle and draperies of a blue and gold print on white. She has a hand-painted chest of drawers and an old-fashioned white rocker.

Also blue is son CAL's room which takes its color from the bright blue curtains with their border of dark blue elephants. Blue bedspreads are bright spots against the chartreuse bench panelling. Above the beds hang trophies of small redheaded boys engaged in bits of mischief.

Our poem today is "Renascence" by Matthew Arnold:

Ah, would that I did, too!

But her heart was tired, tired.
And now they let her be.

Her life was turning, turning,
In mazes of heat and sound.
But for peace her soul was yearning,
And now peace laps her round.

It fluttered and failed for breath.
Tonight it doth inherit

MR. AND MRS. BOBBY LYNN LOCKWOOD

College Place Baptist Scene Of Wedding Vows

Tall white tapers in branched candelabra formed a background for baskets of white gladioli which decorated College Place Baptist church for the wedding of Miss Evelyn McGowen, daughter of Mrs. Mattelle McGowen, Monroe, to Bobby Lynn Lockwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Lockwood of Start.

BEST BUYS

Purchase seasonal flowers that are "best buys" because they are in plentiful supply. Use them for your everyday living enjoyment—as fashion accessories and for home decorating purposes.

Buy the more exotic or scarce blooms for special occasions in the home, and for gifts. Whenever possible, use the cash - and carry method. It will save delivery costs.

Ensemble Has New Look

While the debut of the two-piece ensemble is not new, what's been done about it is NEW!

Case in point: a new low and flaring skirt with topping of arrow - straight tunic overblouse, fashionably slim and sans sleeves. On view, too: the ever - great classic flash of black and white in full striped skirt with solid blouse.

Color in the Howard Wolf collection, when not merely lusciously spring toned, is brilliantly bright . . . jackets are cutaway . . . necklines are likely to be the coolest cowl that ever surrounded a girl or else totally non-existent . . . Schiffli embroidery appears on silk organza in one party dress of low - backed proportions . . . and the accent is always on workmanship at surprisingly moderate prices.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Figure molding exercises smooth out bumps, build up curves and also increase energy. Many women have found that regular daily exercise banishes many minor disabilities such as stiff jojints and constipation. Women who have been harassed by chronic fatigue find that it disappears when subjected to an exercise routine. Why not find out for yourself how true this is!

1. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor, extending straight out from your shoulders, palms toward the floor. Bend both knees and place your feet on the floor close to your hips. Now raise your heels from the floor. Keep your toes on the floor as you roll from side to side, slapping the thighs on the floor at the end of each roll. This exercise is reducing to the thighs and lower hips.

2. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor extending straight out from your shoulders, palms toward the floor. Bend both knees up close to your abdomen, and keep them there (feet off of the floor) as you roll from side to side. This is reducing to the upper hipline.

3. Assume the same starting position. Keep the feet, hips and shoulders on the floor as you roll from side to side, going as far in each direction as possible. Cling to the floor with your fingertips.

If you would like to have my tested abdominal exercises, send a 5 - cent self - addressed, stamped envelope with your request for leaflet No. 2. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

New Designs Upcoming In Drapery Fabric

There's a greater color line to choose from in Early American and it will be much easier to match the documentaries, traditional designs and toiles with the solid colors.

Very much in are the Moorish designs in Mediterranean. They are larger in scale than last year and have more of a contemporary look. Colors are still very bright especially in the Spanish types and some Mexican.

Best Flower Buys Are Cited

Gleaming silver bowls, wagons and baskets are in plentiful supply in January as are containers of wood for table decorations and other displays in the home, the Society of American Florists reports.

Recognizing the fact that flowers are from all parts of the world, florists suggest that you place them in a color harmony. Add warm shades for a feeling of warmth, cool shades for a cool effect. Use white flowers to lighten and set off the others. Flowers and foliage of the same color group together to enhance that color.

HINT FOR EGGS

Poaching eggs in the shell instead of breaking them into the water makes them easier to handle. Use a pan deep enough to cover the eggs with water. Bring to a boil, then simmer for 5 minutes.

Leather Fashions Seen In Spring Silhouette

NEW YORK — Body by day, "body" holds its shape to give curves or angles fashionable effect as you fashion's newest silhouette or any time — that's the story of things to the figure in soft, artful leather apparel for Spring.

From big, wide - shouldered suits in neutral shades, leather coats to slim A - line skirts, this or suits, dresses, blouses and season's leathers are fluid, soft slacks key the fashion landscape. Soft light-weight leathers natural. During a week - long pre-season showing at Leather Industries of America here a literally head-to - toe range of leather apparel and accessories was displayed in elegant smooth and grained leather, velvety suede leather, gleaming patent leather and glistening lustre leather. With the look of couturier fashions and the price tag of ready-to wears, leather garments offer fashion leadership at every hour of the day.

SOFT LOOK

For resort or suburban wear, the "Riviera look" catches the eye in leather. Sun - drenched red, white and blue blouses, pants and jackets are found in softly draped grain leather. T - shirts are striped in red and white smooth leather and worn under blue suede leather jackets.

Sleek '63 Styles Require Dieting

NEW YORK (AP) — Whatever happened to the muffled look, ruffles and bows, feathers, chiffon and short evening clothes?

Some are gone. Some are modified and some are growing strong among the spring styles previewed by fashion writers attending the New York Couture Group's semi annual Press Week.

And other rages, such as the muddy, and grandfather's night shirt and a few outrages such as the bared midriff evening gown, are making new news.

Yet, whatever is said, and how, the 24 participating design houses are spelling out is the same. For the idolized framework for chic is still long and lean to the marrow.

THE CHANGES: The muffled look has become the scarfed look in wispy materials. Ruffles are way out. So are feathers, bows and beads in overpowering doses. Chiffon is tailored, not floaty.

THE NEWS: Some jackets lack sleeves, and button down the back, or slip over head without buttons anywhere. Stretch fabrics are used in certain areas of dresses for custom fits on difficult figures. Some midriffs are bare for evening.

SPECIAL INFLUENCES: A few years ago the Army gave fashion-conscious women the Eisenhower jacket with its zip down front. This year it has grown into a zip-down, step-in dress.

The Navy gave us the sailor suit. The middy blouse has been fashioned from rough textured tweed for suits as well as smooth clingy crepes for ball gowns.

Henry Higgins inspired designers to copy his sweater as a suit jacket and in long version as a dress. And that Arabian movie, as well as Jackie Kennedy's earlier visit to India, has resulted in long sari silk gowns with veils or stoles partially covering ladies' heads.

HEMS: Skirt are inching gradually over the knees for daytime and reach the floor for festive occasions and at home.

SUITS: Jackets are so long they stop just short of being coats, or they are shells that hug the hipline, or flare out French style into peplums. Skirts sidewrap, or gather slightly at the waistband. Sleeves are set in and longer than last year. Blouses usually match jacket linings as in previous seasons but colors and patterns are not as garish.

DRESSES: The little "nothing" dress still lacks its collar and sleeves however, it is less fitted than a sheath, more so than a sack.

SPLIT LEVELS: These, the tall girl's blessings, are achieved with capelets over loose long jackets, over slim skirts.

COLORS: All bonbon hues are favorites but pinks, blues and yellows are a little more so. Cloud white or shadowy black, or a splashy print contract of both, are also being readied for mid wear.

FABRICS: Wools, favorites such as mohair, and menswear wools, having refused to be closeted for the season, are fashioned into bushy or sleek mannish fashions their wearing.

Long Coat Is Replacing Fur Wrap

Among well - dressed women the long coat is replacing the fur wrap for evening. It's part of the trend away from displaying fur for fur's sake, of the trend toward wearing what's warm and comfortable.

Mainbocher has made only floor - length coats and small, snug wool jackets for his evening gowns this year. Vera Maxwell has a great sweep of sleeveless white wool coat accented with white braid, which goes over a black crepe sleeved gown.

BOOKS

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Many New Books Added Weekly

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Each week many new books are added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. This is the season of the year when people are especially interested in books and reading and this is reflected in the circulation of books from the various libraries of the Ouachita Parish Public Library System. Reference use of the Library is growing all the time and is particularly evident on Sunday afternoons when the Main Library is open. Many people come and stay all of the three hours from 2:00 to 5:00, because they do not have this opportunity for uninterrupted reading at other times in the week. The main library is also open until 9:00 Mondays through Fridays and the West Monroe and Ann Meyer Libraries are open until 8:00 on Mondays through Thursdays.

"Harm's Way" is the title of a new novel written by James Bassett, who was Admiral Halsey's press officer in World War II. This is a good picture of combat life and the men who were stationed in the Pacific. It will appeal to many readers. "I Take This Land" by Richard Powell has it's setting on the West Coast of Florida. It is a story of modern day pioneering and it is extremely well written. For the mystery story readers there is a new title by Erle Stanley Gardner, "The Case of the Mischevious Doll." "The Boy in the Pool" is a first novel by Camilla R. Bittle. The setting is a New England school for boys and the tragedy on which the book hinges, is well presented. It is an interesting, although not a pleasant book.

"The Book of the Hand" by Paul Tabori is a most complete study of the human hand and all of the facts and legends connected with it. A book which every true American should read is "The Invisible Government" by Dan Smoot. It is a book to make the reader face the facts about how our country is run. A valuable book for the man in the oil industry is "Price Formation in Natural Gas Fields" by Paul W. McVoy. A new book in the field of diet, particularly directed to the heart patient is "Eat to Your Heart's Content" by H. M. Whyte. A perfectly delightful book, given to the library in honor of Gardenia, the faithful library cat, is "Mr. Cat" by George Freedley.

"Crewel Embroidery" by Erica Wilson is a very lovely book which gives exact directions for this art. The pictures are in color and it should be most valuable. "Oriental Rugs" by Charles W. Jacobsen is a most complete guide to this subject and it should be of interest to many readers. The illustrations are good and the book is well-written. "Recreation in the Senior Years" by Arthur Williams is a book which should be valuable to everyone working with golden age groups. A new book written in a humorous vein is "How to Cope With . . ." written by Merrill Pollack. A new collection of poetry is "New Poems, 1961," edited by William Plomer. A fine addition to the literature collection is "The Comedies of Terrence". H. W. F. Saggs has written a very fine book called "The Greatness What Was Babylon." This book adds much to our historical knowledge and has taken advantage of the many recent discoveries in the field of archeology.

In the field of history there are several interesting new titles. "Defeat Into Victory" by Viscount William Slim is an account of the war in Burma in World War II. "The Politics of African Nationalism" by George W. Shepherd is a very informative title about that troubled continent. Two new books are concerned with the naval history of the Civil War. They are: "By Sea and By River" by Bern Anderson and "Civil War Ironclads" by Robert McBride.

Joseph L. Morrison is the author of a very complete biography of "Josephus Daniels" which discusses the life of this very fine newspaper editor who played a part in American history from the time of William Jennings Bryan to Franklin D. Roosevelt. "Sieg Heil" by Morris D. Waldman is the title of a new biography of Hitler. It contains much information not found in other accounts. A very interesting memoir is "One Boy's Boston" written by Samuel Morison, in which he recalls his boyhood in this fascinating city. Another autobiography of interest is "Yankee From the West," written by Burton K. Wheeler. Last of all is an outstanding addition to the reference collection of the Library. This is the "Pictorial Dictionary of Ancient Rome" written by Ernest Nash. This book should be especially vaulable to students of English history and Latin.

Collapse Of Four Big Dynasties

THE FALL OF THE DYNASTIES. By Edmond Taylor. Doubleday. $6.50.

Taylor has undertaken a tremendously broad panorama of recent history. For readers who have the hardihood to follow him through the sprawling mountains and dark valleys of this long, jarring adventure there is a considerable reward in understanding the frightening legacies which this generation has inherited.

This book also may give the serious reader the creeps. There is such a monumental grisliness about the morbid insanities and fumbling follies of recent European history, spread out in gigantic heaps of detail on these pages, that the groggy spectator may conclude that it is a wonder we have managed to stagger along into the era of nuclear crisis.

Taylor's subtitle is "The Collapse of the Old Order, 1905 - 1922." The dynasties whose downfall he relates are the Hapsburg (Austria-Hungary), Ottoman (Turkey), Romanov (Russia) and Hohenzollern (Germany).

Essentially, this is a grimly repetitious tale of decrepit despots, living in utterly blind ignorance of the realities, and coming to bloody and chaotic ends by piling blunder upon stupid blunder, at the cost of millions of nameless lives.

American readers, with rather hazy notions about the stewpot of European nationalist and racial entanglements, and with only a small grasp of the agonies and hatreds that spilled over from World War I to World War II, doubtless will be shocked as they wade through these narratives of war, riots and revolutions, degeneracy and psycho-pathic aberrations in high places, ludicrous absurdities in the roles played by many of history's actors and the bitterly ironic accidents which often swayed the course of events.

The author is so diligent in piling up the minutiae of the day - to - day drama that he sometimes swamps the reader; this is no volume for casual perusing. Yet he also is rightfully thorough in sketching the ancestry of the troubles that still beset Europe.

The work has, perhaps inevitably, its swamps of tedious passages. But it also has a leavening factor of color anecdote, and occasional flights of sweeping insight. By dipping into memoirs, dairies and eye - witness accounts, the author manages to give a spirit of urgency to many of the incidents he describes.

Professional historians may quarrel with some of Taylor's generalizations and interpretations. However, he has given his script a nonacademic vitality by dramatizing many of his points.

This is an ambitious work. But for the history - minded readers who are willing to give it their patient attention, it is an enlightening and often engrossing chronicle.

Historical Novel Set In Florida

I TAKE THIS LAND. By Richard Powell. Scribner's. $5.95.

Philadelphia - born writer Powell has a Philadelphia-born empire builder as the central figure in this lusty novel set in Southwest Florida — a book which, among other things, points up the fact that this area was one of the last frontiers of the United States.

Primarily it's a book about people — land promoter and railroad builder Ward Campion (he's the Philadelphian); star-crossed farmer Joel Emmet; swamp-wise hunter Rush Lightburn, for instance. But as much attention focuses on the land itself as on those who attempt to possess and conquer it.

Some of Powell's best writing describes the mysterious, rich, beautiful, deadly place known as the Everglades, whose swamps sometimes seem possessed of animal cunning as they resist man's attempts to civilize them with railroads, highways, farms and homes.

Particularly vivid are his descriptions of the freeze of 1895 and the hurricane of 1926, each a devastating point in Florida history.

Some of Powell's characters seem stereotyped — the unreconstructed Southern cattleman and the plain, lonely daughter who nurses Campion back to health after a steer gores him are good examples of this — but the action during the 50-year span covered by the novel is believable and sustained, and the final product is a better - than - average historical novel about an era and an area often neglected.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Bonsai Tree Art Explained

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

"Bonsai trees" in all their magic splendor were shown and their secret discussed by Paige who has had this for his hobby for some time. He brought this program to us late last summer. So many requested to see it again and hear him we were quite fortunate to have him come back for the program.

Frankly, I am looking forward to another one. It is a very fascinating hobby, one that most anyone could certainly enjoy and get a lot of satisfaction from.

NO SECRET

The secret art of the bonsai tree used to belong entirely to the Japanese, but now it is a secret no longer because many Americans are becoming artists in methods of dwarfing trees and plants with equal skill of the Orientals. Throughout the country bonsai clubs are springing up and annual exhibits are held.

Nevertheless, we are more than awed by the results "at-cost" specimens that are shown at the shows. It is fantastic to see a tiny tree less than two feet high with perfect proportion to a stately elm, and with all the grace of one like a gnarled old pine that could be seen clinging to the mountain side; and another one — a miniature twisted live oak, twisted by the wind, labeled "over 200 years old."

These are the true bonsai from the Orient — passed down from generation to one family. We may wonder now we can compete with this.

It is true that many easily adapted plants can be very excellent bonsai specimens. Sometimes you'll find them already halted and but biggest trees just suitable at the nursery. The Japanese instructors at the Brooklyn Botanic Garden, Brooklyn, New York, teach and show their classes how to use these young nursery grown plants to form a creditable bonsai in just a short time.

More than one thousand pupils have taken bonsai courses at the Brooklyn Botanic Garden. Just patience and ordinary garden skill is required. The object is to create an illusion of a lovely tree — perhaps seen through the wrong end of the telescope. Of course an aged tree is more fascinating to look at than a young one. So, this aged look is important in training the tree. This can be achieved by pruning away excessive foliage and twigs so that the curving trunk will be easily seen. Also by twisting the branches to grow in a gnarled manner we have the feeling of the wind and the storms that the tiree has outlived.

QUESTION

Many have asked, "should these trees be kept indoors?" We are told in an article in the January issue of Popular Gardening, that bonsai are outdoor plants in fact most plants adaptable to bonsai training are hardy specimens and must be kept outdoors most of the time in order to grow well. They need the moderate sun, rain — as well as handwashing during dry spells — and they must have cool outdoor temperature in order to grow well.

They can be brought indoors occasionally to serve as decorations for a day or two, but should be returned to the outdoors. If you are planning to have one bonsai — you might as well plan to have several — since there is little increase in the attention-time needed — and the resulting pleasure is multiplied.

Containers for the bonsai are important. Imported ones are now widely available. Some domestic pottery is suitable. Paige showed one that he uses for one of his plants. There is a large hole in the shallow pot to afford good drainage. The tree or plant never likes to have water collect around its roots. This is very important, Paige pointed out. Plenty of water is required for the bonsai in the summer time especially. There is such a small amount of dirt around the roots as the moisture soon is used up by the plant or drains away. More must be added — often.

You might ask what plants would be suitable. Low - growing flowering quince, azaleas, dwarf Japanese barberry, and nandina. Of course, pines, maples, and plum, redbud, golden larch, and flowering apricot are trees that would be very suitable for bonsai. Most of these, and many other are known by most all of us in our section of the country.

ANSWER

Asking Paige about the cost of these trees brought a very good answer. One that you probably would want to know before starting your new hobby. "If you considered the cost of the tree — without stopping to think about the time and effort that has been put on it over a number of years to make it the work of art that it is — considering care and careful pruning — watering each day — for say — 10 to 12 years — then, paying at least $35 for a small tree from the nursery would not seem too high a price to pay. Most start at this price," Paige said.

Of course you can try your luck with a seedling from the woods or along the rocks, roadside, and you may have wonderful luck in your art. The ability to form a very interesting bonsai — but this is taking a chance. You would probably save a lot of time to shop at the nursery for this particular tree or plant that has been carefully selected for this type of art.

So, good luck, if you are starting this wonderful and satisfying hobby. Paige was wonderful to offer his help to you in any way of advice. He is certainly capable of doing this — and, you are certainly lucky.

The garden center offers a fine book on the subject, "Bonsai — Miniature Trees — Their Selection Culture and Care," by Claude Chadamain. Also, there is a copy of Popular Gardening - January issue, with a fine article "We tell the 'secret' of Bonsai," by George Hull.

Thanks to you, Mr. Paige for giving us your time and such a wonderful program on such a wonderful subject — "Bonsai."

The next program will be brought to you by the Green Thumb Garden Club, of which Mrs. J. W. Golson, is president. So, be watching.

Stamp News

It isn't often that a country issues a centennial commemorative stamp three years in advance of the celebration date, but this was done recently by the United Arab Republic. It issued a commemorative set of three stamps with two objectives in mind: first, to celebrate Postage Stamp Day and second, to announce the organization of "International Exhibition of Postage Stamps," which will be held in Cairo March 1964, to hail the centennial of the first postage stamp of Egypt, which was issued on Jan. 1, 1866. The U.A.R. postal authorities also announced plans to issue similar commemorative sets on the next three years for the same purpose. Additional values on these stamps will go to the financing of the 1964 Exhibition.

One of the stamps depicts the emblem of the Postal Authority inside a circle; the other two stamps are triangulars with a common base illustrating two stamps of 1866 — the first ever issued by Egypt.

The Republic of Tunisia has issued a set of six multicolored stamps commemorating the "Modernization of the Telephone," reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. These automatic exchanges represent an important step in the modernization of the Tunisian telephone system. The 5 miles stamp shows the Casbah station building in Tunis. The 10 m. depicts the Carthage station building in Tunis. The 15 m. features the transmission tower at Sfax for the radio link between Tunis and Sfax. The 40 m. shows three Tunis telephone operators. The 100 m. illustrates a dial. The 200 m. bears the Belvedere station at Tunis.

The British Crown agents report that 12 existing values of the current definitive issue of the Virgin Islands have been overprinted in black. The denominations are in U. S. currency.

Afghanistan has announced that two sets of stamps were recently issued. One set of eight values honors its Boy Scouts. The design, the same for all values, shows a typical Boy Scout and the scout emblem. The other set honors "Teachers Day" and consists of seven values. The five lower values depict athletic events while the two higher values show different species of flowers.

Japan will issue on March 1 two new stamps dedicated to the Hakusan National Park. The 5 yen will depict Lake Midori - ga - the and Mt. Hakusan. The 10 yen will show a view of the Hakusan mountain range.

STILL AMAZED, our columnist studies his first instant - color prints with the new Poloroid color film. The original of this picture, also taken with Polacolor film, was seen in color 50 seconds after it was taken. The exposure was EV 15 with two electronic flash units providing the light. One Futurama II unit was on the left of the camera and a Heiland 52-A slave unit was at the right, forward.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

It is called Polacolor — a film used in a Polaroid camera which produces a finished, fine quality color print just 50 seconds after the film is pulled.

This long - awaited much-talked about triumph of American photographic know - how is the result of a 15 year research program headed by Dr. Edwin Land, inventor of the picture - in - a - minute process.

Polacolor film represents entirely new photographic concepts, dozens of new inventions, the creation of new materials and hundreds of new laboratory and manufacturing techniques.

ONE STEP

Whatever a picture is taken with the film, it completes into one step and only 50 seconds of time the conventional color process. The latter normally requires a darkroom, over 20 separate steps with much equipment, careful temperature control and a minimum of about 90 minutes.

I tried the film myself with the feeling of a pioneer investigating a new frontier. On the whole, the colors are soft and have a pastel quality in the flesh tones. Personality, my taste runs to having the reds a bit more brilliant.

I encountered marked interest and enthusiasm in all who saw the results. Their questions are the same ones you'd ask, so let me answer them for you too.

Do you need a special Polaroid camera?

No, the only thing special is the new film although it looks and handles like present 10 - second black - and-white film. Polacolor can be used in existing cameras with these exceptions:

Models J66 and J33 require a color adapter kit. It consists of an adapter which fits over the electric eye to convert it to the slower speed of color film, an ultra - violet filter to improve color quality, a J5 flash reflector that fits over the built - in flashgun on these cameras. The adapter kits will be available at camera stores.

PROTECTED

Do you have to coat the prints and are the colors permanent?

The new Polacolor prints do not require coating. They dry in a couple of minutes with a built-in glossy, protective coating. If handled normally and with reasonable care, they are considered permanent. Like all other present color materials, they must not be exposed to sunlight or strong light for any length of time.

What is the film's speed? Normally, Polacolor is rated at 75 ASA with development time of 50 seconds. For comparison, other present color films speeds are: Kodachrome II - 25, Anscochrome - 32, Agfa and Perutz color films — 50 and the new Ekta-color S film — 80 ASA.

However, temperature affects Polacolor film much more than other films. If the film or camera is below 60 degrees F, the speed of the film also drops and the development time should be increased. And if the camera is in a warm climate, the speed of the film increases and the development time should drop. Roughly speaking, the ASA speed is about the same as the temperature.

COST

What will it cost?

Everyone is concerned with this question naturally, but the answer must be an approximate one at this time. There are only six — not eight — pictures on each roll of the new color film. They will average about 85 cents for each exposure or about $5 per roll.

House As Old As Its Arteries

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A house, like a person, has its age periods, from birth to prime to old age. And like man it has its arteries, the little pipes that thread their way throughout the home.

Their condition may be determined by the original material of the pipes, their age and upkeep. House pipes often become so rusted that trickle of water can just barely make it from well to faucet. But unlike man who must live with his clogged arteries, house pipes may be replaced, giving the house a new lease on life.

A couple of house sellers found this out recently, after two years of having a house on the market, reducing the price month after month. They discovered people were rejecting it because of the bad plumbing but they didn't want to part with $900 to have new pipes put in, always hoping that the new buyer would take on the job. After they lopped some $4,500 off the price, they gave up selling the house three weeks after the pipes were replaced — for their original asking price.

They don't reject it when the problems may be remedied easily for a sum within reason. Women want pretty kitchens and closets, but often they will be willing to take a house when the husband guarantees that the dream kitchen will be installed.

UNCERTAINTY

But pipes are something else again. A man buying a house doesn't know what problems he will face when he tries to replace old pipes. He won't mind that windows rattle and floor boards squeak. He knows these things can be fixed. But he doesn't want to buy unseen problems, like plumbing.

He knows he can figure the cost of replacing the oil burner, the pump, the hot water heater. But he doesn't want to buy any mystery.

In old houses pipes often were installed by homeowners themselves who replaced them from time to time, often in an artery that is impossible to figure out, especially with no plan available. When they enlarged their small dwellings, the problems increased as barriers were built around pipes without giving a thought to keeping them accessible for replacement.

Anyone who plans to sell an old house should update the plumbing before putting the house on the market. You should have a chart available showing how the pipes have been installed in the house. Money invested for new pipes, new bathroom and kitchen fixtures may be the best investment you can make.

An old house has charm and patina that is the envy of the little old ranch houses that have sprung up around it. But the interlopers have something that old houses do not have: shiny new innards. True, the service man is around all the time, and architects predict the new house won't last like the old, but when the time comes to sell, there won't be a problem. While the old house nearby can wear a "for sale" sign until it rots, the new house has no difficulty in attraving tenants.

Early Seeds Speed Bloom

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

These cold days do not encourage us to do any gardening, but in the near future, we will all be anxious to do some work, if the weatherman gives us some real good days.

There are many annuals that can be planted in January and early February. For real early flowers, plant seed in boxes and keep indoors. Seeds sown in January will provide color in the landscape some three to four weeks earlier than can be expected if the gardener has to wait until frost free days have passed. Look over this list for flower seeds to sow.

Try to get those flower beds worked up early. Use organic matter freely. This may be leaf mold existing on the site or brought in from nearby woodlands or peat moss purchased at local nurseries, feed and seed stores and garden centers. The depth of bed should be six to 12 inches.

WATCH DEPTH

Be sure to take some care in planting trees and shrubs. Be sure to set the plants no lower than they were before digging. Plants will settle so they can actually be planted an inch or so higher than the original depth to allow for settling.

Do not be over anxious to remove plants that were seemingly killed by the December freeze. Many plants that were so-called killed by the freeze in January of 62 came out from the roots and did well. Clean up plants damaged by cutting away dead portions of the plant. These plants fertilized in early spring will likely become alive again.

SOMETHING NEW

A new process for making orange juice from instant orange powder is now under development by Florida Citrus Commission Scientists. This may be the next convenience foods added to the list for housewives.

The experimental powder dissolves readily in cold water to make a good tasting, nutritious orange juice, according to the scientists.

The powder offers substantial shipping and storage advantages because it is light weight and needs no refrigeration.

More research will be done before the new powder is ready for commercial use. The scientists have not determined as yet as to length of time powder can be stored without flavor changes or deterioration.

"STANDERS" STOCKINGS

The fiber that has become well known in foundation garments and swim suits for its ability to hold is now being used in hose to support women's legs. Because of its great strength, lycra provides stockings suitable for everyday wear with the kind of holding power once associated only with surgical or therapeutic stockings. Since lycra has more holding power than rubber, it allows for a sheerer stocking with light weight control. Seamless and full fashioned styles are available in beige, taupe tones and white. A wide range of tints will be coming later. These hose offer a combination of lightness, sheerness, and control that makes it possible to step out with fashion as well as comfort.

It is expected that not only women who suffer from leg fatigue find comfort in the new stockings, but also teachers, nurses, buyers and home makers who stand a great deal.

CLOTHING DEMONSTRATION

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, want to learn more about the guides to the quality look in clothing construction, come to the Agricultural Building Friday, February 1, at 9:30 a.m. - 11:30 a.m. Miss Betty Jane Hodgkins, clothing specialist from LSU Agricultural Extension, will give the demonstration.

NEWS

Friends of the late Clyde Ingram, Poultry Specialist for Agricultural Extension for over 25 years, will be happy to learn that the LSU Board of Supervisors at their last meeting announced that the new poultry building on the campus will be named, "The Clyde Ingram Hall." Mr. Ingram played a major roll in the development of the poultry industry in Louisiana.

A THOUGHT

Sometimes the hardest lesson is learning to live with yourself.

Evergreens Need Overcoat

Your evergreens will come through the winter in better condition if you give them a mulch overcoat. Spread organic material such as peat moss, corn cobs, wood chips, salt hay, oak leaves, about five inches deep around the base of your boxwood, azaleas, fire thorn or other tender evergreens, extending out roughly as far as the branch spread if possible.

If you haven't done so already, protect the tree trunk with a wire fence against ravages of hungry mice and other animals. And either build a windbreak or use one of the readily available sprays to protect the shrubs from being dried out by cold winds.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Cold Damage Is Revealing

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Most of the winter damage that has taken place so far in this season was done, apparently, in the deep freeze we were subjected to back in the Fall.

Gardeners are now beginning to discover that their tender shrubs like the Indica azaleas which we attempt to grow up here in the hills had their bark split. One of the best gardeners in the south wrote at Christmas that she had lost nearly 100 camellias in her north Louisiana garden.

The cold damage has been spotty and very revealing. It has shown, in many cases, that shrubs were really suffering under conditions that were not good for them. Old and starving broadleaf evergreens have been scorched outright because they had not been getting a complete diet and just did not have the tissues that could resist cold weather. If some of your shrubs were badly damaged in this way, you will need to be sure that they are properly fed after they recover from the necessary pruning.

PERIL POINT

When the thermometer dips below 10 degrees and there is a wind, the damage is apt to be very severe here in Zone Eight where the "average minimum temperature" is between 10 degrees and 20 degrees. The speed of the wind, the lack of snow or sleet cover and the length of time involved determine the degree of damage. These November performances of old man Winter seem to be coming earlier and earlier each year, and we shall simply have to learn to expect them.

PROTECTION

One effect the return of cold winters is going to have on southern gardeners is to teach them the value of protecting plants. It is typical of our weather variations that, after a relatively bitter cold snap, we are most apt to have a balmy period. Our great-grandmothers knew how to deal with this problem; they built one sided small houses with glass on the south, and they set their tubbed and potted plants in and out between mild and cold spells in late fall and early spring. In really cold weather, they left a lamp or so burning all night to prevent the temperature from dropping too low.

COVERS

There are innumerable plastic covers and protectors for outdoor plants these days that make plant protection for your choice tender outdoor plants an easy matter. One has to remember to remove these coverings when the sun comes out because sunshine is apt to scorch foliage that is still frozen from the night before.

If a howling cold wind suddenly comes up, and you are unable to protect some of your tender shrubs, you may take a tip from the Florida orange growers and spray your plants with the hoze. The water will freeze and leave a protective coat of ice that may save your shrubs.

Here's the Answer

BY ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Question: Please give me some information about words like concrete, cement, mortar and grout. I expect to be doing some patching in the future and have been reading up on the subject, but I am confused about the ways these terms are used.

Answer: There is much confusion about these words because even some persons in the construction business use them interchangeably.

Let's start with cement, because this is the ingredient used in all of the mixtures. Cement usually is portland cement, a kind of cement, not a brand of it. It now comes in different sizes, but the usual size is 94 pounds on a bag, because 94 pounds is the amount that equals one cubic foot.

Concrete is cement mixed with gravel or a similar aggregrate, sand and water. Mortar is cement mixed with lime, sand and water. Grout is cement mixed with sand and water.

Concrete is the heavy-duty material used for big jobs. Mortar is mostly used for laying bricks. Grout is mixed so that it will flow easily and thus is suitable for filling cracks.

Director Makes New York Debut

The Cheryl Crawford-Roger L. Stevens production stars Horst Buchholz and Hugh Griffith.

Curtain Call

With cast and orchestra for "Annie Get Your Gun" rounding the half - way mark in their rehearsal schedule and coming closer to the director's requirements every day, it is gratifying to report that costumes and sets are making equal progress. Costume chairman June Sherman is sewing like mad herself, ably assisted by Velda Taylor, Val Nichols, Gerry Moore, Mary Ann Graser, Marjorie Becton and Judy Evans.

June's neighbor, Janet Schalm, showed her spirit by organizing a sewing bee one afternoon to make light work of applying the finishing touches to a group of costumes. Ann Eberlee, Margie Germany, Lola Langhart, Frances Mitchell and Jo Palmquist pitched in to help. This friendly gesture turned a mean task into a gay party.

Colorful costumes will be a feature of "Annie Get Your Gun," for its is based on a flamboyant traveling show, Buffalo Bill's Wild West, full of cowboys, Indians and other frontier characters. Jack Pankey has loaned authentic Indian regalia with a magnificent feathered head-dress, while members of the Order of the Arrow will participate in some of the scenes in full costume, for which we are grateful to Orrie White.

The fast and frequent set changes will keep the "Annie" stage crew busy. Technical director Ray Lucero is surrounded these days by animal cages, pullman cars, boarding house porches, circus tents and all the other scenes on which our more artistic volunteers are working. Marc Bloch, Wade Brisbin, Murray Burfford, Jan Evans, George Hargus, Janice Hattaway, Dewayne May, Jim Tarver, James West and Sara Womack are among those whose handiwork will be on display as "Annie" progresses from scene to scene.

Executive director Richard M. Clark wants to save a few surprises for our audiences, so our lips are sealed on a couple of the big production numbers beyond saying that spectators are going to gasp over the Indian ceremonial dance and Annie's exhibition of marksmanship while mounted on . . . we can say no more.

In another week or so, members will be mailed a form for making advance reservations for "Annie Get Your Gun" prior to the box - office opening. We urge as many as possible to take advantage of this method of reserving seats, not only to avoid strain on the box - office later, but also to insure the best choice of location.

Now a word to non-members who want to see "Annie" and we know there will be many. All five shows of our regular season are restricted to members only, but it is not oo late to become a regular member for $2 or a student member for $1, simply by calling vice president Mrs. L. H. Carter at FAirfax 3-3509.

Regular members are privileged to buy tickets for "Annie" at $2.50 each, student members at only $1.50. In addition, both these classes of membership are entitled to see our remaining two plays, "The Best Man" and "The Miracle Worker," at only $1 each. Patron and sustaining members, of course, have already subscribed to the entire season in advance.

No a non-member can also wait to take out membership and order tickets for "Annie" at the same time, in which event it comes to $4.50 for regular and $2.50 for student. Either way is satisfactory to Little Theatre, but those who join immediately will receive the advance reservation form by mail.

We are sure people understand that charging a membership fee to all is a matter of fairness to those who became members at the start of the Little Theatre season. We look to our memberships to cover our fixed overhead, while cash admissions more or less take care of our-of-pocket costs of production.

Lengthy Titles Fad is Growing

NEW YORK (AP) — Joining the fad for long show titles, the Theater Guild has changed the name of its upcoming comedy from "Libby" to "Dear Me, The Sky Is Falling."

The play by Leonard Spigelgass stars Gertrude Berg, and is being directed by Herman Shumlin.

Discount Plan Card On Films Is Success

The Movie Discount Card program for the Northeast Louisiana area is nearing the end of its first year and Ted Hatfield, city manager for Paramount Gulf Theatres, states, "the program is a terrific success."

Nearly a year ago, Hatfield initiated a special Movie Discount Card for school students between the ages of 12 thru 17 allowing them a special discount price for movie tickets. This plan was highly endorsed by P-TA groups, civic leaders, and parents as it provided a "in-between" price between a child's and general admission ticket.

The students can obtain in application blank at the theatre, fill in the application, pay a small service charge, and be entitled to discounts up to 50 per cent on movie tickets for one year. As a special bonus a "Birthday Book is being compiled and all students in the MDC Program receive a birthday pass once a year.

'Chalk Circle' Production Is Being Planned

NEW YORK (AP) — The recent surge of interest in Bertolt Brecht plays is being augmented with plans for a Broadway production next fall of "The Caucasian Chalk Circle."

Youth Charged With Auto Theft, Simple Burglary

The Ouachita Parish sheriff's department charged a 19-year-old Pascagoula, Miss., youth Stephen Allen Smith, with auto theft and simple burglary of an auto after he was apprehended by state police on driving violations.

The sheriff's officers charged Smith with theft of a 1962 auto taken Jan. 21 at Pascagoula. He was driving the vehicle when arrested Saturday morning by state police for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages and driving with a revoked driver's license.

The department also charged Smith with simple burglary of an auto parked at Northeast College Wednesday. The vehicle broken into is owned by George Edward LeRay II, a DeRidder pharmacy student at the college. Smith was held in the parish jail without bond.

Late Friday night, a Farmerville Negro ambulance driver was charged with simple criminal damage to property in excess of $500, simple damage to property, negligent injuring and reckless driving after being involved in a wreck that left some seven persons injured. The 22 - year - old Negro, Robert Corad James, P if keeps a full-time secretary O Box 213, Farmerville, was held under bonds totaling $1,000.

According to investigating Monroe police, four Negroes in the ambulance which was going east on Louisville Avenue, enroute to E. A. Conway Memorial hospital, sustained minor injuries and were transferred to other ambulances and carried on to the hospital. They were Mattie McHenry, Ruby Everette, Janie Calaway and Charlie Darby, all of Farmerville.

The ambulance crashed into a car at the foot of the new traffic bridge, rendering both vehicles undriveable and injuring three persons in the other car. Injured were driver, Louis E. Tyner, 17, 2306 N. 7th St., Monroe; and passengers, Stephen E. Riser, 16, New Natchitoches Rd., West Monroe; and Bill Halbert, 16, 405 Circle Dr., West Monroe. All three youths were treated at Glenwood Hospital.

They were driving south on Riverside Drive, with the traffic light green for them, when the ambulance crashed into their car, according to authorities. The accident ocurred shortly before 10:30 p.m. Friday.

In other action, Monroe police booked a 33-year-old Negro, Frank Moore, 1117 Rear Washington St., with reckless driving, DWI and no driver's license at 3:30 a.m. Saturday. Moore was apprehended in the 3200 block of Renwick St., and held under a $500 bond.

The West Monroe department also cleared the theft of a bicycle, stolen a week ago, with the apprehension Saturday of a 10-year-old Juvenile. The youth was released to the custody of his parents. Still under investigation by West Monroe officers was the theft of around $10 from a coin changing machine at Hawthorn's Laundramat, Cypress Street. The money was pried from the machine sometime Thursday night.

Ellender Says Some Letters Are Insulting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender said Satruday he is somewhat frustrated, if not downright insulted, by some of the letters he receives.

So he set out to tell constituents how to write to him.

"Ideally," he said, "a letter should start by saying 'Dear Sen. Ellender, I believe this year's budget is too large, or I am opposed to federal aid to education, or I appreciate your efforts to reduce our burdening agricultural surpluses.'

"Then the writer might go into a short discussion of why he thinks as he does. In other words, the letter should be to the point and not all over the lot.

"This will allow me to answer them with another pointed statement as to why I think my constituent is right or wrong and to give my reasons for saying so."

Ellender's handy guide to letter writing was in a speech he prepared for radio broadcast in Louisiana. It was the first of a series of such talks he plans to make weekly to his constituents.

He told his constituents that he likes to hear from them but said he just opening and sorting his mail.

"First, it would be most helpful if each letter were confined to a single subject," said Ellender.

He has observed, the senator continued, that many constituents "apparently do not bother to inform themselves on national issues, or on my previous stands on these issues, but all the while seem obligated to write and give me the benefit of their views."

Snow-Plagued Mountain Area To Request Aid

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Watertown and Jefferson County officials declared this snow-plagued mountain section a disaster area Saturday and said they would appeal to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for assistance.

The area has been buried under a snow accumulation of 54 inches. Scores of farmers residing off secondary roads have been stranded.

SPRING, SUMMER STYLES

Paris Fashion Spin To Begin Monday

From tips leaked from those in the know, the ideal Miss 1963 begins to emerge. She is slender, supple, sheathed and elongated. She is sportive but feminine, healthy but never hefty. Her makeup is translucent, showing a gentle honey rose tan. The dead-pan white mask is out.

Designers are recovering from the knee fixation, so the advance word is that hemlines will be down a little.

In contrast to last season's bare backs, this season the view is the front. Focus this spring is on shoulders and wide-open, slashed-to-the-limit necklines.

The mood ranges from romantic to Renaissance. The latter is expressed in new and fancy sleeves. Though all womanly charms are where nature meant them to be shoulders are broadened. This is managed through cut and manipulation of fabric rather than detailing. The fabric skims the figure, slides down the body, bypassing the high small bosom and supple waist line which are guessed at rather than seen.

Skirts will be slim, with ease achieved through pleated panels, columns and sections. Suit jacket lengths depend on the designer's whim. Some like them long. Some like them short. Collars, revers and lapels are pared down to the narrowest ever. Coats of every length, short wraps of every type form spring ensembles. There's some talk of the revival of gray flannel. Buttons are decorative—jeweled, hammered gold, or plain functional bone.

Cocktail dresses drop to ankle length. The long formal dress is stronger than ever, here to stay. Costume jewelry adds gleam and glitter in de luxe designs. New enamels, mixed with Tyrolean-cut stones and gold chains, add sparkle and lustre.

Man Is Charged In Traffic Death

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Alvin P. Hornbeck, 35, was booked with three traffic violations Saturday shortly after Charles H. Cummings, 56, was killed.

Hornbeck was booked with negligent homicide, reckless driving and fleeing the scene of an accident.

U.S. Embassy Says Future Of Laos Threatened

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—The U.S. Embassy said Saturday future of Laos may be in peril because the Communists are trying to wreck the coalition government.

An embassy spokesman said recent actions by the pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrilla army indicates "they are attempting to shift the balance of forces in Laos by seeking to cut off food supplies to isolated refugees."

Two American aid planes flying food and supplies to the mountain Meo tribesmen have been shot down. The Meo tribesmen were loyal to the right-wing government during the civil war.

The spokesman said the guerrillas were trying to force the hill people to submit to Communist control and said this could wreck the coalition government and the Geneva accords ending the civil war.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

We have eight children, and the method we use for formulas for our babies when traveling is to sterilize nursing bottles with the correct amount of formula and sugar in individual feeding amounts . . . using the terminal sterilization method.

We then buy small cans of evaporated milk. Each feeding requires almost all of one can, and I discard whatever small amount is not used.

If the budget permits and travel is frequent, a satisfactory bottle warmer may be used in the cigarette lighter, or any restaurant is usually willing to heat your bottle for you.

Mother-of-eight

DEAR HELOISE:

I have a cut glass decanter and the glass stopper is stuck. I have tried different methods, but no luck.

Gladys Thomas

Anyone have the answer? If so, drop us a line. Write to Heloise, c/o this paper. Letters do not have to be signed to appear.

DEAR HELOISE:

I am an old lady and would like to pass on my family secret of keeping vinegar on the shelf without forming "mother". All we farmers have ever done is just add a little salt to the vinegar. When we mix vinegar with oil, garlic, etc., the added salt will prevent "mother" forming.

J. P.

DEAR HELOISE:

Save the cardboard tubes from paper towels, waxed paper, etc. . . . Tape as many of these together as necessary . . . the width of your blankets or drapes. Take a knife and slit the cardboard tubes on one side only . . . and slip over your clothesline.

I find this is wonderful for keeping creases out of towels, blankets, T-shirts, sweaters and the like where they hang over the line. You can pull the article either way after hanging it on the line, as the tubes roll.

Ima D.

DEAR HELOISE:

Buy an inexpensive jelly roll tin in the dime store. Line this with foil, and sprinkle it freely with salt. Use this as a drip tray under overflowing pie filling or scalloped potatoes.

Home Baker

DEAR HELOISE:

When I am baking a pie I always place my pan with my pie in it in a larger pan when getting ready to bake it. Thus if the contents runs over, they will go into the larger pan rather than onto my oven.

Mrs. Wilber Marshall

DEAR HELOISE:

To move heavy kitchen equipment, such as refrigerator, washer, dryer, etc., squirt liquid detergent on the floor directly in front of the appliance.

Wriggle the equipment slightly toward you, until the feet of the equipment starts sliding on the soap. Then easy as pie, the equipment will slide away from the wall. Then you can clean under it.

The back feet will eventually contact the soap, too, and the reverse action may be applied to slide the equipment back to the wall.

Be careful that you do not step on the soap for you might slip. I am only five feet tall and weigh 115 and do this all the time by myself.

Marie Monson

DEAR HELOISE:

Did you know that if you put ice cubes in a piece of terry cloth—such as a clean towel—and run it across the top of homemade soup . . . all the grease sticks to the towel and you don't have to wait for the soup to cool so the grease will come to the top?

Young Wife

EASY BLEND

DEAR HELOISE:

Before opening a can of soup, shake it several times . . . it will come out so much easier, and it is also easier to blend with milk or water.

Linda Anderson

DEAR HELOISE:

If you want something different for breakfast, slice a banana lengthwise . . . leaving it in the skin.

Sprinkle with salt, sugar, or lemon juice. Place on the plate and serve it for breakfast. Eat it with a spoon!

Mrs. H.

DEAR HELOISE:

If your door make a noise when someone slams it, simply place four or five wide rubber bands around one knob and stretch around the end of the door and slip the ends of the rubber bands on the other knob.

This lessens the noise and is easier on the nerves.

DEAR HELOISE:

For those who do not like tarnished forks caused by egg when we have potato salad, fried eggs for breakfast, etc., I have found that whether I clean the table or not, if I pick up the forks or any silver items that have touched eggs, and immediately place them under water, that tarnish does not occur.

Usually all I do as soon as breakfast is over is pick up the four forks, fill up a glass with water, and place the forks in the water. Anything else we happen to have, such as mashed potatoes that might stick to the tines of the fork, is loosened by the time I get ready to do the dishes.

No Silver Polisher!

DEAR HELOISE:

For those who have silver jewelry which darkens upon exposure to air: I have found that I can put my bracelets, necklace and earrings in a waxed paper sandwich bag, roll the bag up and place it in my drawer.

Not only does the waxed paper bag keep the silver from tarnishing . . . but I can see which pair of earrings, bracelet, etc., I am looking for.

Tody

This feature is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise today in care of this newspaper.

OUR MAYOR, ALPHONSE ASCO? NO!

HA-HA! NOT A CHANCE, MAYOR!

WHADD'YUH MEAN, "NOT A CHANCE"? DON'T Y'SEE THAT'D GIVE US AN EXCUSE T'MOVE IN AND CLEAN OUT ALL THEM FURRINERS?

ONLY THOSE FOREIGNERS DON'T HAVE BAD BOYS RUNNING WILD. EVERYBODY KNOWS THAT!
